

Sportograms.

Well, gentlemen, did you ever see such mulish tactics? We never did, except at a bush league contest.

Roach Stewart arbitered an excellent game. The Pennsylvanians admitted that after they had copped the game. Why the attempted bull dosing then? We have an idea the visitor's fat coach was largely responsible. He looked like he might be a product of the tall and uncut.

The boys were slightly off color. They didn't show as much fight as usual.

"Cab" Lindsay is getting his peepers on the Spalding. He got a double and a single yesterday.

Faison Witherington rapped out a clean one and swiped two bases. We wonder if he sent a night letter to anyone last night.

Ferd Duls pitched a creditable game considering he was facing nine right-handed batsmen.

Long had a little of everything—a fast ball, a slow one, a curve and an underhanded and overhanded spit ball.

That was a magnificent attempt of Jim Hackney's to bag Williams' short hit in the third. He would have gotten it if he hadn't fallen and sprained his shoulder. It isn't serious. He'll be at Greensboro. You can bet on that.

The big noises of the year are just a week off. Virginia has a better team than theirs of the past spring. Well we have a better balanced nine ourselves.

We are not boasting, but take it from me, if you are a fan and a sport, you won't be disappointed if you go to Greensboro or Charlotte.

Carolina's first track meet of the season was scheduled with Washington and Lee for April 8th in Lexington, but the meet has been postponed until April 24th. W. and L. notified Manager Stockton that their athletic field was being rebuilt and that on account of heavy rains recently it could not be put in condition for track work for several weeks.

Coach Cartmell's bunch, then, will open the season on April 17th at the Intra-State meet in Raleigh.
