At any rate Chapel Hill gets the deciding game of the series for the Championship of the South.

Since thirty issues constitute a volume of this paper, and since, according to custom, a double issue will be got out after Commencement, next week's will be the last issue before Commencement.

The Washington Post account said: "The Carolina team proved themselves clearly the best team that has played on the Richmond diamond this year. Stem made the only error charged to them and this was more than atoned for by the otherwise great game he put up." And Harvard played there.

The result of the two games with our old rival Virginia was not what it might have been, but it will make the final contest at Chapel Hill much more interesting than it would otherwise have been. Virginia received a sound drubbing at the hands of our team in Richmond, but she paid us back royally in Charlottesville. The outcome of the second game is especially to be regretted, not because we were defeated, but because of the disagreement with the umpire, which resulted in the forfeiture of the game. It was a disagreement, however, not with Virginia but with the umpire, and should in no way disturb the good feeling between the two institutions.

The painting expedition Monday night in celebration of the victory over Virginia furnished an illustration of how college patriotism can be wrongly manifested. The score, along with other expressions more or less superfluous, was raggedly painted on the various buildings to their disfigurement. The consequence was that these will have to be scraped off and the buildings put in shape again. This involves an expenditure of two hundred dollars, coming, we presume, out of the damage fund.

After the baseball season of signal victories in 1903 a number of scores were painted on the west end of the South building so neatly that no one has had the heart to remove them. There have been numerous scores since then which have deserved perpetuation, among them two notable football and three baseball victories, but no one of sufficient skill has accepted the task. We understand that if the job were taken hold of by some one who knows how, as in the first case, and the work neatly done, the scores would be allowed to remain as inspirations to future teams and eye-openers to visitors as well as to future generations of Freshmen.

A. and M. Gets Even.

A. and M. administered to Carolina the first defeat of the season in a fast game in Raleigh Saturday. For the first six innings it was a shut-out for both sides, but one in the seventh and two in the eighth for the Farmers made the score three to nothing.

Patterson was in the box for Carolina and pitched a star game. The three hits registered against him speak volumes for his pitching and for the fielding of the team. The two lonesome swats of the Carolinians tells a similar story for McCathran, the Farmer slab artist, and for the Farmer team. Only three Tar Heels succumbed to his curves, but they were unable to hit him effectively.

In the seventh inning Knox, for the Agriculturalists, reached first on Calder's muff of a fly in left. He was stealing second when the umpire called the fourth ball on Farmer, entitling Knox to second. Rogers, seeing Knox stealing, threw to second. Neither Montgomery nor Story was expecting it so the ball went to center field, while Knox raced home. The next three up went down, leaving Farmer forlornly on first.

The eighth yielded two more. Harris walked and batted to Montgomery, who failed to squeeze it, Harris going to third and Eskridge stealing second. Then Thompson broke loose with a two bagger to left, scoring both.

Summary—Struck out, by McCathran 3, by Patterson 7; earned runs, A. and M. 1; bases on balls, off McCathran 1, off Patterson 3, three base hit, Knox; two base hit, Thompson; umpire, Noble; attendance 900.

Sophs Beat Juniors.

The first class championship game of the season was pulled off Saturday afternoon between the reputable Juniors and the more reputable Sophomores. When the umpire, Fox, said, "You're out!" to the last man up in the ninth inning the score stood 10 to 1—and the "1" was in the Junior column.

The Sophomores completed the circuit four times in the first inning. In the second inning Farabee electrified the Junior supporters by smashing out a home run to right field. This was the second of the season, the first being Calder's line drive in the Lafayette game.

The other features were the fielding of Dunlap for the Sophomores, the hitting of the Sophomores and the errors of the Juniors.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Sophs 4 0 0 1 4 0 0 1—10 11 4
Juniors 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 3 12
