BASEBALL practice has begun in earnest. Coach Stocksdale arrived on the Hill last week and has had his men out on the diamond every afternoon. He seems to have made a most favorable impression upon the students. The talk that he made to the candidates on the first practice day, promising a square deal to every man regardless of class, age, or previous experience, was such as to inspire confidence and establish the proper footing between coach and players.

In reviewing Mr. Stocksdale's record as a player and as a man, one comes readily to the conclusion that Carolina is indeed fortunate in securing such a man to look after her interest on the diamond. Though it has been years since we played Trinity College, it is a fact that she has had one of the best teams in the State—owing largely to Mr. Stocksdale's power as a coach. We see, then, no reason why, with the large number of candidates that have reported for practice and with a perfect understanding between Coach and players, Carolina should not put in the field one of the best teams she has had in years.

THE success of our baseball team depends largely on the non-playing students. Manager Gray has done his part, there is no doubt but that Coach Stocksdale and Captain James will do their parts, and it is now up to the students. Play if you can; if you cannot, do everything in your power to help and encourage the men who do try for places on the team. And you cannot begin your work too early. Now is the time.

EDGAR JACKSON RIGGSBEE was our friend, and it was with a sense of personal loss that we heard of his death. As we have mentioned elsewhere in these columns, he was generous and frank, and an inimitable story-teller. Many a time have we sat almost for hours at a time and listened to his delightful flow of anecdotes. To the bereaved parents we extend our deepest sympathy.

FOR the rest of this week the campus will be a scene of liveliness and gaiety. The Junior Week festivities will begin tonight with the presentation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's old comedy, "The Rivals," followed by the Senior reception. Friday the two dances will be given. All in all the occasion promises to be one of the brightest and happiest of the entire year.

WE appeal to the students to join the Athletic Association. Hand in your name before March 1.

Miss Wilson Dead.

Miss Mamie Wilson, sister of Dr. T. J. Wilson, Jr., was found dead in bed yesterday morning. She seemed to be perfectly well upon retiring Tuesday night and her death is supposed to have been due to heart disease.

About six thirty o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Llorens, a Cuban student, who rooms in the office building in the yard, according to his custom tapped on the window of Miss Wilson's room to wake her. Receiving no response he tapped again and again, and finally waked little Miss Helen Brown, niece to Miss Wilson, who was sleeping with her. She attempted to wake her aunt, but failing she ran upstairs to call her grandmother. Mrs. Wilson came down and she too could get no response from her daughter.

Dr. W. B. MacNider was immediately sent for, and upon investigation he found that Miss Wilson was dead.

The interment will take place this afternoon at the Chapel Hill cemetery.

DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE

Undergraduate Department. The One Hundred and Forty-second Session will begin September 27, 1907. The course, which covers a period of four years, of eight and one-half months each, is eminently practical, and properly graded, beginning with laboratory instruction in the fundamental subjects, and concluding with a comprehensive system of clinical instruction, terminating in the Fourth Year with the assignment of students as clinical clerks in the Hospital.

A large proportion (at least 80 per cent.) of the graduating classes secure positions as Resident Physicians in Hospitals.

Summer School for Graduates. The clinics and laboratories of this Department are open throughout the year for the benefit of those who wish to engage in graduate work. For those whose time is more limited, a comprehensive course is given, beginning this year May 13, and continuing for a period of six weeks. This course is designed to meet the needs of the practitioner.
