

UNIVERSITY'S 119 BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

as follows:

"A prime requisite for the men who would count in the life of the Greater University is character. By character I mean the sum total of the qualities of courage, of good faith, of sense of honor. Character is essential to success.

"But a man must also have intelligence. A man is what he thinks. Intelligence is essential for a Greater University man.

"But in addition a man must devote himself to some cause. It is not potential ability, but kinetic availability that we want. I have the greatest respect for the laboring man—his cause in its proper niche in the cause of liberty is the cause of the Greater University man.

"But there is a finer requisite yet. Every man must hearken to the magnet between himself and the great directing power. Today "Thou shalt not steal" applies not only to the man who robs the till, but to the employer who works his employees for long hours without fair pay, and to the employee who does not give a fair amount of work in return for his wage.

"Briefly, character, intelligence, work, and righteousness are the fundamentals in the Greater University."

Mr. J. K. Wilson, introduced by the president as the youngest member of the board of trustees, spoke next on "Complacency or Idealism," as follows:

"The University is enjoying a wonderful growth and I rejoice greatly in it—but yet I think that we are not making the progress that we should, that we are falling short in the reckoning.

"Our honor system, we know, is not what it should be. We do not try enough to make it effective, to make it count. The University is a state institution. North Carolina demands more of us than we are giving. The University should be brought into closer, more practical touch with the people of the state.

"I want to see the University carry its instruction outside of its own stone walls into the four walls of every home in the state. This must be the work of the Greater University—to help the people of the state up into the clearer air and the larger view."

Following Mr. Wilson, Mr. George Stephens, who was a great athlete when he was in the University, back in the 90's, made a plain, business talk on "Athletics."

"The thought" he said, "that I want to impress upon you and leave with you is that you lend your influence as individuals and as a class towards getting the Alumni back here to assist in coaching the various teams. An Alumni system of coaching will insure the interest of the Alumni in the University; it will make for winning teams; and winning teams will prove a great asset for the University."

Mr. Victor S. Bryant, the last speaker on behalf of the alumni, touched on the progress of the University during the past quarter of a century and pointed out how that progress could be helped on by the student body and faculty.

"In 1884, when I entered the University," he said, "She had eight buildings, no equipment, seven professors, and hardly two hundred students. Twenty-eight years have seen the number of buildings largely increased, the equipment made creditable, the number of professors multiplied by ten, and the student body more than quadrupled.

"The present position of the University is sound. Her future rests largely with you who are here today. Let there be complete harmony within the ranks; let there be an upholding of the President's hands on the part of students and faculty; let there be the presenting and maintaining of a firm, united front."

Prof. W. S. Bernard, of the Class of 1900, spoke next on the "Alumni Review," a paper which is to be published as the official organ of the alumni. Its objects, Mr. Bernard stated, were three:

1. To carry the news of the University to the alumni.
2. To be the medium of bringing the thought of the alumni to the University; to be an open forum for the expression of the alumni.

3. To connect about nine thousand alumni with each other, the ones in Maine, for instance, with those in California.

Mr. Frank P. Graham, representing the student body, was the last speaker on the program.

"Our student self government," he declared, "has lately been subjected to severe shocks; it has clearly not been the force that it should have been among us. But this is important, the spirit behind our self government is all right. The life of our self government is organic; it comes up from within; it cannot fail. "Out of the ashes of our misfortunes there are rising a stronger self government, an awakening of the alumni, and a Greater University"

The "Song of the Alumnus" was sung, the exercises of the day were brought to a close by a prayer from Rev. W. A. Stanbury.

WAKE FOREST LOSES HARD GAME

Stevens tried again, but the kick went wide. Up to this time Wake Forest had been almost wholly on the defensive. Toward the end Gooch made 20 yards around left end behind pretty interference.

In the third quarter Wake Forest attacked fiercely. Utley was used frequently and gained well. Time and again he made 5 and 10 yards and once Carolina's left wing was entirely covered and Utley raced past every man except Tillett who threw him in clean tackle. The ball was taken to Carolina's 5 yard line. Here the defense tightened up and under her own goal posts the Carolina line was impregnable. Riddick tried a drop kick. It was partially blocked and Tillett caught it on his goal line. He was thrown back for a safety. Moore's defensive work in this quarter was of a high standard.

Wake Forest continued the aggressor in the fourth quarter and again rushed to Carolina's 5 yard line, only to be thrown back. Then came Tillett's brilliant run and the game was cinched. Stevens failed at goal.

Carolina failed to show the form promised by the Davidson game. The line did not charge well and interference by the backs was painfully weak. It was better on punts and kick offs than from scrimmage.

Individually the men did well. Abernathy's work at tackle was first-rate and Applewhite gained well through the line. Nobody could gain, however, when gains meant a touchdown. Moore tackled brilliantly while he was in the game. Wakeley punted well and the ends covered fairly well. Wake Forest's handling of punts was very poor.
