PRINCETON WINS BY CAROLINA ERRORS

Tar Heels Wake Many Miscues and Lose First Game Score 9 to 3

AYCOCK HELD TIGERS TO SIX HITS

Pendleton Was a Mighty Factor in the Victory—Carolina Out Hit Princeton, but Played Bonehead.

Loose field play and general lack of team work enabled Princeton to score a 9 to 3 victory over Carolina in Greensboro Wednesday. It was the opening game for both teams and one of them, Carolina, showed it. A drizzling rain and a bad field caused the infield to pull off poor work.

Princeton could not hit Aycock to any advantage. He went the full nine innings and in view of circumstances did extremely well. Princeton used three pitchers and all save Rodgers were affective. Pendleton, the great football artist, was easily the star of the game. He made three hits, scored three times himself, and fielded sharply.

Carolina scored in the second when Long beat out a slow ground ball, went to second on a wild pitch, to third on Johnson's out, and home on William's clean single. The other two runs came in the seventh. Aycock and Thompson both singled and Captain Edwards' drive to right brought them home.

Pendleton beat out a hit in the second and scored from first on Reed's single to center. Some base running! In the sixth Princeton scored twice on a hit batsman, a base on balls, and a lack of understanding on part of the Tar Heel infield. Two runs and not a hit!

In the seventh, two doubles, a base on balls, an error, and a failure to back up home cost three runs. Hanks was hit in the ninth and Pendleton singled. Reed brought them both across with a double.

Edwards and Williams did some clever fielding.

TAYLOR AND BUSBY WILL REPRESENT CAROLINA IN DEBATE AGAINST VIRGINIA

W. F. Taylor, of the Law Class, and J. C. Busby, of the Senior Class, have been selected as Carolina's debaters against Virginia. The preliminary contest was held Wednesday night in the Phi Hall. The contestants for places on the team besides Taylor and Busby were H. C. Petteway, E. R. Rankin, and L. B. Wall. The judges were Professors Graham, McIntosh, and Noble.

The debate with Virginia will be one of the three debates that will be held on April 19 between the members of the triangle composed of Carolina, Virginia, and Johns Hopkins. Each debate will be held on neutral ground. Carolina will thus meet Virginia at Johns Hopkins. Virginia and Johns Hopkins will meet at Chapel Hill, and Carolina will meet Johns Hopkins at Charlottesville. Out of the four debates that have been held between Carolina and Virginia in the past, each of these ancient rivals has won two.

The preliminary to select the team to go against Johns Hopkins will be held tonight in the Di Hall. Those trying for places on this team are W. R. Petteway, R. W. Iseley, Frank Graham, Kenneth Royall, D. R. Blalock, W. S. Tillett, and T. J. Hoover.

The query in both debates is: "Resolved, That, disregarding the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, the tolls a Panama should be the same to the merchant ships of all nations." Carolina has the negative with Virginia and the affirmative with Johns Hopkins.

SOPHS EAT AND NAME FRESHMEN

The Sophomores had their first banquet at the Inn last Friday night and the Student Council hasn't even had a meeting yet. That is no sign they didn't eat a lot, however, and make a great noise and a bon-fire. They had some speeches too. Prof McKie started the conversation off by telling of the attitude of the people of the state toward the University and what we should do to remedy it. O. M. Marsburn replied to this speech with a bunch of good jokes. Toastmaster Woolcott introduced the next speaker as "Jimmie."

Dr. Royster rose and addressed the class on "Individualism." He said individualism was a good thing, but it might go too far and degenerate into selfishness. He closed by saying, "Class anything is a good thing." B. L. Fields responded on "The Duty of the Class to the University."

Mr. Warren's expression of interest in the class was heartily received. G. A. Mebaue then urged the class to have more smokers and other class functions. He said we needed more class unity.

Prof. Stacy, the last Faculty speaker, was absent. W. P. Fuller told the class what he thought was

YOUNG ATHLETES WILL MEET HERE

The First Annual Scholastic Track Meet to Be Held April 11

ALL SCHOOLS IN THE STATE INVITED

Greater Council's Plans Are Being Put Into Execution and There Is Every Indication of Success

The first Annual Scholastic Track Meet of the University of North Carolina will take place on April 11. The plans for the meet, inaugurated by the Greater Council, and backed by the alumni and the Athletic Association, are rapidly taking on definite shape under the active management of Walter Stokes, manager of the track team, and Coach Cartmell.

Letters of information and entry blanks have been sent to all the principal High Schools and prep schools and notice has been given to practically every school in the state. Replies are already beginning to come in and several schools have signified their intention of sending representatives. There is every indication that the meet will be as much of a success as the High School Debating Union.

The events will be in number: 100 yard dash, 220 yard run, 880 yard run, mile, 120 yard low hurdle, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, 12 pound shot put, 12 pound hammer throw. Handsome prizes will be awarded the individual winners and a trophy will be given the school winning the meet.

The contestants will be entertained while here by the Greater Council. Every effort will be made for their comfort and pleasure. The University has a great opportunity of coming in contact with promising young athletics and should put its best foot forward in welcoming them.

