ter conditions of living. That doesn't mean, either, that we are all pessimists and think things are now so bad, but we want to see them better. How are we to get better conditions? The heart of the world's problems is spiritual.

"Take first the commercial life. The past few years has revealed awful conditions of corruption in our commercial life. We have seen great rottenness there. The disclosures have put us all to shame. What's the matter? We say the trouble is with the corporations. The corporations are nothing but the men who compose them. It's not the corporation but the man. What's the matter with the man? Why, his moral nature is corrupt. What's back of the moral nature of man? Why, his spiritual nature. Just like the fountain. If it is pure, the water that flows from it is pure; if it is impure the water is impure?

He dealt with the problem in the social life in the same way, saying "What constitutes the social life? You say the community. But get closer. What makes up the community? The homes make the community. What makes the home? The individuals who compose it. What controls the individual life? The moral life back of it."

He repeated that, "The heart of the world's problems is spiritual, and if you want to reform industrial life, commercial, social, intellectual, you must control the spiritual element."

He then spoke of the great opportunity the ministry gave a man to deal with these problems at their fountain head. "The ministry" he said, "deals with these problems in an elemental, a fundamental way by teaching, 'Ye must be born again.'"

The First Game.

Spring has come and the umpire's voice is heard—or will be Saturday afternoon when the Carolina boys will go up against the team from Bingham School. It is not expected that the exhibition of ball playing will equal in brilliancy a National League game, but it is certain that the game will be worth the price—twenty-five cents.

Not a few of the local fans are anxious to see the Tar Heel boys chase the sphere once more, and this will be the first opportunity for doing so in several moons. Wherefore it is expected that a large crowd will turn out to see the game.

The field is being put into excellent shape. At the suggestion of the coach the diamond has been arranged so that it is somewhat in the shape of a turtle's back—like the famous "turtle" diamond at Memphis. When the field becomes thoroughly dry and packed it will be in better condition than ever before.

Another much needed improvement has been made. A gate has been cut between the bleachers and the grand-stand, so that the grand-stand devotees will not be compelled to pass in front of the bleachers and run the gauntlet of several hundred curious eyes.

By the way, the peanut boys will be on hand. Oh, the good old days are coming.

THE MOST PROFITABLE YEAR OF HIS LIFE

A Patron Writes About Bingham.

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 6th, 1908. Prof. Preston Lewis Gray, Mebane, N. C.

Dear Sir:—My son Robert left on the morning train for Bingham. If his progress is as satisfactory in the next five months as it has been in the past three months, it will have been the most profitable year of his life, to say nothing of sowing the good seed for the future.

I shall be on the look out for pupils: rest assured, I shall always speak for Bingham.

Wishing for you and Mrs. Gray a happy and prosperous New Year, I am,
 Sincerely yours,
 MRS. F. R. STRANGE.
