THE EDITORS OF The Tar Heel enter upon their duties this year with no feeling of confidence or assurance, but are rather oppressed with the sense of the grave responsibilities which these duties entail, and their inability to measure up to the demands of these responsibilities. What problems the year has in store for us we cannot even conjecture, but only entertain the hope that they do not far exceed our powers. The readers of The Tar Heel need not expect from us the brilliant outbreaks of Stephenson, or the literary couchings of Mills, or the virile style of Gunter, but only ordinary things in an ordinary manner. It is our intention, however, to do our best (even though that be ordinary) and to prove ourselves in some degree worthy of the trust reposed in us. We desire the assistance and encouragement of every student in college, for, without the assistance and encouragement of the students, we have failed already. Again we say that we will try to do our best, and if we fail to measure up to the high standard of our predecessors, lay the failure to the blame of the head, not of the heart.

To the new students we extend our cordial greetings. The University life, of which they have heard so much and known so little, is now before them. Already perhaps their short acquaintance with it has disillusioned them of some of its halos. The historic walls are made of common brick and the classic shades are ordinary shadows. This disillusion has not come without a tinge of sadness but we trust that with it is coming the realization that University life is none the less worth while. The appreciation of its full worth comes with the months and the years. The sadness of the disenchantment gives place to a love of its realities that is both deep and lasting.

THE Athletic Association, according to the constitution adopted last year, has for its primary purpose the efficient management of University athletics. Every student in the University should have a part in the management of athletics, and consequently every student should be a member of the Athletic Association. Membership in the Association has for its basis a one dollar fee. By joining the Association a student helps to manage athletics and at the same time contributes to its financial support. The Athletic Association is simply the organized expression of college patriotism and spirit; and as such should have the support of every student in the University.

THE football season is on. Our prospects are the brightest since 1905. Sixty candidates have reported for duty. Four elevens are in practice every afternoon. With an able coach, an experienced captain, efficient managers, and determined candidates, the football season of 1908 bids fair to be triumphant for the White and Blue.

THE TAR HEEL was sent to every student in college this week. The price is one dollar and a half a year. Hand your name to the business manager at once.

The Outlook for Football

Hanes, Pinnix, Rhodes, Rawlings, Williams, McLean and Ritch. The most promising looking new men are as follows: Small and Lambeth, ends. Norwood and Coleman, tackles; Iseley, guard; Morrison, center; Barker, Schimpf and Jones, quarter-back; Watington, Ray and Hedgpath, backfield. There are several others out who are playing hard, and they will probably be heard from later.

Class Teams Will Begin Work at Once.

MR. W. P. JACOBS, '04, four years a member of the 'Varsity football team, All-Southern quarter-back, and an all-round athlete, has been made Class Athletic Director. He wishes all candidates for the different class teams to report on the new class athletic field, so that he can begin to acquaint them with the principles of football. It is especially desirable that all the big, husky Freshmen, who are not trying for the 'Varsity, come out for their class teams. Heretofore the freshman team has each year sent several good men to the 'Varsity and scrub elevens, and, in fact, is looked upon as a stepping stone to the 'Varsity. A little later when the class managers and captains have been elected a schedule of games will be arranged for the inter-class championship contest.
