MASS MEETING FOR THE TEAM

LARGE CROWD OF STUDENTS GATHER AT GERRARD HALL AND MARCH TO ATHLETIC FIELD

College Spirit Aroused and Some Splendid Cheering Given the Squad as They Engage in Afternoon Scrimmage

On Thursday afternoon at four o'clock 500 students formed a long column in front of Gerrard Hall and, led by the University band, marched around the Athletic Field, singing "I'm a Tar Heel Born," while the Varsity and "Scrubs" were engaging in their afternoon scrimmage. It was such a demonstration of college spirit as has not been seen here for many a day. When the long line of rooters had taken a position on the south side of the field, the Carolina yells with the names of Brides, Big Tommy, Cox, Trenchard, and the whole team added, were given with a vim.

Before going to the field, the students had gathered in the chapel for a brief mass meeting. There were several brief speeches, urging the importance of supporting the train, songs were practiced, and a statement made with regard to the excursion to Richmond.

The train will leave here for Richmond at 12:01 o'clock next Wednesday night. It arrives at Richmond at 8:00 a. m., and returning leaves for Chapel Hill at 12:00 o'clock Thursday night. The round trip fare is $3.00.

Class Tennis Tournament On.

The class team's tournament is now being played on the association courts. Doubles are to be played off first; singles after Thanksgiving. The tournament started Wednesday afternoon, when the seniors defeated the sophomores, and the juniors the freshmen. The seniors, completely outclassing their opponents, won an easy victory; the freshmen, however, played hard and came near winning.

Scores: Seniors; Sophomores—6:3; 6:1; 6:0 (doubles).

Juniors; Freshmen—7:5; 7:5; 4:6 (doubles).

The Sophomore Law game was played November 17th. 1913 won; score: 6:3, 1:6. 7:5. The seniors won from the freshmen on Friday; score: 6:2, 6:1, 6:2.

The remainder of the schedule is as follows:

November 19—Senior, Junior; Freshmen, Law.

November 21—Junior, Sophomore.

November 22—Senior, Law; Sophomore, Freshmen.

The men representing their various classes are: senior, Wyatt and Witherington; junior, Hobgood and Cook; sophomore, Hunter and Mebane; freshman, Smith and Bourne; law, Lindsay and McLean.

German for Richmond Visitors.

An invitation has been extended by Mr. James H. Drake, Jr., acting for the Virginia alumni at Richmond, to the Carolina students to attend the Thanksgiving German in Richmond on the evening of Thursday, November the twenty-fourth. This German, given annually to the students of the two Universities, will be held in the Masonic Temple. There will also be, as usual, a theater party.

Coach Simmons, of Davidson, is a visitor to the Hill.

GOOD GYM WORK BY STUDENTS

The Interest Being Manifested by Students in Football and Tennis Does not Prevent a Large Attendance at the Gymnasium

If anyone will take the trouble to glance into the gymnasium any afternoon while the class is going on, he will see the gymnasium floor crowded to its capacity with students going through the afternoon drill. Dr. Lawson's talk in the chapel not long ago, on the subject of exercise, has very evidently borne fruit, judging from the way interest in gymnasium work has grown up since. Dr. Lawson stated that he did not see how the work could be going on any better than it is at present, the floor being full every afternoon.

This extraordinary interest in this form of exercise is all the more remarkable considering the fact that the football season is now at its height; that interest in class football, aside from Varsity practice, is now at its highest pitch; that tennis is prospering as never before; that track work even now has its devotees. All of this argues a healthy athletic sentiment in the University.

Some really good work is being done in the gymnasium; there are a few fellows who seem to be determined to go right ahead until they will be wearing North Carolina sweaters about the campus. It would be a problem to know how to take care of so many candidates were it not for the fact that several old sweater men have generously volunteered to assist Dr. Lawson in his efforts to train the students. The gymnasium work is carried on under a handicap, owing to lack of a sufficient number of assistants. Dr. Lawson expresses his obligations to several of the old men who have been of great assistance to him without remuneration, notably, Messrs. Henry C. Smith and F. J. Duls.

The men in college who have the right to wear gymnasium sweaters are Parsley, Smith, Nash, Allison (assistant in gymnasium), Duls and Carter. Among the promising candidates should be mentioned: Murchison, Hughes, Lasly, Helseback, Drane, Lyon and Turnage. Of the freshmen who are doing good work, considering their experience, are Curtis, Strong, Morrison and Willey. It is planned to have an exhibition sometime later in the year, possibly early in December.

Monday Night Entertainment at Gerard Hall.

