ONE that was a friend of the University in its direst need has departed this life, and though Mrs. Spencer was in her 83rd year her death came as a surprise to her many friends in Chapel Hill. The arrival of the funeral party Saturday cast a gloom over the entire town. Many of the students knew little of her life and they listened with closest attention to the older members of the faculty as they told of her work for the University—a work equalled only by that of Dr. Kemp Plummer Battle. Her labors are spoken of in a beautiful manner by Mrs. Geo. T. Winston in the News and Observer for Friday:

"Educationally Mrs. Spencer perhaps contributed more than any other person to the revival of the University in 1875, after its overthrow by the carpet-baggers. She wrote and spoke and prayed unceasingly for the overthrow of the foul gang that were polluting the University halls and for the restoration of the University to its own. Her labors, her prayers were answered. She lived to see the day of triumph, to decorate the college chapel with glad garlands and to write the hymn of rejoicing that was sung at the re-opening exercises."

THE game Saturday was a revelation. No one expected to see what even the veriest novice could call a good game. But every one was pleasantly disappointed. The game was nothing short of a battle royal between the pitchers—with Bob Howard, of American, South Atlantic, Virginia, and Carolina fame, on the one side, and Carolina's untried trio, Fullenwider, Duls, and Stewart on the other.

Howard, by holding Carolina down to two hits, demonstrated the fact that his fame is deserved, and Fullenwider more than demonstrated his ability by striking out every man that faced him. Both Duls and Stewart showed that they have in them the stuff of which pitchers are made.

On the whole the game was satisfactory. Of course every one expected that Carolina would roll up a much larger score, but that was before it was known that Howard would pitch. However, an errorless game on the part of Carolina at the very beginning of the season seems to give evidence that the team will be worthy of Stockdale and of Carolina.

Oak Ridge and Lafayette.

Before The Tar Heel again makes its appearance Carolina will have played two games of baseball—one with Oak Ridge Saturday and one with Lafayette Wednesday.

Though Oak Ridge is merely a prep. school, it has for a number of years put a team in the field that a college might well be proud to claim, and it is expected that the game Saturday will be well worth seeing. The admission is 25 cents.

Lafayette invariably has a good team and the game Wednesday will probably be one of the best that will be played on the Hill this spring. It is understood that a number of visitors will be on hand from various parts of the State to witness the game. The admission is 50 cents.

Class Schedule.

The class baseball schedule was arranged yesterday afternoon. It is as follows:

MARCH.

- 17—Fresh-Junior.
- 19—Soph-Senior.
- 20—Med-Law.
- 23—Junior-Pharmacy.
- 24—Fresh-Soph.
- 28—Senior-Med.
- 30—Pharmacy-Law.

APRIL.

- 2—Junior-Senior.
- 3—Med-Fresh.
- 4—Pharmacy-Med.
- 7—Senior-Fresh.
- 8—Soph-Junior.
- 9—Fresh-Law.
- 15—Senior-Pharmacy.
- 17—Junior-Law.
- 18—Soph-Pharmacy.
- 20—Fresh-Pharmacy.
- 21—Senior Law.
- 22—Soph-Med.
- 25—Soph-Law.
- 28—Junior-Med.

It was decided that the championship should be determined by percentage, the two teams having the largest percentage playing three games to decide it.

DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE

Undergraduate Department. The One Hundred and Forty-second Session will begin September 27, 1907. The course, which covers a period of four years, of eight and one-half months each, is eminently practical, and properly graded, beginning with laboratory instruction in the fundamental subjects, and concluding with a comprehensive system of clinical instruction, terminating in the Fourth Year with the assignment of students as clinical clerks in the Hospital.

A large proportion (at least 80 per cent.) of the graduating classes secure positions as Resident Physicians in Hospitals.

Summer School for Graduates. The clinics and laboratories of this Department are open throughout the year for the benefit of those who wish to engage in graduate work. For those whose time is more limited, a comprehensive course is given, beginning this year May 13, and continuing for a period of six weeks. This course is designed to meet the needs of the practitioner.

For further information, apply to the Dean of the Medical Department, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.
