candidates on hand.

In the line Cunniff and Daly, both guards on last season's team, will again try for their old positions, and it will take two good husky men to wrest their places from them. "Skip" Wyman, left tackle, should be valuable as a punter. His work last season caused Coach Newman to predict that the gritty tackle, with more experience, would develop into a brilliant kicker. Georgetown was greatly handicapped last season because the team lacked a good man for booting the pigskin.

Captain Lowney will either play his old position at right end or one of the backs. This will be decided on when the team has been out for a week or so and the material thoroughly looked over.

Billy Sitterding, whose return to school was doubtful, sent word that he would return the middle of this week. Sitterding's return will greatly strengthen athletics at the West End institution, as he is a most valuable man to both the football and baseball teams.—Charlotte Observer.

Blacksburg, Sept. 20.—Work is being pushed rapidly on the new athletic field, and every effort is being made to get the gridiron in shape by October 2, for the opening game with Clemson.

The teams are down to actual practice and great enthusiasm prevails as to the outlook for a winning team.

The coaches will be confronted with the problem of developing a quarterback, but several promising candidates are available. Emory Hodgkin, captain this year; Hughes, Luttrell, H. G. Jones, V. B. Hodgson, and Gibbs, of last year's varsity, will return; Burrus Davis, Norriss, B. Hodgson, and Legge substitutes are also expected back. College does not open until the 22nd, and it is impossible to make any prediction as to new material. The schedule this year is one of the hardest in years, including games with a majority of the strongest teams in the South. Princeton has moved the date of her game several days later in the season than was at first announced. The usual Thanksgiving game with North Carolina A. and M. will be played in Norfolk.—Charlotte Observer.

Durham, Sept. 18.—As football is under ban at Trinity, basketball is the most popular fall sport. Official practice begins Monday. There are three of the old men back this year; West, guard; Stewart, forward, and Jones, forward. The last named players are Charlotte boys. There are about twenty-five men in the squad and the vacancies will be easily and capably filled. The schedule, which is a very extensive one, includes two games to be played in Charlotte.—Charlotte Observer.

Football Team Improving

kicks. Their running is more speedy, and their position with the ball better. Geo. Fountain, known in college baseball and tennis circles, bids fair to make himself known in the football realm. Before he does so, however, he must battle with Tillett, who is as fast and sure as ever.

These foregoing are the men who at present are showing up best in their respective positions. As the season progresses, there will doubtless be all around changes in that list. Some men take coaching better than others, and so some of the new men may walk away with a position on the varsity. May the best men win, and win for Carolina.

As we go to press we are asked to give some later news from the gridiron. Well, things have been going pretty much as usual since the last of the week. The preliminary practise of punting, receiving, and returning the same, falling on the ball, etc. has continued through the first part of this week. Each day has drilled the men more thoroughly in these basic tactics until now they are ready for scrimmage. The Coach gave out this evening that all that prevented the immediate lining up for the fray was the inability to get shoulder and elbow pads. As soon as these can be gotten here, scrimmage will begin. This first day will probably be Thursday. Until actual battle between line and line little more than mere conjecture can be made as to the real strength of our team.

The men are regaining their old form rapidly. We note especially the running of Ruffin. He seems to be in better condition now than ever, and will tear large holes in Virginia's line if he keeps it up at the present rate. It were idle in these columns to say we are glad to see E. A. Thompson back at guard. Every student is more than pleased to see his huge form in the lines. Its up to him and his side partner, Capt. Garrett, to make the holes for the backs to go through and make them they will, we are confident. Capt. "Ich" is handling his men well. He is, as he always has been, a hard worker on the gridiron, and his example is doing much to spur on the new men and encourage the old. Deans at center is having a hard fight with L. A. Brown. It remains to be seen who will get the better of the argument. Fountain is pushing Tillett at quarter. "Billy" is handling the ball with perfect ease, and is speedy and heady in running signals. Tillett is fast regaining his speed and natural ability to run a team. He will give Fountain the fight of his life. Hedgepeth is showing up best so far for right tackle. He has taken the coaching well, and shows material for a linesman of high order. All of us are glad to see Norwood back again at right guard. His record of last year is an enviable one, and he promises a better one this season. The punting of W. P. Belk is attracting much attention on the side lines. For a man of his size, Belk has no superior in college as a kicker, and scarcely an equal among men of larger build. In the back field Williams, Crosswell, Porter, Ruffin, and Belden are carrying the ball with remarkable speed and ease. There is to be a free-for-all fight for the back field positions.

At a meeting of the Athletic Association yesterday afternoon, Frank P. Graham was elected president. A motion was passed to the effect that all men on the football and baseball teams be given free tickets to all the games played on the Hill.
