G. C. PICKARD & CO.,
G. C. PICKARD, & Co. - PROPS

DON'T forget Hall the barber. He can stop the hair from falling out.

Mr. Oscar R. Rand, '08, came up from Smithfield to take part in the "College Night" exercises. Mr. Rand will leave Saturday for New York where he sails Wednesday for Oxford University, England.

"Fie" Fulenwider, Carolina's star pitcher of last spring and the record pitcher of the Carolina league this summer, came over for a few days last week from Greensboro, where he is taking pharmacy quizzes.

Mr. T. W. Andrews, '08, who was recently elected County Superintendent of Public Instruction in Orange County, was back on the Hill for "College Night" and made on that occasion a ringing speech on "The Di and the Phi".

Messrs. Rush Shull and James Davis, of last year's second year med. class, have gone to Philadelphia to enter the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. Messrs. Rowe, Kloman, Fiscus, and Webb will enter Jefferson.

Mr. O. W. Hyman and C. O. Robinson were elected associate editors by the Tar Heel board to fill the places of Mr. D. B. Teague and Mr. Lindsey Warren. Mr. Teague has been appointed assistant editor-in-chief and Mr. Warren will not return to college.

Mr. Fred Stem, '07, made the all-Tri-State team. He was first baseman on the Trenton, New Jersey team of the Tri-State League. Yesterday's Washington Post brings the news that he is now playing with the Boston National League Club, and in his first game made a good impression getting one hit off of Mordecai Brown and making no errors.

Under the direction of chairman J. B. Reeves the Y. M. C. A. conducted an information bureau during registration days. Fifteen students assisted Mr. Reeves in conducting the information bureau. The book exchange was under the charge of L. F. Turlington. It was opened Wednesday and closed Saturday. One hundred and eight placed books on sale and two hundred and thirty dollars were handled without commission.

The Student Athletic Committee, which was appointed last spring by the Athletic Association to make known the educational and athletic advantages of the University, has been at work during the summer. A professor in one of the colleges in the state seemed to think that the committee was appointed for the purpose of offering "inducements" to athletes. However, he was mistaken. The committee has offered no inducements to any athlete to come here, but has merely set forth the advantages of the University training, and its opportunities for athletic development. At present the committee is composed of Jas. A. Gay, Jr., Chairman, W. M. Gaddy, and B. L. Banks, Jr.

Carolina's first inter-collegiate debate for this year has been arranged with the University of Pennsylvania. The debate will be held in Philadelphia sometime this fall. The exact date has not yet been fixed. The query is: "Resolved, That the pooling of interstate rates and traffic should be legalized." Carolina will defend the negative. The first debate with Pennsylvania was held last fall in Chapel Hill and was won by Pennsylvania. Every student who intends to enter for this debate should give his name to the secretary of his literary society. Several experienced debaters have already entered and the indications are that a strong team will contest with the Quakers in "The City of Brotherly Love".

Next Sunday afternoon Prof. E. W. Mims, of Trinity College, one of the foremost English scholars of the South, will make an address to the students of the University. The occasion will be the Bible study rally of the Young Men's Christian Association. The following Thursday Mr. E. C. Mercer, graduate of the University of Virginia, and Mr. W. D. Weatherford, graduate of Vanderbilt, will be here to make addresses to the students of the University. Mr. Weatherford is the international secretary of the South. Mr. Mercer is one of the most powerful speakers now engaged in addressing college men.
