PENN DEBATERS ARE SELECTED

MESSRS. W. F. TAYLOR AND C. L. WILLIAMS CHOSEN TO REPRESENT CAROLINA

An Unusually Spirited Contest Among Those Who Entered for Places. Debate to Be Held December 3

The preliminary contest for the selection of Carolina representatives in the coming debate against Pennsylvania was held in the Di Society hall Thursday night. There were six contestants: W. F. Taylor, J. A. Austin, C. L. Williams, C. R. Wharton, J. W. Morris and B. G. Cooper. Of this number C. L. Williams and W. F. Taylor, both of the senior class, were judged to have the best debates. The question was, "Resolved, that the United States should establish a central bank". The judges were Dr. H. M. Wagstaff, Dr. L. R. Wilson and Professor M. H. Stacy.

The coming debate with Pennsylvania will be held on the night of December 3, at Philadelphia. The question will be the same as the preliminary and Carolina will uphold the affirmative. Last year Carolina won the second of the series of five debates against Pennsylvania. The last of the series will come off next year. One of the judges Thursday night remarked that the preliminary was one of the best he had ever heard. All the speeches were good.

Basketball Resolutions

The committee appointed by the Athletic Association to look into the advisability of organizing a basketball team, which will constitute a branch of the Association's athletics, report the following resolutions:

1. That basketball is a popular branch of college athletics.
2. That all the leading colleges and universities of the South have representative teams and find the sport equally as popular as any other phase of athletics.
3. That since the University is supposed to take the lead in all phases of college athletics in the State, it is only natural that it should institute basketball as one of its regular phases of athletics.
4. That it will not be extra expense to the Athletic Association but rather a source of revenue, as it will be more than self-supporting.
5. That we have the material and the coach, the only problem being a place to play.
6. That since we have challenges from many leading institutions asking for games this season, which must be replied to immediately, we advise that action be taken at once.

Committee:

W. F. Taylor
F. J. Duls
E. C. McLean

FRESHMEN DEFEAT THEIR FRIENDS OF 1913

After a Game Which Was Not Lacking in Features the First Year Men Succeed in Last Quarter. Score 6--0

The freshmen got the better of the sophomores, Wednesday, 6--0. The youngest sons, however, had their hands full all along the line.

The smallness of the score played havoc with the dope sheet. 1914 was marked up for a three touchdown win at least. The sophs, though, with a new lineup, put up about 50 per cent better game than they did against the juniors.

The first two periods were featured by nothing but fumbles, the freshmen pulling off most of them. The 3rd quarter was fairly enheartening. 1914 fumbled on 13's 40 yard line. Carrington got it for the sophomores, and had a clear field, but Blackmer threw him on the 20 yard line. Manning failed at a drop kick and the Soph's one chance was gone.

The score came in the final period. In their own 10 yard line Smith, for the sophs, foolishly tried a forward pass. Jones got it; Jones and Worth rushed it to the 1 foot line and Jones went over; Allen kicked goal.

1913 put up a fair game throughout. Williams, Strange, Manning and Carrington deserve mention.

The first year boys didn't play up to their standard and they were lucky to win. Worth, Jones and Blackmer played nicely.

Freshmen.	Sophomores.
Gong l. e.	Wright
Morrow l. t.	Hatcher

"THE FUNCTIONS OF THE PHYSICIAN"

Dr. W. D. McNider Delivers Address to College Students On the Duties and Responsibilities of the Physician

At the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. R. T. Webb, owing to the amount of work he is carrying this year, handed in his resignation as treasurer of the Association. Mr. George Graham was nominated by the nominating committee to succeed him. Mr. Graham's nomination will be on the table for a week and will then be voted on at the meeting next Tuesday Night.

After the business part of the meeting was over, Dr. MacNider spoke on "The Functions of the Physician." He prefaced his remarks by saying that the physician whom he had in mind was the ideal physician.

