

Ye Pleasyng Stuntes

The congregation became as frightened children. When A. H. Wolfe, as Henry, began to shuffle about the stage, those in the audience had to be assured that the bell ringer himself was not taking part. Henry brought back from St. Peter a report on the prospects of various individuals about the Hill for future glory. The details of the report were awful but not unlooked for.

The final number of the evening was a representation of Roosevelt in Africa. The central figures, C. C. Garrett, as Roosevelt, and H. V. P. Vreeland, as Pearle, Queen of Upper Africa, got off some very excellent hits at Chapel Hill worthies. The scenes depicted also throw much light on the mighty hunter's success with big game.

Altogether the extravaganza was a success, eclipsing even the senior circus of last spring. The costumes were beyond compare. The work of both choruses and individuals was eminently worthy of the occasion. The class of 1910 may pride itself on such a "stunt."

N. C. Loses to Lafayette

Carolina lost to Lafayette in a 1 to 0 contest Friday. Lafayette scored her only run on Hackney's error of Kelly's long fly and Demott's single. Again in the seventh Lafayette had a chance to score. Steckle was safe on a hot one to third, reached second with one down on William's hit, and stole third. But the next two could not count him for Duncan took one and Red the other. Carolina's only chance to score came in the eighth when Buie, after getting the only hit of the game, stole second, went to third on Tillet's bunt, and was caught by a close decision on an attempt to steal home.

The pitching of Demott was the one feature. He is by far the best pitcher seen on the local diamond in years, none excepted. He fanned 10, and allowed 1 hit. His work in the box was graceful and confident.

A large proportion (more than 80 per cent.) of the graduating classes secure positions as internes in hospitals. Entrance requirements embrace a minimum of two years of college work, including two languages other than English (French or German must be one of these) and at least one year of study with appropriate laboratory work in Physics, General Biology or Zoology and General and Inorganic Chemistry (including Qualitative Analysis).
