FOR the third time this spring Carolina has won the victory in a debating contest, this time with her long-time rival Georgia. There be those who say that the University of North Carolina attaches too little importance to this form of intercollegiate contest, that entirely too much thought is given to athletics. We wonder upon what grounds these wiseacres will base such sayings now. Four intercollegiate debates in one year, to say nothing of numerous intersociety contests, is by no means a small dose, and when our boys win three out of the four it seems to indicate that the debating status of our University is not being lowered, despite the fact we get out a baseball team and a football team and a track team.

The debate Friday night was interesting. The Georgia men—who, by the way, seemed to be fine fellows, for they took their defeat as gracefully as the most exacting could expect—came to Chapel Hill loaded for bear and seemed determined to carry a pelt back with them. But others were likewise loaded for bear. Rand and Tillett showed that they had studied the question thoroughly and knew whereof they spoke. And though the contest was exceedingly close, the balance leaned toward the Tar Heels, and all loyal supporters of the White and Blue rejoiced.

IN the death of Professor Joshua Walker Gore the University of North Carolina has lost one of her most loyal friends. He gave twenty-six of the best years of his life to the University and in that time he won the love of his fellow members of the faculty and of a host of students who came under his influence.

Prof. Gore was a perfect gentleman, a Christian, and one of the best instructors in the faculty. His going, though not unexpected, has left a vacancy that will never be filled and a sadness in the hearts of many that years cannot efface.

CHIEF Ball Manager Orr tells us that as matters now stand he cannot estimate with any accuracy the amount of the receipts at Commencement, and consequently he is puzzled as to how much money to spend. It is urgently desired that those who intend to stay for Commencement should help him.

Carolina Intercollegiate Debates.

The Georgia debate ended Carolina's 12th year of successful debating. During that time she has met the University of Georgia, Vanderbilt University, Johns Hopkins University, Washington & Lee, George Washington University, the University of Virginia, and the University of Pennsylvania.

In the past collegiate year despite the fact that four strong opponents were met North Carolina won three victories, losing to Pennsylvania by a vote of two to one. Of the total of twenty two debates Carolina has won 16; and of the six lost only 3 were lost by a unanimous decision. Following is the list:

- 1897 Georgia. H. G. Connor, Jr., and D. B. Smith, won by Georgia.
1898 Georgia. W. J. Brogden and E. K. Graham, won by Carolina.
1899 Georgia. E. D. Broadhurst and T. C. Bowie, won by Carolina.
1900 Vanderbilt. W. S. Bernard and W. Kluttz, won by Carolina.
1900 Georgia. W. H. Swift and D. P. Parker, won by Carolina.

1908 George Washington. T. W. Andrews and W. P. Stacy, won by Carolina.
1908 University of Virginia. J. T. Johnston and J. W. Hester, won by Carolina.
1908 Georgia. C. W. Tillett, Jr. and O. R. Rand, won by Carolina.

Fresh-Soph Debate.

The Fresh-Soph debate will be held on the night of April 24. The query is, "Resolved, That the merging of the cotton mills of the South into one corporation would promote the industrial interests of the South." The Phi's representatives, Messrs. J. A. McKay and J. A. Highsmith, will defend the affirmative, and the Di's representatives, Messrs. C. R. Wharton and A. H. Wolfe, will defend the negative.

DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE

Undergraduate Department. The One Hundred and Forty-second Session will begin September 27, 1907. The course, which covers a period of four years, of eight and one-half months each, is eminently practical, and properly graded, beginning with laboratory instruction in the fundamental subjects, and concluding with a comprehensive system of clinical instruction, terminating in the Fourth Year with the assignment of students as clinical clerks in the Hospital.

A large proportion (at least 80 per cent.) of the graduating classes secure positions as Resident Physicians in Hospitals.

Summer School for Graduates. The clinics and laboratories of this Department are open throughout the year for the benefit of those who wish to engage in graduate work. For those whose time is more limited, a comprehensive course is given, beginning this year May 18, and continuing for a period of six weeks. This course is designed to meet the needs of the practitioner.

For further information, apply to the Dean of the Medical Department, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.
