THE resignation of Mr. W. H. Jones our editor-in-chief is a cause for genuine regret. While in charge of the TAR HEEL Mr. Jones set a high standard of excellence which received favorable comment from supporters of the University both on the campus and throughout the State. This standard the new editor and his assistants will endeavor to maintain.

THAT basketball contest, last Friday night, was—to use an ancient expression—of more than passing interest. It marked the entry of the University into a new field of athletics. On Friday night our first basketball team played its first match game. Our athletic curriculum at last includes all of the five major sports. Old Carolina is not lagging behind in athletics, at any rate.

The attendance was, on the whole, encouraging. A number of people came, it must be confessed out of mere curiosity. They had never seen a couple of quintets in action. They half-way expected to see a performance suited to girls and ministerial students—and, we are glad to say, these gentlemen were agreeably disappointed. In fact all of the two hundred or more spectators were highly delighted with the exhibition. "The game's all right and the team's all right," was the common verdict.

For the introduction of basketball we are indebted mainly, to three persons—the captain of the team, the coach, and the faculty athletic advisor. They have placed the game on a tangible basis and have arranged a good schedule. It is up to the students to do the rest. Good, hearty support, and basketball at Carolina is an assured success.

A COLLEGE paper, however dissimilar it may be to the conventional newsheet, possesses one striking characteristic in common with the said newsheet—neither can be run on hot air. Now if the TAR HEEL were a country newspaper we would throw open our smoke-house and pantry to contributions of home made sausage, prize hams, blue ribbon watermelons etc, and we and our family would proceed to wax fat thereon. Unfortunately, however, the TAR HEEL is a college paper. We are compelled to depend entirely on subscriptions and advertising for means of sustenance. Ergo, we would be profoundly pleased to see a few remittances dropping our way. Out of the goodness of your hearts and the fullness of your purses, we beg you to take notice.

THE Editorial Staff of the TAR HEEL welcomes to its corps of editors, a new editor, in the person of Miss Louise Wilson. Miss Wilson is a member of the Senior Class and is making a specialty of English. She will be the TAR HEEL's Social Editor.

As an afterthought, we may remark that this is the first time in twelve years that a co-ed has had a place on one of the University publications.

WE are not altogether to blame for the tardy reappearance of the TAR HEEL. The main trouble lies with the printing department. There has been a scarcity of typesetters since the first of the year. However, from now on our subscribers may expect the TAR HEEL on the regular schedule—Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Dr. Mims Addresses Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Mims delivered last Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium a splendid lecture. Those present felt abundantly repaid for coming out to hear the address. Dr. Mims had for his subject the religious aspect of proper thinking. The substance of the address is as follows:

"It is our duty to think properly. Just as serious and costly mistakes are made in thinking as in our moral conduct. As Christian men we must get ourselves in the best attitude for doing the will of God; we must learn to think properly and to get the greatest possible amount of good from our thinking. While in college we should learn to see things, to retain our thoughts, and to concentrate them on our respective tasks. Failure to develop one's mental talents is as sinful as drinking or gambling.

"One should ever keep his mind open for, and receive into it anything that is true or good or beautiful. Often a man will refuse to recognize good in music or poetry. Some Southern men refuse to recognize that any good can come from the North; some Northern men have the same feeling for the South. Such prejudice is fatal alike to individuals and to masses. We should recognize and appreciate the good in every movement in whatever section it originates.

"There is a radical and a conservative tendency in every movement, and real history runs between these extremes. There is truth in both tendencies and it prevails. The thinker sees this truth, he distinguishes between superstition and faith, between sentimentalism and sentiment, between revolution and evolution; he discards the one and accepts the other. He is governed by the law of proportion; he knows how to apply the proper emphasis at the proper time and in the proper place. I have heard ministers preach in Durham against Wall Street vices just as if citizens of Durham were addicted to such vices. For instance, I would not emphasize the harm of too much bookishness to this audience. Thus it is that along with our spiritual and mental development we should train our minds to think properly, without prejudice and according to the law of proportion.

At the meeting of the N. C. Section of the American Chemical Society at Raleigh on Saturday, Doctor James E. Mills, formerly Associate Professor of Chemistry in this University, was re-elected Councilor, and Mr. George MacNider, '04, was elected President. Dr. R. B. Hall represented the Chemistry Department of the University at the meeting.
