THIS is the last appearance of The Tar Heel until after Commencement. Examinations are drawing nigh and the editors must lay aside the pencil and bend a few energies toward drawing a pass. In fact we have an idea that a good many energies will be bent toward this same end before the paper again emerges from the gloom of Manager Plummer's print shop, not only by the editors, but also by some hundreds of other waiters upon the anxious seat. It is not an easy task to study, now that the grass is green (and has been recently mowed) and the birds do sing, but when the thought happens along that a day of reckoning will come, there is a mighty sighing and the book is slowly opened.

We are in a reminiscent mood and it is hard not to yield to the temptation to bore our readers with "shop talk" of the long winded variety—but for more reasons than one we desist: we must needs open a few books and, besides, the paper is "full up with stuff" and we would rather wait until the double issue after Commencement, in which there will be more space to "gas."

It was a greivous sight to see Friday night at the Glee Club entertainment not a few men taking in the show from the outside. We would like to think that the thing was done thoughtlessly, but thoughtlessly or otherwise, such conduct, in our opinion, is hardly worthy of University men.

Resolutions.

The committee appointed by the Faculty at its last meeting, April 15, 1908, to take suitable action on the death of Joshua Walker Gore, Professor of Physics and Dean of the School of Applied Sciences in the University of North Carolina, would submit the following resolutions:

First. In the death of Prof. Gore the State loses a man whose influence upon one, to all, to life may individuals, to clubs, to classes.

Let me then urge upon you that you consider their bills that you pay them. If you owe your class assessment—and a many of you do—it were both wise of yourself and man whose death it now mourns and who for twenty-six years labored unceasingly for its welfare. His sympathy with his students, his devotion to the highest ideals of his department, his practical insight into the more technical details of organization and administration make it difficult to fill his place and impossible to forget his service.

Third. As a friend and colleague the Faculty would put on record their cherished memory of the Christian gentleman whose genial disposition lightened the weight of many a common task, whose unwearying kindness of heart found expression in a constant regard for the happiness of others, and whose unalterable sense of duty will remain as an abiding example to those who shall come after him.

Fourth. It is the desire of the Faculty that an engrossed copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Gore with the assurance of a tender sympathy and of a common loss; and that copies be mailed for publication to the Baltimore Sun, the Charlotte Observer, the Raleigh News and Observer, the Biblical Recorder, the University Magazine, the Tar Heel, and the Chapel Hill News.

A Card of Thanks.

The Yackety Yack will this year be out on time and the students may well be glad; for it is no easy job to get this book ready in due time. The editor-in-chief wishes to say that the steady work of the entire board has made the appearance of the book on time possible. He wishes to thank the entire board for their loyal support and at the same time to give especial mention to Messrs. Phillips, Graham, Fountain and Osborne. And as for the business managers, they have run John A Parker for a close second.

There has been perfect harmony within the board of editors and there has not been a single conflict between the editors and business managers. The whole board of editors and managers have worked as a unit for a common end, and that was to give the college a good annual and to give it to the students before they leave the Hill.

Editor-in-Chief.

Yackety Yack.

The Business Managers of the Yackety Yack have requested me to state, and as emphatically as possible, that no Yackety Yacks will be delivered till all college bills are paid. They have adopted John A. and Big Seagle for their models, and will refuse to show a single book till all bills have been paid. If you have paid yours, don't cuss the managers, but cuss the fellow who hasn't paid. It is business on the part of Matthews and Muse, and pure cussedness on the part of the fellow who won't pay. For one, I heartily indorse this resolution on the part of Matthews and Muse, and sincerely hope that they will stick up to it.

At any rate, they say that no books will be delivered to anybody everybody has paid.

DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE

Undergraduate Department. The One Hundred and Forty-second Session will begin September 27, 1907. The course, which covers a period of four years, of eight and one-half months each, is eminently practical, and properly graded, beginning with laboratory instruction in the fundamental subjects, and concluding with a comprehensive system of clinical instruction, terminating in the Fourth Year with the assignment of students as clinical clerks in the Hospital.

A large proportion (at least 80 per cent.) of the graduating classes secure positions as Resident Physicians in Hospitals.

Summer School for Graduates. The clinics and laboratories of this Department are open throughout the year for the benefit of those who wish to engage in graduate work. For those whose time is more limited, a comprehensive course is given, beginning this year May 13, and continuing for a period of six weeks. This course is designed to meet the needs of the practitioner.
