TEAM IN ATLANTA FOR TECH GAME TODAY

GEORGIA HAS A GOOD RECORD: OVER 300 POINTS SCORED TO OPPONENTS 0

CAROLINA SHOWS SIGNS OF AGGRESSIVE NATURE

No Serious Injuries Were Received in Princeton or Harvard Games. Line-up Substantially Same as Last Saturday

The squad left yesterday for Atlanta where they will play Georgia Tech this afternoon. In spite of the two hard games with probably the best teams on the Eastern gridiron and the inconveniences which the long trips put in the way of practicing the squad is in an unusually good condition. No one was seriously hurt in either the Princeton or Harvard game.

In the Harvard game, Carolina displayed a real aggressive fighting spirit—which gained momentum in each period. Harvard was unable to score the second and fourth quarters.

Since the team's return last Monday there has been a survival of that vigor which marked the struggle with the Crimson eleven last Saturday.

Georgia Tech has been getting together much score—but the calibre of her victims does not measure up to either that of Princeton or Harvard. There is no adequate means, however, of comparing the strength of the two teams. Davidson offered the Tech men a stiff fight and allowed only a 9 to 0 score. In the game before that, Tech scored 222 points and previous to that 80 points to her opponents 0.

Carolina has failed to score in the last two games—but those are probably the hardest of the season.

Probable line up for Carolina:

- GrimesLeft Guard
- Tandy (Capt.)Centre
- HarrellRight Guard

NEW FEATURE ADDED TO CHAPEL EXERCISES

A new feature has been added to the Chapel exercises in the form of a student forum. From now on throughout the year every Thursday morning Chapel period will be turned over to some student speaker to use as he wishes in bringing before the student body some question of interest.

It is the desire of Dean Stacy to have men from all the schools of the University appear before the student body in discussions of various college topics; he wants it to be an open forum in which all may feel free to express themselves on any subject. Thus the whole college may become better unified, the students may have an opportunity to voice their sentiments and opinions, and the Chapel exercises will become more diversified and more interesting. If you have anything you want to say, see Dean Stacy and make a date for one of these Thursday morning periods.

HARVARD PASSES FEATURE IN DEFEAT OF TAR HEELS

21-TO-0 FINAL SCORE IN HARD GOUGHT GAME AT CAMBRIDGE

Harvard's forward passes and end runs resulted in 21 points against Carolina last Saturday at Cambridge. The Tar Heel secondary defense was poor and time and again Casey squirmed away from the White and Blue tackles for substantial gains. Four of Harvard's forward passes were completed and this accounted largely for the final score. It was well into the second period before Captain Tandy's men found themselves and then they were fully a match for the Crimson eleven for the rest of the game. The line, while at times unable to resist the rushes of Horween, was able to hold the Harvard forwards for downs four times, once on the one yard line. Carolina's kicking game succeeded better this week than last, our men getting down (Continued on Page Six)

HUGHES-LINNEY-GRISSOM CLUB ORGANIZED TUESDAY

The political situation was again brought to the forefront in Chapel Hill affairs when the Republican sympathizers met in Gerrard Hall, Tuesday night and organized themselves into a Hughes-Linney-Grissom Club as a rival to the Wilson-Bickett Club, recently formed here. Hon. William Grissom, an alumnus of the University, addressed the meeting.

Before the speaking began officers for the club were elected. Those selected were J. Tucker Day president; S. C. Hodgkin, vice-president; S. I. Parker, secretary; and P. A. Cameron, treasurer. On the motion of Mr. Hodgkin it was voted that the club apply for membership in the National Republican College Men's League.

The meeting was opened by Quinton Holton, who made an appeal to the independent voters to consider carefully the political (Continued on Page Six)

FIRST ISSUE OF UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE NOW ON HILL

CONTAINS NUMBER OF GOOD ARTICLES, POEMS AND STORIES

The Magazine will probably appear in our midst on Saturday night. Those intimately aware of its contents admit that it is a worthy number. Editor-in-chief Capps has several good and practical editorials, the chief one being on the Shakespeare Pageant.

"Fluff and Fixedness" is the leading story, by Harris Copenhauer, a graduate student. "The Flight," a story laid in Poland, is a story by H. B. Mock, a Senior. There are several other stories of worthy note.

"Around the Well" is conducted by Oettinger and is an interesting department.

"Sketches" make their appearance again this year under the guidance of Clarvoe.

The best feature article this month is written by H. G. Baity, "The War and the Universities." Hermas Stephenson has an article on James Whitecomb Riley. Moses Rountree, a member of the Senior class but not in College this year, contributes a poem "The Palace of Pleasure." Paul Green, a Freshman, has two poems in this number.

Editor-in-chief Capps urges all men, especially the new men, to help make the University Magazine a success, and states that all articles poems and short stories by them will be given special consideration. The English department offers many prizes during the year. Articles published in the Magazine may be submitted also in the competition for these prizes.

CAROLINA FRESHMEN FAIL TO SCORE ON CHARLOTTE

Showing a reversal of form and too much confidence the First Year Reserve Team was unable to score, or even gain consistently against Charlotte High School last Saturday. Only two or three times during the game was either goal threatened. Charlotte forced over one touchdown which was not counted because of shoving by one of the High School ends.

