On Monday night, April 3, at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. there will be a public meeting of the North Carolina Historical Society, at which Dr. William K. Boyd of Trinity College will read a paper on "North Carolina on the Eve of Secession."

Dr. Boyd is a graduate of Princeton, holds a Ph. D., from Columbia and was Fellow in History at Columbia. He was for a time Instructor in History at Dartmouth and now holds the chair of History at Trinity. Dr. Boyd is considered an authority on the period of which his paper will treat.

Everyone whether a member of the society or not is invited to attend the meeting. It will be something no student can afford to miss.

some to be the characteristic of the coming superman. He closed by quoting the whole of Browning's "Epilogue to Asclando" in which the great optimistic poet looks forward with unwavering faith to the future, after having manfully fought the battles of life, to "Strive and thrive; fight on there as here. Before closing his address, Dr. Van Dyke expressed himself as conscious of being the guest of a great university.

The great Princeton preacher conducted chapel exercises Monday, taking as his text Saint Paul's words, "One thing marks all that I do." This one thing, which we should all bear in mind, is the development of a strong, true, noble Christian character. We should realize that we are sons of God and follow the upward calling.
