ELISHA MITCHELL SOCIETY MEETS

Dr. Hall and Dr. Herty each commented on this paper.

Dr. Archibald Henderson then gave a report of his work on "Cubic Surfaces." The geometrical treatment of cubic surfaces really begins in 1870. Attention began to be concentrated upon the surface with four conical points, and everything was found which could be derived from this.
At last Kaley became interested in the configuration of the twenty-seven lines, and specialized upon this, but the results were not quite satisfactory from a geometrical standpoint. It occurred to Dr. Henderson to take the general method and use it throughout the group of cubic surfaces.
He carried out this research two years ago, but since he lacked proper literature, he went to Cambridge University, England, to complete his investigations.
The study is divided into three parts: notational, since the twenty seven lines are so complex it is necessary to get an adequate notation; analytic, it is necessary to study each separately; geometrical, it is necessary to have some adequate representation, either by a model or on paper in perspective form.

Prof. Cain commented, paying a high tribute to Dr. Henderson that he should have been so honored in the home of great mathematicians, Cambridge University.
The historic English university published at its own expense, this treatise of Dr. Henderson's, an honor accorded but to one other American, the professor of mathematics at Harvard some years ago.

"Ethel," said Mr. Brown, "I want you to give that young man of yours a little message from me."

"Yes. Father," said Ethel, blushing.

Velvet
SMOOTHEST
TOBACCO

SKATING in the keen air
—the companionship of a pipe—the pleasure of a tobacco such as Velvet!

Velvet is the best leaf—aged over two years in the warehouse—a slow, silent transformation from harsh leaf to a mellow smoking tobacco. Time gradually erodes the bite—matures the good qualities of the leaf—a flavor unusual—good—wonderfully good!

Such a tobacco takes time to produce—extreme care withal, but this is the smoke we all want—so why not?

At all dealers.
