

Work of Missions Among the Students

mission fields. Among the number is one we all know, our beloved Barnett. For two years he was with us as secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association and showed himself an admirable fellow. Although coming from Florida by way of Vanderbilt University, he became a full-fledged University man. He helped to win from Pennsylvania in debate and was interested in everything that stood for the highest development in the University.

E. E. BARNETT, Missionary

When he made known the fact that he was ready to enter a larger sphere of service in the foreign field, if we would send him, we pledged $500 for his support this year. It is our intention to continue his support from the University and its friends alone. His totally unselfish life here among us stimulates us to larger giving, for we know what a splendid whole-souled fellow we are supporting. We were sorry to lose him, yet found that we could send him into a greater field of Christian work among Chinese students. He just recently landed in China and is now preparing for his work. Our hearts turn to God in prayer for Barnett and his cause.

D. B. BRYAN.

Members of the Faculty Marry

Since our separation for the holidays two gentlemen of our faculty have brought back brides to Chapel Hill, namely, Dr. William Morton Dey, head of the Department of Romance Languages, and Professor Harry Woodburn Chase, head of the Department of Education.

December 28 in Norfolk Dr. Dey married Miss Ellen Alice Old of that city. Norfolk is the old home of both Dr. Dey and his bride, both being members of fine old Virginia families. Dr. and Mrs. Dey arrived in Chapel Hill the evening of Monday, January 9.

Just two days before, December 26, in Logansport, Indiana, Professor Chase had celebrated his marriage to Miss Lucetta Crum, of that city. Professor Chase and his bride proceeded almost immediately to Chapel Hill, where they are now at home to their hosts of friends.

The Eighth Annual Interstate Convention of the Carolina Young Men's Christian Associations will be held at Raleigh January 26-29. The features of the Convention will be inspirational addresses, practical discussions of religious life and service, section conferences for students, railroad men, industrial delegates, physical director and city delegates, convention banquet and men's meeting. A large number of delegates are expected to attend the convention.

Volunteer Mission Band

During the visit of Dr. H. F. Laflamme to the University in 1908, a Volunteer Band was organized among the students. The charter members were, E. E. Barnett, who is now engaged in missionary work in China, and A. R. Morgan, who is studying theology in New York. Though small at first the band did not continue so. Before the end of the year its membership had more than doubled. Besides the two members mentioned, J. W. Freeman, C. E. Norman and W. L. Cooper, Jr. were recognized as volunteers and initiated into the band. In the fall of 1909 the little organization began work with all of its members back in college. By commencement of 1910 two more boys had become volunteers and allied themselves with the volunteer organization, viz, L. F. Turlington and H. R. Totten. The addition of these made seven men in the University preparing themselves for foreign missionary service at the end of the second years growth of the band. Of these, five are now back in college, and in the theological seminary and the other on the mission field. The work of the band, from the time of its organization until now, has been to aid the Y. M. C. A. in developing a strong Christian spirit at the University; and also to lay before the students the claim of foreign missionary service as a life work. The effort put forth by the band as a whole to carry out these ends has been seen in the work of each member of the organization. Not a single time has a volunteer shown any unwillingness to do Christian work. In every Bible Study canvass, Mission Study canvass, Y. M. C. A. canvass, all of the volunteers have been active. But their work has not stopped here. The band as a whole has brought the claims of the foreign missionary service as a life work to the students, by promoting and encouraging mission study, by missionary addresses from foreign missionaries and by making it possible for students to have personal talks with experienced foreign missionaries. The band is considered an integral part of the University Y. M. C. A. Any student is eligible who has signed a Volunteer Declaration Card which reads as follows: "It is my purpose, if God permit, to become a foreign missionary." The present membership hopes that the organization will be self-perpetuating, and that it may be an active force in the student body at the University until the evangelization of the world is accomplished.

Leader of Band.

The first two debates of the pentangular argument entered into by Vanderbilt, Tulane, Georgia, Virginia, and Carolina will be held this spring. In the last of April or first of May Carolina is to debate Georgia in Chapel Hill, and Virginia at Charlottesville. The question in both debates will be: "Resolved that a Federal Income tax (constitutionality granted) would be a desirable part of our scheme of taxation." The home team in each case has the affirmative. This same question will be debated by the other colleges in the argument. Each college will hold two debates this year and two next.

When the preliminary is to be held or how many men are to enter cannot be said with certainty as yet.

The Semi-Weekly TAR HEEL will be sent to any address, Feb. 1 to June 1, for seventy-five cents.

The TAR HEEL twice a week, Feb. 1 to June 1, seventy-five cents.

Y. M. C. A. House Is Used by Students

things of interest from foreign lands, among which are some heathen gods, several Chinese mottoes, and a part of the historic Nestorian tablet. The room is the meeting place for the regular Thursday night prayer-meetings, the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, and other religious meetings.

Within the past few years the Auditorium has been furnished with heating apparatus, electric lights and opera chairs. It will seat about two hundred people and is used for the regular Tuesday night meetings of the Association. To complete its furnishings we are greatly in need of a piano.

Besides the office and rooms of the General Secretary there are three dormitory rooms in the association building which are rented to students.

As a social center, though, the Y. M. C. A. has proved its greatest value. In the various rooms are held practically all of the meetings of the student committees. These rooms are extensively used by the various high school and county clubs of the University for their meetings. The building is the official meeting place of the student Council, the Debating Union, the Press Association and many other organizations of the University. In the reading room banquets are given every year to the inter-collegiate debaters immediately after the inter-collegiate debates held in Chapel Hill.

The game room adds much to the social life of the association. This room is provided with tables for croquet, chess, checkers, carrom and other games which provide recreation for many students. The tables are well occupied from early morning until late at night, especially since the cold weather forbids any out-of-door sports. As a social center, then, the Y. M. C. A. building has come to be indispensable to the University students.

The purpose of the Y. M. C. A. is to provide in its House a college "Home" for every student in the University and we believe that more students have utilized it as such this year than in any other year in its history.

At the meeting of the Association of American Pharmacologists at New Haven during the holidays, Dr. W. deB MacNider of the Department of Pharmacology and Bacteriology was elected a member of the National Council. An editorial comment in the Raleigh News and Observer speaks of Dr. MacNider's election as "a high honor worthily bestowed."
