To be plain about it then, we got licked. That seems to be the consensus of opinion around here. It was Davidson that "done" it. Speaking mildly, we are disappointed. We had indulged ourselves in the hope that it would be otherwise. But—

While we are disposed to accept the fact for its face value and to learn from it any lesson that the defeat holds for us, we, who claim Carolina's team as our champions, have not lost heart. We hope that we are not overconfident. Indeed it would be impossible to be so after Saturday's game. But we believe in the possibilities of the team and in the ability of Coach Brides to bring them to the winning point.

The mass meeting Monday night showed the spirit that is backing the team. It helped to develop and crystallize a spirit of loyalty—not that every shout in the mass meeting means a supporter on the outside. But this meeting was different from most that we have, was held under different circumstances, and while the enthusiasm was not as wild as after some victory, it had the ring of unusual sincerity. It was, we believe, like the meeting of the boys at the train Sunday afternoon a real expression of loyalty and not merely an escape of steam. We had no victory to celebrate; we only had the team and we wanted them to feel that we were with them in their defeats as well as in their victories.

If we have benefitted by the defeat in no other way, it has caused the student body to realize the importance of a loyal and united support of the football team. It has brought the students and the team closer together in feeling and this, of course, means an incalculable increase of strength. As was said by one speaker Monday night, our games are played, lost, and won not by eleven men alone, but every man contributes something to the defeat or the victory.

Every student who can is urged to come out on the football field and show his interest in the success of the team by his presence and his voice. Not a man on the team but can play better if he feels the thrill of a sympathetic and loyal student body supporting him. Heed the warning of the Coach not to cross the enclosure, but do your part on your side of the fence.

If you have a home newspaper containing an account of any alumni celebration on University Day, please let it be used for the University Record. You are requested to hand the paper to Dr. L. R. Wilson at the Library.

CAROLINA'S EDUCATORS

On Thursday Dean Graham called the attention of the students to what he considered the most significant fact of the celebration just passed. This was the civic strength of the young alumni who chiefly made up the program.

"The greatest glory of the University" said Dean Graham, in part "is that the educational renaissance in North Carolina, so wide reaching in splendid results, was led by a group of educational statesmen trained in the University. McIver, Alderman, Aycock, Joyner, and their helpers were men who belonged to practically one college generation—the first fruits of the re-opened University offered to the State. The group that sat on the stage University day, is from the point of view of educational leadership, a part of the second great crop—Dean Smith, representing the State Normal College—President Foust is also an alumnus—President Wright of the Eastern Training School, President Rondthaler, of the Salem Female College, and President Thompson of the Jackson Training School.

"All of these men, too, are practically from one college generation; all of them are leaders in the application of ideas that promise great things for North Carolina; all of them are men of every sort of strength—including the strength of youth; all of them are men of healthy, constructive thought and better still, all of them are consecrated to the service of the State.

CHAPEL TALKS

The regular chapel exercises were suspended for the University Day exercises Wednesday, and as the period on Tuesday was given over to the inauguration of the Student Council, and on Friday the students were merely requested not to eat peanuts in the Hall during the continuous report of the game Saturday, as the grease was hard to clean up, and also that they put their discarded mail into cans provided for the purpose by the Woman's Club of Chapel Hill instead of throwing it on the streets, and finally that they every one come out to hear the University sermon, the week has been rather bare of interesting chapel talks.

On Monday Dr. Venable spoke of the conditions in South Africa, referring to the fact that a new U. S. A. was on the map—United South Africa. He gave a short history of the settlement of the country by the Boers, the conflict with the English, and the significance of the former Boer leader, General Botha, appearing in London as the British representative of African provinces. He spoke of the two great parties in that country, Nationalist which represented the old Boer element and Unionist, which desired closer union with England.

From the Idea, (Ky)

The star players on both teams were few, it being a game where team work was the particular feature. Some of State's players did well while some seemed to show need of improvement. Credit must be given Giltner for remarkable return of punt at the beginning of the third quarter, in which he ran through a broken field for sixty yards. North Carolina has a good man in Porter and also Belk. The method that Belk used in getting off his punts being singularly bold. Earle playing for State had what was to be thought the hardest position on the team, as he was pitted against Thompson of North Carolina, and the "Big Boy," demonstrated that he was the best guard in the South.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway Telegraphy. Since the eight-hour law became effective, and since the "Wireless" companies are establishing stations throughout the country, there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of railroad and wireless officials and places all graduates in positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Memphis, Tenn., or Columbia, S. C.
