Tenderfoot at Poker

"Poor Pat Sheedy," said a sporting editor, "used to entertain me, when I visited his art shop, with gambling tales.

"There was one tale about a sandwich that I rather liked. It seems, according to this tale, that a barkeeper in Tombstone, or Dead Cat, or some such town, connived with three sharpers—and help any tenderfoot who ever ventured to sit in a little poker game among that crew!

"One night the tenderest tenderfoot imaginable, after a half-dozen drinks in the saloon, agreed to take a hand in a dollar-limit game.

"Things went along in the usual way for awhile; then an amazing series of nods and winks began to pass about. The bartender had signaled that the tenderfoot held four kings on the draw. There were more nods and winks and the betting began.

"In the midst of the betting a waiter brought sandwiches and whiskey, in order to distract the tenderfoot, and while the poor dupe was tossing off his drinks the sharper next him slipped a sixth card into his hand; thus, of course, nullifying it.

"The unconscious tenderfoot took up a huge sandwich, bit off a large mouthful and began to bet again. Right and left, of course, they raised him. He ate on and bet away, calmly. An enormous sum lay on the table.

"Then, suddenly, the bartender resumed his nods and winks. He was terribly excited. Something was wrong. The sharpers, a little anxious, called the tenderfoot.

"The tenderfoot finished the last bite of his sandwich, took a long drink of whiskey and laid down his original five cards. Then, in silence, he gathered in his vast pile of winnings and, with a cool nod, took his leave.

"After his departure there was a terrific time.

"What the dickens did he do with that sixth card?" the sharpers cried.

"Dind't you see? Dind't you see?" cried the bartender, dancing up and down with rage, "he ate it with his sandwich!"—St. Louis Globe Democrat.
