Two of the greatest college baseball games ever played in the South Atlantic States are now of the past.

Carolina supporters should surely feel proud of the team that represents the old University.

THESE were probably the pleasantest games ever played between Carolina and Virginia. Neither team did any kicking at decisions of the umpires—and the Virginians certainly did well to control themselves in the face of one decision in the first game. Both teams showed themselves to be gentlemen and sports. We hope that the third game will be played under the same agreeable conditions.

THE third game will be played in Charlottesville as originally scheduled. Greensboro, Durham and Winston were after the game but the decision was in the hands of the Virginia authorities and they decided that Charlottesville should have the game.

THAT Greensboro game was no disgrace to us. We did everything but hit and it would have taken a bunch of Rudolfs to have lambasted Witmer. That gent was going at a tremendous rate. He had smoke, and control that would have done credit to Christy Mathemson. Ferd Duls was going some, too. He had the misfortune to get about three in the groove and—the rest is an old, old story.

Mr. D. O. Burch, who had served as pressman for the University Press this year, died suddenly Saturday night at his home in Chapel Hill. Interment was at Burlington on Monday afternoon. Amidst the trials and worries of the print shop Mr. Burch's perpetual good humor and geniality did much to cheer us all. We regret his death and sympathize with his widow in her sorrow.

Professor Cain Before Mitchell Society.

Professor William Cain Tuesday night presented a learned and able paper before the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society on the cohesion of earth as applied to the construction of tunnels, this being the only paper of the evening. He made an exceedingly profound impression on the Tar Heel reporter—indeed, he overwhelmed him.

He used seven intricate figures, nearly all the letters of the alphabet, both small and capital, some prime letters, and four Greek letters, and then stated that he was deducing a very simple formula. We would like to reproduce his paper in detail, but owing to the fact that we have no engraving plant, and do not wish our type-setters to go on a strike, we must content ourselves with saying simply that the Tar Heel agrees most heartily with Professor Cain's conclusions.

Suffice to say that the members of the Society thought it the only rational theory ever brought forth on the subject. We are glad to know that his theory is to be published, and hope he will present the Tar Heel with a copy of the article. We are convinced that his formula will win renown, since it was pronounced by those who ought to be good judges to be a distinct contribution to the world of science.

Last Star Course Pleases.

The series of Star Course entertainments for the year terminated Thursday night with the Wilbur Star Quartette Company, who pleased their audience as much as any attraction of the season.

The singing was full, melodious, and natural, and every number was rendered with a life and spirit which brought forth applause. The accompaniment on the piano added no little to the harmonies of the songs. Most quartets have the idea that it is more artistic to sing without accompaniment, and it is refreshing to listen to a star organization that does not scorn this assistance to their voices. Mr. Starr has a rich baritone that ought to be in grand opera. Another refreshing feature was the fact that these artists had the temerity to introduce in their program a few ancient favorites which would have insulted an up-to-date audience had it not been for the artistic manner in which they were carried through. The most delightful number on the program was perhaps Mr. Starr's series of ballads on the old and tragic theme of the grass hopper on the sweet potato vine who was gobbled up by the turkey gobbler.

Altogether, the Star Course management is to be congratulated on the attractions secured this year, the only possible criticism being that it has booked a super-abundance of quartets, exactly two-thirds of the attractions being of this nature, and all of them musical.

The Easter edition of the Yackey Yack will be ready for shipment Friday. If you have ordered one of this edition and wish to have it sent to your girl for an Easter gift you can have it sent to her by seeing Austin or Tanner before dinner time Thursday April 20th.

The regular edition of the Yackey Yack is now ready for shipment and will be ready for delivery as soon as class and club assessments have been collected.
