Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 27.—The student body at Virginia was astonished yesterday to hear that Mar R. Faville, president of the General Athletic Association, was in receipt of a telegram from Sam W. Honaker asking if the G. A. A. would accept his resignation as captain of the football team. The news was a great surprise to the students.

An Enthusiastic Mass Meeting

 that we hear from a member of the Wake Forest team whom he saw in the rear. Mr. Collins had nerve enough to come down and face the music. He referred enthusiastically to the cordiality of the relations existing between his Alma Mater and our own.

Coach Brides followed with a short talk in which he predicted easy victory for the following day.

The last thing to attract the attention of the assembly was the election of a chief cheerer for the season about to open. Frank Graham, the leader for last year was enthusiastically re-elected. The meeting closed with several yells for Garrett, the team and Coach Brides.

N. C. 18—Wake Forest 0

 in the first half was stellar variety as the detailed account shows. He could well be termed Carolina's "human battering ram." He picked his hole in the line better than any man on our back field, and hit those holes for long gains. In Saturday's game his work was so fierce and his carrying the ball so sensational that he was taken from the back field because he was working too hard. Williams D. M. who took his place followed in his footsteps, and his play in the second half cleared the way for our third touchdown. Despite the fact of his injured nose, "Mac" bit the line like a ton of brick and moved things where he struck. Porter is as fierce a line plunger as Carolina has had in her back field in many a day. Unlike Croswell he does not pick so much for holes, he picks for men, and hits them. He is very fast, and when he starts through the line with the ball it takes some five or six to stop him. His work Saturday was characterized by long gains through the center of the line. Though Belden was not running with the ball as much as the other backs, when he did get it he made the Wake Forest lines-men look to their footing. When the other backs were carrying the ball, Belden was always at their side hiking them along. His goal kicking was excellent. Ruffin at quarter, ran the team with exceeding good judgment, and used his plays at opportune times. He is showing the students that he can play quarter almost as good as he did half last year. His 20 yd. run around right end was a feature of the game. The work of the new ends, "Bob" Winston and "Fleet" Williams was pleasing in the extreme. Many were the times they got by their opposing ends and nipped some end run or forward pass in the bud. Winston holds his reputation for a 10 sec. in the way he gets down under a punt. Williams seems to be equally fast in getting his man. The two make an unusually fast, scrappy pair of ends. Capt Garrett and Hedgepeth, at tackle did far more than hold their opponents in the Baptist line. Several times they broke through and caused consternation in the enemy's camp. The men who hold the line as a rule have not a chance to star as have the back-field men, but Capt. "Ich" and "Hedgie" were there with the goods throughout the fray. Norwood and Thompson handled the Wake Forest guards in great style. The weight of the Wake Forest line-up lay in its guards, and Norwood and Thompson had their hands full. But not once did those big, husky Baptists break through to spoil the deliberations of backfield men. Our guards did credit to their past records and increased their present reputations. At centre Deans played a good defensive game during his stay in the line, and opened holes for our backs with much vigor. Brown, who played the last half, put up a game worthy of his great advancement over last year. He has developed into a splendid line-man. Several times he broke through and threw his man for a loss.

Coach Brides expressed himself as highly pleased with the work of the team as a whole, and said he thought they could scarcely have done better. The game in detail is as follows:

Wake Forest wins the toss, and defends the western goal. Carolina kicks off to Wake Forest's 5-yard line. Allen receives the kick, and advances the ball 15 yds. Is downed by Carolina's right end. Wake Forest kicks to mid field. Carolina's ball on Wake Forest's 40-yd. line. Porter tears off 6 yds. through left guard. Croswell makes first down. Belden adds 4 yds. over right tackle. Williams, Carolina's right end breaks up a pretty play around his corner. Forehand makes 7 yds. over tackle. Williams, of Wake Forest, adds 3. Hedgepeth, of Carolina, breaks through the Wake Forest line, and tackles runner for a loss. Wake Forest pulls off a pretty forward pass, Allen to Uttley, but Winston, of Carolina, downs receiver in his tracks. Duffy gains 3 yds. through line. Duffy hurt. Eye badly bruised. Duffy resumes play. Forehand gains 3 yds. Wake Forest fumbles ball, but recovers, gaining two yards. Capt. Garrett, of Carolina, gets through line and breaks up a line play for Wake Forest. Winston spoils an end run for the Baptists. Third down, no gain. Ball goes to Carolina. Belden gains 4 yds. Croswell adds 7. Porter makes first down. Croswell gains 6 yards through right tackle. Croswell makes first down over left tackle. Beldens rips off 6 yds. through line. Croswell walks through center for 6 yds. Croswell gains 6 more. "Mack" Williams takes Croswell's place. C. B. Ruffin and Winston execute a perfect forward pass, and Winston carries ball over for second touch-down. Belden kicked a beautiful goal. Score, Carolina, 12; Wake Forest 0. Wake Forest kicks to Porter on Carolina's 15-yd line, who returns kick 25 yds. Fumble by Carolina. Wake Forest quarterback gets the ball. Is stopped by Belden. Attempt at forward pass. Belden gets the ball. Porter makes 5 yds. over center. End of 1st half. Score Carolina 12 Wake Forest 0

Second half, Wake Forest kicks. As "Fleet" Williams, who advances pig skin 10 yds. Porter takes 4 yds. from left tackle. "Mack" Williams adds 5 yds. M. Williams makes first down. Ruffin gains 1 yd. Unfortunate Accident in Zoology Laboratory

On Thursday evening last, while one of the laboratory sections of first zoology were learning the use of the microscope, one of the men had an unfortunate accident: He had just taken his instrument case out of the locker and placed it upon his table. The scalpels and scissors were arranged in more or less disarray but no one ever dreamed of harm from them. The gentleman had placed his box of apparatus upon the table and was proceeding to sit down. Unfortunately the man was absent-minded. He forgot there was no stool near enough for him to sit on. However, ignoring such a small matter as the absence of a seat, the gentleman proceeded to take a seat upon the floor, calmly at first he went, but consternation seized upon him as he neared the floor. Hearing the thud of flesh upon plank the other men turned to look at the absent-minded one. He was sitting upon three of the oiled boards of the laboratory floor, clutching at support that was not there. The men, his fellow students, showed an inhuman lack of interest in his misfortune—some even went so far as to snicker quite audibly—no one offered assistance. There seemed to be one man, however, who had a heart of sympathy. Dr. Henry Van Peters Wilson, as soon as he perceived the condition of the unfortunate young zoologist hastened to his side. After hastily glancing over the field of recent action Dr. Wilson called, "Reuben! Oh, Reuben! Bring a dustpan and clean up these splinters."

Rule 39, Zoology Laboratory.

Men are requested to use stools for seating purposes, If you are determined to sit on the floor, "the moment you meet any resistance, stop, do not try to force it."