An hour of genuine enjoyment will be given those who gather in Gerard Hall Monday night at 7:30. There has been no star course or other public entertainment for the month of November, and the chapel will probably be filled to its capacity for the forthcoming affair, which will be of a nature to suit the fastidious and the easy-going, the cultured lover of high-class art and the untutored devotee of farce and fun. The musical program will include vocal solos by Mr. Sneath and Miss Bright, the violin, clarinet and orchestra. The "stunt" features will include the reading of the prophetic description of the Thanksgiving game, a five-round boxing contest, and a football game between the Man Eaters of Crocodile College and the Bull-frogs of Slimy Slough University. The proceeds will be divided between the Y. M. C. A., the Athletic Association,

JUNIORS COME OFF VICTORIOUS

In a Strictly Up-to-the-Notch Class Game the Seniors Are Worst by 1912's Strong Team Score 8-0

The juniors disposed of the seniors Thursday, in fine style. They made a touchdown and a frill goal for an 8-0 score.

The mix-up was a rattling good one from first to last. Both bunches went at it for all there was in them, but the third year gentlemen had the call all along the line.

The juniors got their touchdown in the opening quarter. Receiving the kickoff they began a double quick for the goal line, their backs tearing off gain after gain. Under the shadow of their goal, the seniors fought desperately, but the juniors forced the oval to the one foot mark and Hoffman shot through for the count. Barker failed to kick goal. In the last two minutes of the period the seniors had a small chance to score. They got the ball on the 25 yard mark, but there was a fumble and Hoffman got it.

There was little doing in the second quarter, neither team getting in reach of the goal. In the third, the twelves began another march towards the touchdown mark. They reached the 15 yard line, but the seniors held firmly and Hoffman tried a drop. It was blocked, but a junior fell on it. Hoffman tried another one and it went good by a couple of inches. There was fierce playing in the final quarter, but the seniors couldn't get the pigskin out of their own part of the field.

The 1912 outfit put up a fine article of ball. The linemen played a stiff game. The backs did nicely. Hoffman, Wood and Barker were the chief occupants of the calcium.

As for the fourth year gentlemen—well, they fought hard but, as in their other games, their team work was away off color. Dawson, Allison, Oliver and Cooper were fair.

Dr. Smith's Berlin Address.

Dr. Smith's lecture was introductory to a series which he will deliver on American literature since 1809. It is said that the Kaiser was much interested in Dr. Smith's address and in the Professor himself.

PREDICTS BIG GAME THURSDAY

MALBERT, IN RICHMOND PAPER, SAYS INTERESTING THINGS ABOUT SITUATION

Thinks that Virginia and Carolina Are Pretty Evenly Matched—The "Yale-Princeton Game of the South"

In his "Shafts from Sportland," in Thursday's Richmond Times Dispatch, G. Malbert gives the following summary of what he considers the prospects for the Thanksgiving game:

"Now that we are in the shank of the football season local interest is centered in two games; the one on Thanksgiving Day and the one to follow on the Saturday after Thanksgiving. North Carolina and Virginia get together on the holiday, and Richmond College plays Randolph-Macon two days afterwards. As to the first game, the S. R. O. sign will be out early. Recent developments have made many of us come to the conclusion that Carolina and Virginia are more evenly matched than was believed earlier in the season. In fact it might be stated that the Carolina-Virginia game is the local Princeton-Yale affair. If it were up to me to do the pointing out I should say that Carolina is the Yale of the coming game. It might be well to dwell further on the subject, but you know what Yale did.

"Princeton was the favorite, and rightly so, if one is to rely on previous records. Then Yale waked-up a bit, tightened up its collective weakened attitude, doctored up Kilpatrick, threw out a scare about Vaughan being run in at the other end—but as Kipling says, that's another story. In the present instance it looks like Virginia can't lose; but Carolina trains for but one game, and that game happens on Thanksgiving Day. Under these conditions a wonderful team can be built up. In the first place, even though every other game on the schedule may be played to win, the tactics pursued are the tactics which would stop the team it is desired to beat in the crucial game of the season. The same tactics, which might be all right to accomplish the main purpose in mind, might prove disastrous against other teams.

If Brides is wise, and there are few who doubt his football wisdom, this is just what he has been doing all the season. If his team wins on Thanksgiving Day the other defeats will be forgotten and he will be acclaimed, by the North Carolinians at least, as the greatest football coach of the age. He has had ample opportunity to study Virginia's style of play. There never was a style of play invented in a football game which could not be stopped, as witness the old tackle-back formation by Pennsy, which for some time was so formidable. Now if Brides has been doing what I believe he has, then watch Virginia get stopped on those sweeping end runs."

In further commenting on the two teams, the writer has only one criticism to make of the Carolina eleven, viz: That with the splendid individual players of which it is composed, its team work has been below the standard.

Owing to the amount of work he is carrying, Mr. A. W. Graham has found it necessary to resign his position as one of the assistant editors-in-chief of the TAR HEEL.
