CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA FRESHMEN MEET TODAY

FIRST OF ANNUAL ENCOUNTERS
BETWEEN FIRST YEAR MEN
ON EMERSON FIELD

BOTH TEAMS ARE ABOUT EVEN

The first of the annual clashes between the freshmen of Virginia and Carolina will be played here today. This game inaugurates a series which in miniature, will be the replica of the big game.

The Virginia Freshmen have a good team. The average weight of the first eleven is 165 lbs. The back field averages only about 150 lbs, but they are fast. The heaviest man is Thompson, right-tackle, who weighs 210 lbs. Dechert, quarter back, weighs only 139. The ends average 154.

The Virginians have only been up against the various prep schools of the state—but some of those schools have strong teams.

The Carolina Freshmen have been showing great form in the latter part of the season. Starting very inauspiciously with a 0-0 game with the Charlotte Highs the Freshmen have steadily improved until now they present a very formidable aggregation. The last two games have resulted in a 44 to 0 win over Guilford College and a 52 to 0 win over Chapel

TAR HEELS WIN FROM 46-0 FURMAN COLLEGE

With the second string back field and Currie at center the Carolinians hit a stride against Furman which shows they are in line for the big game Thanksgiving. The final score was 46 to nothing.

Coleman, Black and Jennette carried the ball at will—seldom failing to gain substantially. Jennette, at quarter played a wonderful game. Some of his broken field runs were the best seen on the home grounds this year. Recovering a ball which was thrown out of his reach he ran through the whole Furman team for a touchdown. Coleman intercepted two forward passes in mid-field and ran for touchdowns. At times Black and Watkins would plough through the lines for first downs.

The line was practically impenetrable—and Furman only made three first downs.

Just after the last quarter had started, the regular back field, Folger, Tennent, Williams and Bellamy, began to warm up on the side lines. Without the signal of Si Parker or the suggestion of anyone, the whole student body anyone the whole student body rose up with an enthusiasm which alone could come from a school behind its team.

For the remaining ten minutes of play the Carolina Varsity displayed a machine like offensive which won the admiration of all present. Grimes and Tennent ran interference which time after time gave Folger a clear field for goal. Love, at end, played a star game—often stopping a line plunge from behind.

The whole team starred.

NEXT THANKSGIVING GAME STAGED ON EMERSON FIELD

VIRGINIA-CAROLINA FOOTBALL
CLASSIC COMING TO HOME SOIL

It's up to Richmond to make the most of the Virginia-Carolina Thanksgiving game November 30, for it's the last she's to get for many a year to come—probably the last she'll ever get. Next year the game will be played on Thanksgiving, as usual, but on Emerson Field at Chapel Hill. This announcement was made by Graduate Manager of Athletics, C. T. Woollen, of the University, Saturday.

This will be the first time Carolina and Virginia have met on a North Carolina gridiron. All except five of the interstate series, which was begun in 1892, have been played in Richmond. Now the game is to be played one year in North Carolina on Emerson field at the University, the next year at Charlottesville on the Virginia grid.

And so the consummation of the desire which has long been entertained by faculty, alumni and students to bring this game of games to North Carolina soil for at least half the time has been reached. For some time Virginia, too, has been desiring to play the game at Charlottesville instead of at Richmond; but of course until North Carolina could be given the same advantage of a home audience neutral territory was more desirable all the way round.

As hundreds of the interested in the game go, even to Richmond, (Continued on Page Six)

THE NORTH CAROLINA CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

At the regular meeting of the North Carolina Club Monday night, J. A. Capps read a very interesting paper on "Factors in Accumulating Farm Wealth in North Carolina." He pointed out the respects in which the Southern farmers have fallen behind those of the Middle West in the accumulation and retention of wealth, and offered suggestions as to how these conditions might be changed.

A heated discussion ensued as to whether the cotton-belt farmer is justified in raising cotton alone, while he buys from an outside source all his food and feed-stuff. So much interest was manifested that it was decided to have a regular debate on the question at the next meeting two weeks hence.

