GODSPEED.

To those twenty odd men who this week face the crisis of the year we cry Godspeed. You are going over the border into a land of heroes to stand breast to breast to a team that in victory or defeat is superb. Carolina players everywhere will tell you that whatever Virginia may do on other fields, in Richmond on Thanksgiving Day she will fight like a wounded tigress. Entrenched behind a long list of victories and confident in the knowledge that she is represented now by one of the very best teams that ever wore those happily-hated Orange and Blue jerseys, she awaits your onslaught. And you, you men of Carolina, you men of us, we send you forth gladly because we know your worth. You have been tested in the fires of eight conflicts and have come forth, not spotless, but stronger and wiser and fiercer for the scars that have been burnt into your shields. We like your come-back spirit that does not know what it is to blench before odds or to break when all else seems to be slipping. We love you because you are North Carolina, in weakness or in strength, in defeat or in victory, always North Carolina, always us. May the great God of the Game give you the power to fight better than you know.

"One more time a team from Carolina goes forth to meet a team from Virginia. One more time a team from the Old North State, filled with love and loyalty for its college, driven on by the spirit and enthusiasm of young lives, goes forth to do battle with an ancient rival and a worthy foe.—Virginia, we have lost to you before and lost like sportsmen. Please the gods we may win this time and win like gentlemen."

THE ALUMNI COACHES.

The return of the Alumni during the last week of practice was a source of inspiration to the team and satisfaction to the athletic authorities here at the University. We wish more of the old players could have come, but those here did a world of good. Talking of pep! Billy Reynolds and Icky Garret made that scrub line rise above itself in the effort to throw back the shift. As far as actual playing ability right now is concerned, Jim Wiggins looked like he could give any of them pointers on tackling. And our own Vernon Howell simply had to jump into the line once in a while, citizen clothes and all, to show the rising generation that quickness and clean tackling are not new things. All of them know the Cardinal point of football-fight. All of them have the spirit. All of them have an undying interest in this team and every other Carolina team. We thank them all and invite them back any time they can come.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE.

Two contests with Virginia will take place in Richmond. Out on the field Captain Abernathy will lead his warriors against the cream of the Old Dominion. Up in the stands cheer leader Pritchett and his assistants will lead the Thundering Thousands in their assortment of "Split Carolinas", "Boomerays", and "Fight for Carolinas" How about winning both contests? You, irrespective of who you are, can do your part by bunching together with all the other Carolina men, by following the directions of the leaders, and by lifting up your voice to high heaven. You are going to yell anyway—Who ever sat through a football game without splitting his throat—and you might as well do it in a scientific fashion. The guy who first declared that "United we stand, divided we fall," must have been thinking of cheering; nowhere is the saying better illustrated. If everybody follows the leaders, we'll raise the roof off the sky. If not—but there's no such possibility.

Community Clean-up Days.

The Health Committee of the Community Club takes this opportunity to thank the students of the University for their generous help in connection with the Clean-up Days of the Community Club, November 5th and 6th. While not a great deal was accomplished in connection with the streets of the town, yet a very good beginning was made in cleaning up Battle's Park, or woods adjoining the southern part of the campus. They began to clear away the debris which has been accumulating for generations. This debris has been a menace to health and has marred the beauty of the woods for those who enjoy a walk in these delightful suburbs. The Club is also deeply indebted to Mr. Moss and Mr. Starr for their active interest in helping with this work.

We understand that the University will continue this work from time to time.

The Club also bespeaks the cooperation of the students in helping to keep the streets of the town clear of papers, especially around the Post Office. If each student will remember to throw his papers in the cans, this can be done. Boys, help us to make and keep Chapel Hill the Town Beautiful, a model for the balance of the State. We can do it with your help.

H. M. Berry, Chairman, Health Committee of the Community Club.
