OUR big games of the year are scheduled for Saturday and Monday, in Greensboro and Charlotte respectively. We lost to Virginia last Spring mainly because our players lacked confidence in each other.

But we have a new team this year—a team that will meet Virginia eagerly and confidently. It is composed of men who work together and who play their best all the time. Their steady work during the last three weeks warrants such assertions. They are going into these Virginia games to win and—but we'll say no more excepting that these games will be mighty well worth seeing.

A large number of students will go to Greensboro. We hope that they will behave decently. In particular we hope that those of our campus citizens who are alcoholically inclined will refrain from getting drunk until the game is over.

THIS will be the only issue of the TAR HEEL this week. One reason is that we're hard pushed to meet our press bills despite the pleasing promptness with which our subscribers and advertisers are paying bills rendered. However, just between you and us and the Davie Poplar, the Editor-in-chief and the other Editors are thinking seriously of making a grand tour to Greensboro and Charlotte, Saturday to Monday, as guests of the opulent Senior Hat Committee.

Council Seeks Authority.

An important meeting of the student body, called by the president of the senior class and of the council, was held in the chapel Saturday. The interest of the students in the particular piece of important business which was to be passed on was great, and as a result, a large member of students were present. President Dees called the meeting to order and then stated the business to be considered. He stated that at the present time the Student's Council has no power to compel a witness to tell what he knows concerning any case the Council may be acting on. The Council wanted to know whether the students desired to give it the power to deal with a witness who can testify without incriminating himself yet refuses, or whether the students desired to have the Council turn the case over to Dr. Venable. Several good speeches were made in favor of this proposition, only one against it, yet marshalled under the able leadership of F. N. Cox, the gentlemen whose creed is "don't peach" were able to defeat the proposition by a vote of 196 to 164.

Dr. Mims at Winston.

Winston-Salem April 1.—The series of lectures that Dr. Edwin Mims of the University of North Carolina has been giving in Winston-Salem this week came to a close yesterday afternoon with a lecture in Memorial hall of Salem Academy on "Southern Literature." There was an audience of about four hundred, representing all the elements of the population of the twin cities. The general subject of the series of lectures has been American Literature, the various lectures suggesting some of the most important phases of American life and thought as they have found expression in American literature. The first lecture was given in the auditorium of the Winston High School Wednesday afternoon to an audience of about three hundred on the subject, "The Golden Age of New England Literature," the second, at the same place, Thursday evening the subject being, "Sectionalism in American Literature." One pleasant feature of this lecture was the presence in a body, of all the graduates of Trinity College now living in the city.

In addition to the series of three lectures, Dr. Mims gave an address at the Winston High School Friday morning to the student body of that institution. Thursday afternoon he was the special guest of the Monday Afternoon Book Club. Friday afternoon he was the special guest of the Men's Cosmos Club at a dinner given by Mr. Lindsay Patterson.

So altogether Dr. Mims' stay in the city has been filled with great activity. In every group that he has appeared he has imparted his growing enthusiasm for literature. Many have been heard to say that they are now determined to learn more about America, and especially Southern prose and poetry. Dr. Mims is possessed by a broad spirit of nationalism, and no smaller spirit of provincialism is allowed to dwell within him. He is an enthusiastic preacher of the Gospel of Nationalism and he has won disciples in this city.—Charlotte Observer.

Commencement Debate Preliminaries.

The preliminary competitive contest was held on Monday night for the selection of debaters to represent the Philanthropic Society in the forthcoming commencement debate. Messrs. C. K. Burgess and C. E. Teague were selected by the judges, Drs. Chase, L. R. Wilson, and Rev. Dr. Smith. The other contestants were J. L. Orr, W. W. Rogers and F. B. Drane.

The Dialectic Society will hold a contest to select its representatives on Friday night. The candidates for the Di. team are C. R. Wharton, R. A. Freeman, W. F. Hendricks, C. L. Cates, P. H. Gwynn, J. T. Reece, J. M. Daniels, and Carlisle Higgins.

The commencement debate is by far the most important of the three inter-society debates. It always forms an interesting feature of commencement. All of the debaters must be members of the junior class and often the debates have been scarcely inferior to some of the inter-collegiate debates. The query for this year is: Resolved, that the United States Senators should be chosen by a direct vote of the people. The Philanthropic Society has the affirmative and the Dialectic Society the negative side of the question.

Mass Meeting tomorrow night. Oratory and music.
