THAT proposed trolley line to Durham is apparently a castle in Spain affair. The good citizens of the district have made an eleventh hour discovery to the effect that freight rates would very likely be heavier under the new arrangement. Well, granting that, why cannot the old line be allowed to continue business and an electric line be constructed to Durham for passenger traffic? Surely there would be enough passenger business to make such a line a paying proposition.

PATRONIZE our advertisers. Of course this is what every newspaper would like for its subscribers to do, but in our case there is a special factor involved, namely, that, generally speaking, the students who are our subscribers are also the owners of the paper.

This is your paper, another statement you have heard time and again, But do you realize that it is yours, not merely in a sentimental sort of sense, but yours because you own it?

Every student of the academic department who is anybody is a member of the Athletic Association and the Association owns this paper. Perhaps it would be well to explain what is meant by the phrase "who is anybody". By this we include every one of strong personality who wishes to have a voice in the direction of college affairs. It should be stated, however, this is not meant to supply to those few, those very few, who really and truly havnt got the dollar membership fee.

If, then, you are a member of the Athletic Association, you are, in the most literal sense, an owner of this paper--your's one of the board of directors.

Now, it is reasonable to suppose that you would take a special interest in a paper that you own.

The Tar Heel, like every other newspaper, is maintained by its advertisements. Without them, we should have to bang down the top of the editor's desk, and go to writing themes for Third English instead of editorials.

There is one firm in this beautiful burg of Chapel Hill, a leading store at that, which refuses absolutely to advertise in the Tar Heel. Not only that, but it was extremely discourteous to the business manager who asked it for an ad. We venture the assertion that this firm would have to go out of business were it not for the patronage of the students, or even of the members of the Athletic Association.

Read the advertisements, dear directors of this paper, and patronize your advertisers.

Mr. Tener Conducts Chapel Exercises

Mr. W. A. Tener, missionary in the Philippines, conducted chapel exercises Tuesday. He endeavored to paint a picture of the hugeness of the work being accomplished in the different parts of the world by Christian missionaries, laying special emphasis upon China, in as much as the University students are supporting a missionary in that field. He spoke of the educational revolution now taking place in China and Japan, of the great demand for English speaking teachers, and of the vast opportunity for Christian young men in America to there render service to their fellowmen. Japan and China, said Mr. Tener, are asking for the science of the western nations, and the result will surely be dangerous to our civilization unless we also give them Christianity.

Dialectic Receives Honorary Members

Goat-riding was the pass-word in the Dialectic Society Saturday night when several of the most prominent faculty members and pastors of the local churches were put through the third degree, and made honorary members. Short talks were made by the initiates in which they voiced their appreciation of honorary membership and urged the Dialectic to carry on Carolina's great work in debate. Those initiated were: Drs. Hall, Viles, Dye, Bain, Bell, Rev. Dr. Smith, and Rev. Mr Stanbury.

Germans Like Dr. Smith

Professor Alphonso Smith, of the University of Virginia, who is absent as Roosevelt Professor in Berlin, has been asked to repeat his lectures during the next semester at the University of Leipsig, but has declined. He has also been requested to repeat them in Berlin for the benefit of those who cannot hear them at the regular hours.

The Penalty of Wit

Bill Nye hired a suburban place on Staten Island in the late eighties, and lived for a time in rural simplicity. In the course of time he wished to dispose of a cow. He placed an advertisement in the local semi-weekly paper, saying simply that he had a Jersey cow for sale. Hundreds of people saw the advertisement and many of them slapped him on the back, laughing at his joke, as they would have it. The more violent he insisted that he really did have a cow for sale the more hilarious grew the laughter, and he never did sell the cow, but withdrew from the market disgusted.

Oxford University is counting largely on American Rhodes scholars for the annual dual meet with Cambridge.

There are eighty-nine candidates for the Freshman crew at Yale this year, a decrease of fourteen from last year.

The University of Washington has decided to celebrate its golden jubilee on February 22, 1912.

The University of Texas is trying to get rid of cabs and flowers as necessary adjuncts to college social functions.

The use of beautiful and correct English and a thorough knowledge of the classics are two of the most important requisites to be procured in college students who wish to become writers, according to Winston Churchill, writing in the Yale News.
