The Pickwick

The management has been making a special effort to secure more Biograph pictures. Several will be run next week. Also within the next fortnight a number of Kalem and Essanay films will be given that have just been released within the last thirty days. This will be quite a feature, as a motion picture show in a town this size rarely receives such new pictures.

Star Course Saturday Night

The Chicago Glee Club stands among the best male quartets of the country. The Club may be classed with the older organizations as it has been constantly before the public since February, 1899. Few changes in membership, voices perfectly adapted to the parts assumed, and an artistic musical temperament have produced a very high degree of excellence. The repertoire of the club comprises the best of all types of part-song music, and its programs of male quartets, trombone quartets, characterizations, vocal horn solos, present such variety and merit as to please every auditor.

Here is some press comment on the Club's works:

Birmingham (Ala.) News—The audience which greeted the Chicago Glee Club was a most enthusiastic and appreciative one, indeed, and enjoyed to the fullest extent the excellent and varied program which was so superbly rendered.

Dallas (Tex.) News—The Chicago Glee Club as a quartet is one of the greatest that ever appeared in Dallas. As soloists they can hardly be excelled and for blend of tone and harmony they are nearly perfect.

I have heard of poor and sad congregations, but the saddest preacher I ever knew went from Posey County, Indiana, to Pike County, Missouri (where John Hay discovered Little Breeches and Jim Bludsoe). He was starving to death on donations of catfish, possum, and a hundred dollar salary. Finally he made up his mind to go away. With wet eyes, he stood up in the prayer meeting to bid good bye to his weeping congregation.

"Brothers and sisters," he said, wiping his eyes on his red bandanna handkerchief, "I've called you together tonight to say farewell. The Lord has called me to another place. I don't think the Lord loves this people much, for none of you seem to die. He doesn't seem to want you. And you don't seem to love each other; for I've never married any of you. And I don't think you love me; for you don't pay me my salary—and your donations are mouldy fruits and wormy apples. 'By their fruits ye shall know them.'"

"And now, brothers and sisters. I am going to a better place. I've been appointed chaplain to the penitentiary at Joliet. 'Where I go ye cannot come; but I go to prepare a place for you.'—From the book 'Heart Throbs,' in National Magazine for March.

The scene was Mrs. Archer's parlor. George and Mary were sitting on the sofa. George was gazing at Mary with ardent fire in his eyes. He had never told his love; their acquaintance had been brief—he had met her at the Gimghoul dance a month before—and when suddenly he placed his arms around her neck and imprinted a kiss upon her rosebud mouth, she was naturally startled.

"Sir," she said, this is insufferable!"

"Forgive me, he cried. 'I was mad to act so. I beseech you, pardon me.'"

"No, I can never forgive you. You have forfeited my friendship. You must leave at once and forever."

Vainly he pleaded. She was obdurate. So glaring an offense could not be condoned.

"I will go, he murmured sadly, 'but before I leave you I have one boon to ask. I feel that I am not unreasonable nor presumptuous in desiring this one favor. I pray you to grant it to me. It is my final request.'"

"What is it?" she timidly, interrogated, softened by his emotion.

"Wont you please take your arm from around my neck?"—"14.