DR. SPINGARN LECTURES ON LITERARY CRITICISM

Advanced students in English have done more "real thinking" during the past week than in all the rest of their lives, and for the first time have acquired "points of view" as a result of a series of lectures by Dr. J. E. Spingarn, formerly of Columbia University, here each afternoon this week. Literary Criticism was the general topic, and Dr. Spingarn traced it from Greece to the present as follows: (1) Criticism in Greece and Rome, (2) From the Middle Ages till the Eighteenth Century, (3) The Romantic Period, (4) The Nineteenth Century, (5) The New Criticism.

It was in the last lecture on Friday that Dr. Spingarn, after tracing the history of criticism from Aristotle, through Horace, Boiltan, Croce, Schlegel, Coleridge and others, gave his own modern conception of criticism.

"We have done with all rules," he said, "we have done with the slicing of literature into compartments marked comedy, tragedy, etc., we have done with abstractions and technique as separate from the art itself. Aesthetic judgment and artistic creation have become one and the same."

The seminar was given especially for candidates for Honors in English and was in line with the new work being done this year by the committee on degrees with Distinction.

CHARLOTTE AND WINSTON PLAY ELIMINATING GAME

The high school football championship of western North Carolina will be decided on December 7 when the elevens of Charlotte and Winston-Salem meet at Davidson College. The eastern championship is, as yet, undecided. Raleigh, Kinston, Chapel Hill, and Goldsboro have all been victorious in their preliminaries and are still battling for first place. On December 9, as a climax to this state-wide contest, teams representing the two divisions of the state will clash on Emerson Field for the high school championship of North Carolina. Raleigh and Charlotte, whose teams contested in the final game last year at Chapel Hill, are again in the thick of the fight for the big football honor.

The Y. M. C. A. discussion for next week will be led by Frank Hockler on the subject, "The College Man and Efficiency." This week's meeting will be held on Mandy night at 6:45 instead of Tuesday.

The last official announcement from the Registrar's office brings the registration number up to 1162.

A REVIEW OF THE SEASON SHOWS DEVELOPING TEAM

IS FIRST TIME IN YEARS THAT EVERY MAN ON SQUAD IS IN CONDITION

For the first time in years the team is in perfect condition for the Thanksgiving game. Not a regular has been seriously hurt during the whole season. Last year Parker, Townsend and others were out of the final game on account of injuries. This year the team has been up against stronger opponents than ever before. Harvard, Princeton, Georgia Tech, V. P. I. and Davidson have teams this year which stand near the top of Efficiency's list. From these games Carolina has emerged each time with increasing strength.

The Tar Heel takes this occasion to review the seasons record in detail.

With the festivities at Richmond but a few days off, Coaches and men are putting everything they have into removing the rough edges and putting on the finishing touches that will mean touchdowns on November 30. From three o'clock until the stars come out the team is working on Emerson Field. All the work of the season

ARE YOU IN FAVOR OF MILITARY TRAINING HERE?

The question of military training for college students, which has been so widely discussed in recent years among the colleges and universities of the country is to be brought before the student body of the University during the next few weeks. In order that those who favor the introduction of a military training course into the University curriculum may have an opportunity of expressing their desire, a petition is now being circulated by Carolina's representatives at last summer's training camp at Plattsburg, which reads as follows:

We, the undersigned, desire to take a course in military training in this University.

It is our understanding that more than 3 hours a week will not be required; that such course will be similar to those now given in other Universities such as Pennsylvania; and that membership in any such training unit does not bind us to the government in any legal manner.

In signing we do not commit ourselves, should the schedule of work seriously affect our present work, or should the burden of expense prove too great.

No signatures for this petition are to be solicited. The men who prepared the petition are anxious that the signing of the petition shall be the voluntary expression of a genuine desire for the adoption of a military training system in the University.