Dr. MacNider took up the functions of this physician in three respects: His function with regard to the individual, his function with regard to the community, and his function as a scientist. No other man comes into such close relationship with the individual as the physician. It is his duty and privilege to watch after men when they are well and to put them on their feet again when they become sick. He often helps a family by saving its bread earner, and again he has the great joy of saving a life. However the responsibility is sometimes something terrible. But this very responsibility makes the physician think more accurately and clearly, and makes him marshal all the forces of science for the saving of life.

In his relation to the community the physician has two duties, a duty as an educator and a duty in the prevention of disease. Education is the greatest factor in the prevention of disease, and is especially necessary here in the South where the ignorant negroes live in places of unspeakable filth, and carry disease from these places to the homes of white people for whom they work. The physician can help in this education and again he can help in the prevention of disease by introducing measures for the draining off of stagnant water, for the keeping of clean lots, and for the infection of the cities. For all of these tend towards the prevention of malaria and other infectious diseases.

And finally the physician has a function as a scientist. He should be a wide awake man, a man who notices things and then tries to find the reason for them. It is not necessary for him to go abroad in order to do research, for the best places for this research work is right here in the slums of our large cities where the physician can not only do valuable research work but he can at the same time do much good in the relieving and the promotion of cleanliness.

Mr. John T. Johnston, ex '09 was elected as Democratic representative of Orange in the next legislature. Mr. Johnston's majority was something over 150, a larger majority than was received by any other of the county candidates.

On Sunday morning and night the speaker at the Episcopal Church will be the Rev. F. H. T. Horsefield, of Oxford, a preacher of unusual ability.

COMMUNITY CLUB IN CHAPEL

LARGE NUMBER OF TOWN PEOPLE MEET AND DISCUSS CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

Professors Graham, Walker, Coker, Herty, and Pratt, and Dr. Abernethy Make Addresses on Community Topics

A meeting of more than ordinary interest to the people of Chapel Hill was held in the chapel on Wednesday night. This was a meeting of the Community Club, composed of the women of the town, with a number of men as honorary members. The object of the club is the improvement of the town school, the streets, sanitation, and other objects of a public nature. A large and representative audience was present, the meeting being presided over by Prof. E. K. Graham. The women of the club had invited several members of the faculty and Dr. E. A. Abernethy to deliver addresses.

Professor Graham opened the meeting, stating its purpose and expressing his belief in its importance. He quoted the well-known lines "Men must work and women must weep," and then declared that this order of things has been reversed in Chapel Hill; that the women do the work and the men board with them. He said that the Woman's Club had been working with good sense and with splendid results for the town. He quoted Dr. Woodrow Wilson, who said "A man can not love his country without loving his community," and applying his saying to the women, declared that they are leading in good government by taking up that which the men have neglected.

In conclusion, Professor Graham assured the ladies that they had the men's gratitude for what they had done, and that they would have their sympathy and co-operation.

Professor Walker, who spoke next, on the graded school, began by asserting that a community's school is the index of the community's advancement. He told how all efforts to build a good school failed until the Woman's Club took it in hand, and how the school has revolutionized in the last three or four years since they became interested in it. He declared that now that they have put the school on such good basis they can further help it by getting the people of the town interested in it. That the best way to improve the community is through the school, for the educated man is always willing to do the right thing.

Dr. Coker then spoke for a few minutes on the clothes of the body and the clothes of the spirit. He declared that the ways of women are peculiar, and that he was as happy as a bachelor had a right to be until they got after him to make a speech. He said in substance: We judge people by their clothes, but the clothes of the spirit are not always in our power. All the ugly things of the spirit, however, are of our own making. It is a universal law of nature that things around us react upon us. So it is, we make our surroundings and our surroundings make us. Our environment is a uniform which tells what we are. We cannot, therefore, overestimate the importance of beautiful surroundings.

Dr. Abernethy next spoke, on the practical questions involved in keeping