PROFESSIONS PRAISED AT CHAPEL

Especially interesting have been the Chapel periods this week. Various members of the faculty have set before the students the advantage of various fields for a man's life-work. Monday morning Dr. J. H. Pratt spoke to the students on the geological resources of the State, and of the attractive opportunities here opened for engineers in this field through the North Carolina Economic and Geological Survey.

Tuesday Dr. J. S. Holmes presented the claims of forestry engineering. And Prof. P. H. Daggett spoke very interestingly Wednesday on electrical engineering; its opportunity and requirements.

Dean E. K. Graham has been selected as one of the judges in a debate between Wake Forest and Baylor University of Walgo, Texas, to be held in the Raleigh Auditorium Easter Monday. The other judges are Judge Henry G. Connor of Wilson and ex-Judge J. S. Manning of Raleigh.

OLDHAM, MERRIMAN, AND HATCH ARE ALL CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Four Months Imprisonment Is the Sentence, but the Judge Allows Them to Be Hired Out to Their Fathers

Ralph W. Oldham, of Raleigh, William L. Merriman, of Wilmington and Aubrey C. Hatch, of Mount Olive, three former students of the University concerned in the death of Isaac William Rand in a hazing escapade on September 13, 1912, were found guilty of manslaughter by an Orange County jury in Hillsboro on March 15, and were each sentenced by Judge Peebles to four months in prison. The terms will not be served however, as authority was given the county commissioner to hire the boys out to whomsoever they pleased and they will be hired out to their fathers. Arthur H. Styron, of Wilmington, the fourth boy brought to trial, was set free by order of Judge Peebles because of lack of evidence against him.

The announcement of the verdict by the foreman of the jury came at the end of three hours deliberation and the decision did not cause much surprise. The little court house in Hillsboro which had been crowded during the trial was jammed to its utmost capacity when the jury filed in to give its decision. The deciding moment of the horrible tragedy came with intense silence, but with calm by the defendants and their fathers.

Immediately after Judge Peebles had passed the sentence of four months, which is the minimum under the law, Victor S. Bryan, of Durham, one of the defending attorneys, arose and in a few words thanked the judge for the humane attitude which he had assumed towards the young men. Judge Peebles replied to the expression of thanks from the attorney of the defendants in these words: "I hope this will be the last case of hazing in any college or university in North Carolina. It is incomprehensible to me that boys brought up as those boys should go to a poor freshman's room and take him out of his room, pour blacking on him, and have fun at his expense. I am glad of an opportunity to show these young men that I have no inclination to be severe. I only want to make an example of this case. I understand that another boy has been blacked at the university since this case began. If I had the boys that did that here I certainly would put them on the roads."

Although the conviction of manslaughter carries with it a stigma and deprives a man of citizenship, the actual punishment meted out to Oldham, Hatch, and Merriman by the court is light. The payment of the cost in the case and the hiring of the boys to their parents, sums up the punishment administered in its last analysis. It was positively indicated that this will be the method of procedure approved by the county commissioners when the appointed day comes for hiring them out.

Thus ended a trial memorable in the history of the University and State. It establishes a precedent in regard to the punishment of hazing for there is no record of a hazing controversy being threshed out previously in any court of this state.

It is the final chapter in what began as a frolic and ended as a tragedy that was sent broad-cast over the state and nation, and was commented upon and discussed everywhere. The tragedy was the direct cause of a sweeping investigation into the practice of hazing at the University which resulted in the expulsion of four students besides those tried and the suspension of nine more.

The trial began in Hillsboro on Thursday, March 13 and the decision of the jury was announced Saturday March 15 at 3:10 P. M. During that time great crowds thronged to the court house. Public interest was keen and the state papers carried columns of news. The array of legal talent included some of the best in the State. Solicitor S. M. Gattis of Hillsboro, was associated in prosecution by E. J. Justice and E. D. Broadhurst of Greensboro. The defendants were represented by Victor S. Bryant, of Durham, W. P. Stacy, Louis Poisson, and Louis Goodman of Wilmington, ex-Judge J. S. Manning and A. L. Wissburg, of Durham, D. P. Stern, of Greensboro, and John W. Graham, of Hillsboro.

The witnesses brought out no material new facts. The familiar story was gone over of how the boys, masked, entered Rand's room after midnight, took him and his roommate, Wellons, out to the athletic field; of how Rand was put on an up-turned barrel and told to sing; of how he fell from the barrel upon a piece of broken glass which cut his throat; and of his consequent death.

In charging the jury today Judge Peebles called attention to the fact that whether young Rand fell off the barrel during the hazing and was killed, or the barrel was kicked over was not a matter for consideration.

If the three men under indictment masked and with sticks in hand as produced in the State's testimony, entered the room of Rand and laid hands on him and against his will carried him to the athletic field then it is the duty of the jury to find a verdict of guilty," said the court.

The fact that hazing had been practiced at the university for a hundred years, and that this was the first case to be tried in court, it was pointed out, did not negate or change the laws of the State and should not affect the jurors in reaching their verdict.

Dr. Archibald Henderson has been invited to address the Woman's Club at the city of Cincinnati on the evening of March 31.
