Our friends the Toe Bussers carted the game away to the ice house. We have no lingering doubts as to that. But those sorrowful returns of fallen heroes are getting slightly monotonous to say the least. The weeping, wailing and gnashing stunt has grown tiresome.

As to what in Hades is wrong with the Varsity—well Saturday's affair has pushed forward two mighty glaring faults—lack of team work and lack of fight. Our interference was of the Mebane Bingham variety. Our fellows, with a few exceptions, had about as much speed and grit as a bunch of snail pall bearers. Speaking honestly, it was rather sickening.

Now we know the boys have the stuff and we want to see them develop into a first rate team. There's one way they can do this—and that is by playing the Brides football system. He knows more football than anybody else in these diggings. The sooner the boys realize that, all the sooner will Carolina have a real football machine. You can rake in the pot on that.

At the beginning of the third quarter, Saturday, Coach bawled for Chambers to take left half. No response. Coach searched the sidelines but no Lenoir did he find. The game went on without him. Where was the young Mr. Chambers? Why, he sat in the grandstand with all his war togs on, surrounded by admiring bunches of calico.

"Doc" Williams, our good looking manager, says he had the time of his life. Roach Stewart and Bill Hendricks report that they had a joyous trip. We are mighty glad somebody got something out of the expedition.

The team came over from Durham late Sunday night. Coach Brides, "Babe" Parker, "Big Tommy," "Ichabod," and roach Stewart all filed into the same carriage. A single pair of livery horses pulled them over. The S. P. C. A. folks should get on the war path.

A bunch of big games were pulled off Saturday. Harvard defeated the Army 6-0. Princeton got the call on Dartmouth 6-0. Yale took a brace and walloped Colgate 19-0. Penn crushed the Indians 17-5. Michigan put it over Syracuse 11-0. Minnesota swamped Chicago 24-0. In our own territory V. P. I. ran up 23 points to Washington and Lee's nothing.

From her showing against the Soldiers, Harvard looks like the best bet for the Eastern championship. Princeton and Yale, though, still have a look in. Michigan and Minnesota are neck and neck in the West. When they meet on the 19th there'll be something doing. In the South-Atlantic section, V. P. I., Virginia, Georgetown and A. & M. are still in the running. In the cotton South, Vanderbilt, Sewanee, Georgia, and Georgia Tech are leading the field. You had better put your kail on Harvard in the East, Minnesota in the West, V. P. I. in the South Atlantic section and Vandy in the far South.

WHAT?

What about a Chapel Hill merchant who does 95 per cent. of his business with the students of the University, and yet boycotts every student publication?
