

THE CLASS DAY EXERCISES.

(Continued from page 8.)

and do battle with the world in a manner worthy of the sons of Carolina. And so there was a drop of sorrow in the cup of joy.

They marched from the well to the poplar, keeping step with the delightful music furnished by the University band, and formed a semi-circle around the tree. Statistician James A. Gray, Jr., of Winston-Salem, was called upon for his report. He varied the order of the usual class statistics, and instead of reading them in disconnected fashion, he had them woven into a narrative with proper unity, coherence, and emphasis.

The total age of the class foots up 1,307 years, the average being 23, the actual ages ranging from 30 to 18. Other distinctions follow: Tallest man, Huffman, 6 feet 3; shortest, Umstead, 5 feet 5; heaviest, Cobb, 192; most studious, Speas; most notable ink-slinger, Phillips; best read, Andrews; broadest minded, Robins; best also most all-round athlete, Singletery; shrewdest, Gray; best singer and dancer, Orr; best looking, Britt; biggest bluff, Simmons and Williams; most popular, Hester.

At the conclusion of the statistician's report, the Seniors seated themselves in a circle around the tree. President Rand lighted the peace pipe, and slowly, solemnly it went the rounds—and some there were who feigned awkwardness and some there were who had no feigning to do.

Then the songs were sung and the yells were yelled. Some of the songs were those which for generations have thrilled the hearts of the men of Carolina and some were of recent birth. Especially appropriate was one of the new songs, written to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland," by B. Troy Groome, of Greensboro.

And then the benches upon which the Seniors had sat in the gloaming and sung the songs of Carolina were carried to the well, demolished by Singletery and Phillips, and burned. And while the flames leaped high toward the heavens, the Seniors again gave voice to their songs. But some there were whose voices were husky, for the end was at hand.

TWO CONVINCING SERMONS.

(Continued from page 3.)

purpose of education is power of will, of thought, of action, of determining, of governing ourself, of using one's faculties.

The speaker pleaded for a large and generous conception of the worth of all truth. Knowledge is a moral act; the instrumentality of knowledge is not reason alone, but the entire personality. Salvation is character, the evolution of Christ in us. That is wisdom toward which true scholarship is pointed. The highest act of manhood is that when man rouses himself and acknowledges God as God and His will as law.

THE Y. M. C. A. SERMON.

Dr. Smith's text was Matt. 11:29, "Learn of me." His first proposition was that character is the supreme essential and crown of manhood. The name of a certain brilliant New York senator, he said, you never see now in the newspapers. It has sunk into an obscurity, total and pathetic. A few years ago that name was ever before the public eye as the synonym of wit and eloquence and popularity. Suddenly the discovery came that character was lacking, and with one consent the people buried him alive.

The second proposition was that in the realm of character Jesus Christ is the world's greatest master. Third, since character is the goal of manhood and since Christ is the supreme master in that realm, it follows that to attain the highest in character we must put ourselves under the guidance of Christ. This proposition is based on the self-evident fact that our best guide in any region of matter, of mind, is the man who has most thoroughly mastered that region. Fourth, the student must expect to have many of his pre-suppositions corrected by the larger knowledge of the Great Master. This requires no proof. It is true in every branch of thought and effort. When the student in character comes to the Supreme Master in this realm, one of his first surprises is the discovery that the attainment of the highest in character is a vastly larger undertaking than he had dreamed of.

The last proposition was that the sensible student will take his first lesson first and Christ's first lesson is "Follow Me," not a book or a theology or an institution, but a person. Whatever our doubts and difficulties, this much is clear: it is our duty to follow the best we know; Christ is the best we know; therefore, it is our duty, nay our privilege, to follow Him.

TUESDAY, FINAL GREAT DAY.

(Continued from page 2.)

