THE TAR HEEL has been requested to make the following announcement:

On account of the impossibility of securing a suitable floor there will be no dancing school at the University this spring.

Signed, Hampden Hill, Chief Ball Manager.

This is a matter for general regret, as the dancing school, which has always been open to everyone in college, has afforded to many men here in the past absolutely the only social training that they have received at the University. This amount, small as it is, should not be withdrawn, for it is the duty of the University to train its students for society as well as for business. The use of Commons Hall has been denied for dancing, with sufficient reason, but why should not the floor at the gymnasium take its place? The service which the gymnasium would render the students in this manner would only be slightly less than that which it renders as a place for exercise.

Loss of the dancing school will also mean loss of student attendance at Commencement. Many of the men in the lower classes have no opportunity of learning to dance other than that afforded by the dancing class at the Hill. These men will not remain for Commencement unless they are able to take part in the dances. The University is especially anxious to keep these men during Commencement. It can add at least twenty-five to the list of attendants upon Commencement from among the undergraduates by granting the use of the gymnasium floor for a dancing school.

THE baseball schedule, just given out by Manager Robinson is a good one. With the prospect of two games with Virginia and two games to be played on the Jamestown Exposition grounds the men on the diamond cannot help working hard. The fact that most of the games are to be played on the Hill will be of great value, too, as it will do more toward arousing the interest of the college in athletics than could anything else. Players and students alike are all anxious now for the season to open.

THIS ISSUE of THE TAR HEEL announces the resuming of athletic relations with the University of Virginia, and also the certainty of a debate with that institution. Carolina's debaters will now have the opportunity that they have so long desired of meeting in the forensic field the rival that her athletes have cherished as such a dear enemy through so many student generations.

WE cannot help wondering for what purpose the library invested in the folders for the different weeklies, Leslie's, Harper's, Puck, Judge, and the rest.

Book Review.

Prof. Lucius McGehee, of the law department, has published recently a book entitled "Due Process of Law Under the Federal Constitution" which belongs to a series of studies in constitutional law attempting to describe critically the actual working of certain fundamental ideas in our law. In speaking of Professor McGehee's work The Nation says:

"It should be as interesting to any intelligent reader as to the professional man, since it deals accurately and clearly with a subject of which some phase or other is under daily discussion. The regulation of railway rates, the protection against impure food, the suppression of child-labor and monopolies, the validity of a decree for divorce based on constructive service, are but a few of the problems in which "due process" is involved. Though the author usually states the views of the court in its own words, he succeeds in being concise as well as readable, and criticises modestly, but firmly. The rules expounded are as far as possible based on decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States."

Visiting Committee.

A committee from the Legislature visited the University Monday and Tuesday for the purpose of inspecting the buildings and equipment of the college. The committee consisted of Representatives W. K. Jacobson, of Beaufort, chairman, W. T. Foushee, of Randolph, S. M. Jones, of Pitt, S. H. Galloway, of Transylvania, and J. U. Gibbs, of Swain.

These gentlemen compose the Committee on Education, the duty of which is to visit all of the educational institutions in North Carolina receiving state support. The committee came here from the Normal School at Greensboro, and went from the University to A. & M. College. It expressed itself as being well pleased with conditions here.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller has recently added $32,000,000 to the $11,000,000 already given by him, to be primarily devoted to higher education in the United States. This enormous sum is in the hands of a corporation known as the General Educational Board, of which President E. A. Alderman, of the University of Virginia, is a member, which board will have charge of the donations, amounting to $43,000,000, or more.
