A Morning Tonic

A. and M. Correspondence Wadesboro Messenger.

Just a few more words should be said about the game between A. & M. and University of North Carolina. The game was really won by A. & M. by the score of twelve to nothing, but one of the officials just simply cheated us out of it. It could be clearly seen from the beginning of the game that he was determined that A. & M. should not have the game. It was the most daring piece of robbery ever seen in daylight. It has been reported that the University paid him not to let us win the game. I cannot vouch for the truth of this statement, but we all have strong reasons for believing it. The Carolina team played good, clean ball, and our team just walked all over them, but we couldn't defeat them and one of the officials too. Another instance of what money can do. All of this would have been said last week, but it would have been impossible to have been impossible to have kept from saying too much at that time. Every student here was as mad as blue blazes, and not without a cause, either. Carolina can't feel good over this game. She knows that we deserve the game, and her conscience is bound to hurt her.

THE TAR HEEL has never engaged in and does not now propose to enter into a newspaper controversy. It believes that the instances in which good is accomplished by them are rare and that invariably they leave a bad taste in one's mouth. It departs from its custom long enough to call attention to the above because it believes that the bounds of propriety have been far overstepped and that silence in this case would be no virtue.

We shall not debase ourselves by entering into any denial of the charge made against this institution above, one which if true is sufficient to damn it forever in the minds of all right thinking people. But as the authorized spokesman for six hundred and fifty student who resent an attack upon the honor of this institution as an attack upon their own honor we do that which under the circumstances the dignity of the management of the University will not permit it to do, in calling the attention of the Agricultural and Mechanical College to the above clipping, copies of which have been appearing in many State papers, in order that that institution may put itself right before the public. We should regret very much to, and we shall not, believe until we are forced to do so, that the sentiments expressed above have the sanction and the approval of the faculty of A. and M. It is in all probability a mere childish outburst from a thoughtless, irresponsible youngster. But until a statement is made to the contrary the people of the State will regard the quoted utterance as an accurate representation of the feeling of the institution from which they emanate. In the view of the public the A. and M. College has spoken.
