TENNESSEE UNIVERSITY WON

BY THE SCORE OF TWELVE TO NOTHING

The Tennessee Eleven Composed of Eight Veterans Won From Varsity Saturday

Carolina's first game in foreign territory resulted disastrously. Tennessee clipped the wings of the "Tar Heel" bunch in Knoxville Saturday, the score being 12 to 0. Neither team could score in the first half, though Capt. Leach of Tennessee missed two field goals by a very narrow margin. After McCollum, the Tennessee fullback, grabbed a fumbled forward pass on his own 30 yard line, and dashed the length of the field for a touchdown, Tennessee had things her own way. The second touchdown was the result of two on-side kicks and line plunges by McCollum after the ball had been placed on Carolina's 10 yard line. The stars for Tennessee were Capt. Leach and McCollum; for Carolina, Capt. Thomas, Ruffin, and Kelly.

The Tennessee team is composed almost entirely of veterans, eight of last year's stars having returned, and every effort is being made by the Knoxville boys to annex the Southern Championship. Carolina's defeat was due to the fact that her opponent had the forward pass and on-side kick working to perfection, for Tennessee made very few gains on line bucks and end runs.

The following account of the game, taken from Sunday's "Nashville Tennessean," was written by Grantland Rice, "Sporting Editor" of that paper, who refereed the game.

"Tennessee made her first strong bid for Southern supremacy upon her new battlefield today, romping away with Carolina's output of talent by the score of 12 to 0. Levene's men went after the Tar Heels' fetlocks with a rush. Believing they have a great chance to win every battle played, including the Commodore game, the Knoxville Volunteers hammered down Carolina's defense in the first half and ran up two touchdowns in the second. The first score resulted in a fumbled forward pass which McCollum of Tennessee grabbed on the run and raced seventy yards for the goal line untouched. The second resulted from successful forward passes, fine end running by Capt. Leach, and tackle bucks by McCollum.

"With eight veterans in the field, and a powerful back field primed for battle, the Tennessee squad had Carolina's measure taken from the jump. Captain Leach was a tremendous power, both offensively and defensively, and outside of Lanier it isn't likely that any other Southern back will class with him this season.

VICTOR'S VENETIAN BAND

GAVE FIRST ENTERTAINMENT OF STAR COURSE

Miss Grace Miller Sang—A Large Crowd Thoroughly Enjoyed the Entertainment

Victor's Royal Venetian Band of thirty-five pieces gave the first entertainment of the Star Course series Thursday afternoon. A large audience was present and thoroughly enjoyed the program. Each successive number added to the pleasure of the occasion and was accorded a hearty encore. Miss Grace K. Miller interspersed the band music with several solos and twice she was called forth from her curtained corner to respond to the enthusiastic applause. The music all the way through was of a high order. To us it was simply fine, to the connoisseur it was all that and more too. Certain harmonies, which his sensibilities revelled in, were lost to the unappreciative ears of our untutored comprehension. Not the least source of pleasure to us were the movements of Victor's restless wand at whose magic behests the music welled forth, pure and undefiled.

Star Course

The Star Course will consist of six numbers. Only four of these have been definitely arranged. One, the Venetian Band, has already been here and was much enjoyed. The other three that have been arranged are Leland Powers, Impersonator, Whitney Brothers Quartette, and the Dundar Quartette. The other two numbers will probably be lectures of an educational nature. Of the three already arranged two have been here before. Leland Powers was here two years ago and made about the biggest hit of his season. The Whitney Brothers were here last year and stood preeminent in last year's excellent star course. The Dunbar Quartette is a new one here but is considered one of the best vocal and instrumental quartettes in the south. The Whitney Brothers and Leland Powers will be here in the fall. Altogether this year's star course is the best in years.

First Class Game

The Sophomores, without difficulty, defeated the Seniors Saturday in the first class game of the season by a score of five to nothing. The Sophomores scored the only touch down in the first half by a few line plunges and long end runs by Long. The game was ragged at times. For the Sophomores Long, Cocke, Joyner, and Dawson were the stars; for the Seniors Capt. McRae, Allen and Parker played a good game.

