Seldom even at commencement has this old campus seen a busier Manteo, New Bern, Pleasant last Thursday afternoon by a two days than were Thursday Garden, Statesville, Sylvan, and score of 3 to 2. The game was and Friday of last week when the Winston-Salem, High School Debaters were in possession. They began coming in Wednesday night and by Thursday noon the roll was practically complete. As they came in they were conducted to the Y. M. C. A. to register and get programs and much information that they doubtless soon forgot. After this formality they were gradually distributed among the various students, county clubs, and members of the faculty, whose guests they were. And it is an interesting commentary upon the student body and their hospitality that in spite of our somewhat madequate dormitories the students themselves entertained nearly all of the two hundred and seventy-five visiting bebaters and track men. At meals the majority were the guests of the University at the Inn and at Commons.

After dinner Thursday the Debaters assemble in the Chapel to draw for halls and sections for the first preliminary. This was the first time that they had gathnumbers as they practically filled the lower floor of the Chapel. Friday morning these survivors renewed the competition in the second preliminary. From nine until two they fought it out behind the closed doors of the Society Halls. Finally as the crowd was gathering to be photographed word went about that Graham had been selected as champion of the affirmative, Winston-Salem of the negative. It was characteristic of these High School boys and girls that those whose hopes had been raised by making the second preliminary only to have them dashed to the ground, like those who had lost in the first, accepted the decision stoically and without a murmur, Individually and in general they were true sportsmen and at this fact North Carolina should be as proud as of their skill at debate. with two bases.

Carolina won from Hampden Sidney in an interesting game Carolina's at the start but the run getting called for a little initiative, and when Hampden-Sidney scored in the fourth a little excitement was aroused. Pritchett's crew became enthused and the whole college was pulling for a score. In the sixth Hampden-Sidney again scored, and something had to come. Hubert Bailey after a long, fast journey toward the central fence pulled down a ball that was intended for three bags.

The boys were there with the goods: In the sixth "Rabbit" doubled, made it three on a passed ball, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Patterson. In the seventh Rousseau got a hit for one base, and stole second. In a minute Litchfield came up and of course Rousseau went around by way of third when Litchfield doubled The next inning Patterson singled, Woodall put him down to second, and long ran him home taking Graduate work met in the
