Smith and Raper, and Mr. McKie, gave Mr. Robins the place.

The devotional meetings of the Y. M. C. A., commencing with the coming week, will be changed. The two mid-week meetings will simply be interchanged. That is, the half hour devotional meeting Thursday night will be held on Tuesday night and the ten minute Tuesday night prayer meeting will be held in the association room on Thursday night. The hour for each, 7 p. m., is unchanged.

Between now and June the professors of other colleges will take up about one fourth of their class time in explaining their courses in which the students ought to take advanced work. This is done by the professors not to get more men in their courses, for as a matter of fact "it makes no difference" to them if their classes are small. Their object is to give mere illustrations and then to the few, who may be enlightened enough to take the course, to give a unity of study.

According to her base-ball schedule in College Topics, Virginia will play twenty-two games at Charlottesville this spring and only six away from home.

Death of Miss Elva May Abernethy.

Miss Elva May Abernethy, daughter of the late Rev. J. T. Abernethy, of the North Carolina Conference, and Mrs. Anna M. Abernethy, was born at Rutherford College, September 20th, 1878, and died at Advance, N. C., February 21, 1903. She attended a teacher's institute at Mocksville on Saturday, February 14th. On that morning she contracted a deep cold which developed into pneumonia and ended a bright and beautiful life. She was a student of the University 1900-1901, and will be remembered as a faithful and diligent student. Quiet, gentle and modest, guileless in her Christian life, beloved by all who knew her, aspiring to fill a woman's place worthily in a busy world, her death at such an hour, when life seemed so full of promise and usefulness is a striking reminder that death often comes at such an hour as we think not. She was buried from the Methodist church of this place last Monday. A beautiful floral offering was sent by "The King's Daughters," of which she was an esteemed member.

To the bereaved family we extend sincere sympathy.

Many students left the Hill yesterday afternoon and this morning to spend holiday at home Monday.