All those interested in basketball will meet in the Y. M. C. A. Building tomorrow at 8 P. M. to make some definite plans for the organization of basketball teams.

BIBLE STUDY CONFERENCE

OF NORTH CAROLINA STUDENTS HELD HERE

Addresses by Drs. Detwiler, La-Flamme, Weatherford, Fisher, Messrs. Willis, Barnett

The first session of the third annual Bible Study Conference of North Carolina colleges and preparatory schools was held Friday night in the Chapel. Dr. F. P. Venable presided over the meeting and made the address of welcome. He said that he regretted that the crowded condition of the town and the college caused the number of delegates to be limited to eighty; but he assured all the delegates, in behalf of the faculty, the students, and the townspeople that they were heartily welcome. Mr. W. D. Weatherford in a short but pointed address explained the purpose of the conference, saying that it would be a working conference. He urged every delegate to enter into the spirit of the meetings and carry back to his institution information and enthusiasm that will be of great value to his fellow students.

Dr. G. H. Detwiler, of Greensboro, made the principal address. His topic was, "The Uses of the Bible for the Average Man." Dr. Detwiler held the attention of his audience for over an hour. He has a distinct enunciation, easy address, and graceful delivery. Unimpassioned, he treated his subject in a clear and convincing manner. He showed that the Bible had undergone all the doubts, criticism, and attacks of the last century and that after all the smoke of battle had cleared away, it had acquired a new meaning, a saner inspiration, and a deeper supernaturalism. The new century, he said, has disclosed a whole, sane, and inspired Bible. He said that the Bible was not to be studied by the average man as a Book of history, science, philosophy, literature, or theology, but that it was to be studied first of all as a Book of life.

In the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium Saturday morning at nine o'clock, the conference held its important morning session. Many helpful suggestions, both for the student and the Bible class leader, in regard to the study of the Bible and the most effective means for the enrollment of new members in the Bible and Mission Study classes, were made by the speakers for the morning.

Mr. Willis, International Secretary of the South, emphasized the importance of "The Morning Watch." There should be a definite time set apart for the daily study of the Bible, the speaker said, and in the morning when our minds are fresh, and before the temptations of the day are confronted, is the time for this study.

DAVIE HALL IS COMPLETED

WITH SLIGHT EXCEPTION IN THE INTERIOR

It is Modern In Every Respect—One of the Best in the South

The new biological building, known as Davie Hall, the foundation of which was laid late last fall, is now complete with the exception of a few finishing touches on the interior. Carolina can now boast of a Biological Building that is as great an improvement over the old one as Chemistry Hall was over the old Laboratory.

The building is situated on the eastern extremity of the campus, east of the New East building and almost centrally between the Carr building and the Chemistry Hall, facing the south. It is a neat structure built on the modern plan, of the best quality of salt and pepper pressed brick. The proportions are good, the effect graceful and imposing. The building is fitted with elevators and all modern conveniences. There is not a better planned, better equipped structure of its kind in the South. There are two main floors, with a commodious, well lighted basement below and an attic above. In the basement will be found the furnace for heating the building, a large storage room, dark room for photography, experiment room, incubator room, and room for plants and animals.

The main South entrance leads into an ante-room or hallway which, in turn, leads directly into the herbarium on the north side of the building. On the left, towards the west, is the spacious, well lighted lecture room, with inclined floor and seating capacity of two hundred. To the right, or the east, is the general laboratory for zoology and botany. On ascending to the second floor, directly over the main entrance and ante-room is the complete department library; and on the north side, directly above the herbarium, are the private offices and laboratories of the directors of the botany and zoology departments. Towards the west is the laboratory for advanced study of botany; and towards the east that for the advanced study of zoology. All of these departments are fitted with the most modern appliances and equipment. A conveniently placed stairway leads to the photographic room on the attic floor. The University justly feels a pride in this spacious, well lighted room; for it is fitted in the most approved style and no photographic room to be found in the foremost colleges of the South and North compares with it.

Though the plan of the building is simple it is admirably suited to the very need of the biological department and the arrangement is most convenient. As a whole the structure is in good taste and is just what the University has needed for years.