The High School boys completely outplayed the first year team in every department of the game, a great contrast being shown be (Continued on Page Six)

MATHEMATICAL CLUB FORMED

About twenty-five members of the faculty and students interested in mathematics met Thursday night and organized the Mathematical Club. Major Cain was elected President; Dr. Archibald Henderson, Vice-President; and Mr. J. W. Lasley, Secretary-Treasurer. The purpose of the Club is to foster an interest in mathematics and bring together men from all the departments involving mathematics in discussions of questions of common interest. It hopes to answer the long-felt need of a closer correlation and cooperation between these different departments. Its meetings will be monthly. (Continued on Page Two)

THE CAROLINA-GEORGE WASHINGTON DEBATE

The following subject has been chosen for the Carolina-George Washington Debate: "Resolved, That Congress should pass a law requiring compulsory arbitration of all controversies arising between the employers and employees of railroads engaged in interstate commerce, constitutionality waived." Carolina defends the affirmative side of the question.

The time for holding the preliminary has not yet been decided by the Debating Council, but will be announced later in the Tar Heel. However it has been decided that the speeches shall not be longer than twenty minutes each.

The terms for the final debate can be secured from the Secretary of the Debating Council. The debate will be held in Washington, D. C., on Monday, Dec. 18, 1916; and it is earnestly desired that all who can will go out for this contest.

FALL TENNIS TOURNAMENT NOW DRAWING TO A CLOSE

POWELL, HERTY AND HESTER STILL IN FIGHT FOR FIRST PLACE

The fact that thirty-eight men entered the fall tennis tournament shows that much interest is being taken in tennis this year. The tournament has been played off with the exception of Powell, Hesty and Herty, the winner of which will play Combs (Capt.).

The varsity tennis team will be made up of four men this year and four letters will be given. There will also be an inter-class tournament, the winners being given numerals. Those interested in tennis should also be notified of a prize tournament which will be held in the spring. The winner of this tournament shall receive a handsome medal.

On next Tuesday the tennis team will play Trinity and on Saturday a contest is pending with Raleigh country club. Games are also pending with Elon, Wake Forest and a return Trinity game.

THE LATIN AMERICAN CLUB HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING

The Latin-American Club held its second meeting Monday night. The following officers were elected for the current year: C. C. Miller, President; W. G. Burgess, Vice-President; A. M. Lindau, Secretary; and P. B. Eaton, Reporter and Publicity. The Club's enrollment now numbers 30 or 40 men, most of whom are preparing themselves to engage in business in Central or South America, and who are anxious to learn as much as possible about the Latin-American countries before going there.

Dr. W. W. Pierson, faculty member of the Club, outlined the course of study and discussion for the year as follows: The year's work will be divided into two parts, each with eight meetings, covering a sixteen week period. The first half of the year will be devoted to the study of the geography, resources, and industries of the countries, which is to furnish a back- (Continued on Page Two)

MARVELOUS PICTURES WILL BE HERE OCT. 28

SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON'S PICTORIAL RECORD PRONOUNCED BEST IN WORLD

MANY VIVID SCENES FROM ANTARCTIC EXPLORATIONS

"More Entertaining Than a Hundred Ordinary Photo-Plays," Says New York Times

In recognition of the powerful appeal, both realistic and esthetic, of motion pictures to the modern consciousness, the University Committee has secured for the early autumn Sir Douglas Mawson's pictorial record of the Australasian Antarctic Expedition. Eminent authorities pronounce it the most unique series of pictures in the world, far surpassing any hunt or travel pictures ever hitherto taken. The expedition itself was the largest in the history of exploration, being composed of sixty-six University graduates. It covered a period of twenty-seven months at a cost of three hundred thousand dollar. The pictures were taken ten thousand miles from America and two thousand miles from the nearest human habitation in a land never till then seen by the eye of man. "Not even the Scott pictures, the Rainey African hunt picture or the Williamson Submarine pictures," says the Washington Post, "can equal these astonishing photographic representations of marine and animal life. The story is a tale of dauntless heroism." The story ranges from comedy to tragedy—from the screamingly funny antics of animals to the tragic loss of human life. Mr. Gilbert H. Grossman, Director of the National Geographic Society, says: "I hope that every American will have an opportunity to see Mawson's beautiful motion photos of the penguins and their rookeries, where one hundred thousand are seen, of sea elephants, and seals, of the great floating ice barrier and enormous icebergs, of the snowy petrel and ice-clad mountains."

These truly marvelous pictures, in six reels, will be shown here on the evening of October 28. A (Continued on Page Six)

GLEE CLUB MEMBERSHIP FINALLY ADJUSTS ITSELF

Director J. Earle Harris now has his Glee Club plans well under way. His picked chorus meets five times a week to rehearse the numbers which he has chosen with great care. It is said that the numbers of the chorus, which are mostly classic, are supported by one of the strongest mandolin clubs and orchestras which the university has ever had. The orchestra is very much strengthened this year by the new violinist, L. Lashmit, while the Mandolin club has its old star L. Chapman. Those who have made the club are as follows: first tenors, Pace, Martin, Daniel, Howell, Travis; second tenors, Lupfert, Green, Lashmit, Travis, Harris, Wimberley; first basses: Lindsey, Stephenson Chap- (Continued on Page Five)