The following instructors and assistants have been appointed:

Mathematics, D. K. G. Henry and J. C. Hines, Jr., (fellow, J. W. Speas); Greek fellow, T. W. Dickson; Latin assistant, W. M. Gaddy; geology assistant, D. McN. Phillips; physics instructor, T. J. McManis; assistant, B. W. Jones; zoology assistant, C. F. Kirkpatrick; botany assistant, Elden Bayley; chemistry, W. M. Oates, D. MacRae, C. Bransford; chemistry fellows, L. G. Southard, E. J. Newell. In the library: Fellows, B. E. Washburn, G. T. Whitley; assistants, W. W. Michaux, J. W. Umstead, Jr. Anatomy assistants, E. C. Judd, R. L. Payne. Secretary Y. M. C. A., E. E. Barnett, of Vanderbilt University.

The University has received a bequest of $500 from the estate of Margaret E. Bridgers.

At the request of the North Carolina Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, permission has been granted to erect a suitable memorial to the sons of the University who in 1861-1865 entered the armies of the Southern Confederacy.

The North Carolina Society of the Colonial Dames of America have established a first prize of $50 and a second prize $25 for the best essays on the colonial period of the Province of North Carolina.

HONORARY DEGREES.

At the conclusion of the announcements the honorary degree of D.D. was conferred upon Rev. St. Clair Hester, of Brooklyn, and Rev. N. M. Watson, of the Haw River Circuit, formerly pastor of the Methodist Church at this place; and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon President L. L. Hobbs, of Guilford College, Mr. J. Y. Joyner, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Judge Connor and Judge Platt D. Walker, both of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

The pronouncement of the benediction formally ended the commencement.

Cornell University Medical College

NEW REQUIREMENT FOR ADMISSION

COLLEGE DEGREE THE STANDARD

In and after 1908 candidates for admission to Cornell University Medical College must be graduates of approved colleges or scientific schools. For further information address:

Wm. M. Polk, M.D., LL.D., Dean

Cornell University Medical College

First Avenue and 28th Street, New York City

WHY REFINED

IS THE

Most Harmless Tobacco For Smokers

Because the intense heat as used in the refining process, purifies tobacco and preserves the full cheering qualities of the high class tobaccos used for this brand, "REFINED"

Process Patented July 30, 1907

Awarded Gold Medal at Jamestown Exposition

On sale by dealers who cater for patronage of smokers who care

Boys! For Spring See

Kluttz's line of Oxfords—Ties and Fancy Shirts—You save money and get the Latest.

Souvenir Pins, Pennants, and Post Cards—The latest designs—Just received and to arrive.

The New Style Straw Hats are beauties.

Trade with KLUTTZ and get the best satisfaction. Respectfully,

A. A. KLUTTZ.

Gooch's Restaurant

(Opposite the post office)

is the place to get OYSTERS at all hours. Also a line of Fine Candies, Fruits, Canned Goods, and Tobacco.

Guilford-Benbow Hotels.

Automatic Fire Alarm in Every Room. Telephone in Bed Rooms, of which one hundred have Private Baths attached.

European and American Plans.

CORPENING & FRY, Proprietor. GREENSBORO, N. C.

1765

University of Pennsylvania

1907

DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE

Undergraduate Department. The One Hundred and Forty-second Session will begin September 27, 1907. The course, which covers a period of four years, of eight and one-half months each, is eminently practical, and properly graded, beginning with laboratory instruction in the fundamental subjects, and concluding with a comprehensive system of clinical instruction, terminating in the Fourth Year with the assignment of students as clinical clerks in the Hospital.

A large proportion (at least 80 per cent.) of the graduating classes secure positions as Resident Physicians in Hospitals.

Summer School for Graduates. The clinics and laboratories of this Department are open throughout the year for the benefit of those who wish to engage in graduate work. For those whose time is more limited, a comprehensive course is given, beginning this year May 13, and continuing for a period of six weeks. This course is designed to meet the needs of the practitioner.

For further information, apply to the Dean of the Medical Department, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.