TAR HEELS WIN TWO GAMES FROM VISITORS

TRIM W. VIRGINIA WESLEYAN 10 TO 5, AND HAVERFORD COLLEGE 12 TO 2

CAROLINA'S HITTING EFFECTIVE

Barnes, Bennett, Weeks Clear Fence for Homers, While Stuart and Herty Put Up Star Fielding Game

A big opening with the stick enabled Carolina to get half her total number of runs in the first frame of the game with the West Virginians here Thursday. Lantz was a easy victim from the beginning and gave the Tar Heel swat artists little trouble.

Carolina bunched hits again in the fourth and two runs crossed the plate. Wesleyan was unable to score until the fourth, when Daniel and Beck walked, and McClure, the visitors' hard hitting catcher, drove one into left field. Coach Hearn's boys found Wagner, who relieved Lantz in the seventh, for three more runs. Stuart got on first on an error, Herty sacrificed, and Barnes and Bennett each contributed a home run. Powell wavered again in the seventh and a walk and three hits gave the Methodists two more tallies.

The game was slow and ragged in places, but the hard hitting of the home product made the contest interesting, if somewhat one-sided.

Representatives Chosen For Triangular Debate

Rymer and Edney Debate with Johns Hopkins at Charlottesville; Sharpe and Moseley Meet Virginia at Baltimore

W. C. Rymer, of Hendersonville, and C. R. Edney, of Mars Hill, affirmative, and H. D. Sharpe, of Stony Point, and R. F. Moseley, of Clinton, negative, were selected in the final preliminary Monday night to represent Carolina in the triangular debate with the University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University. S. J. Ervin, of Morganton, and Oliver Rand, of Smithfield, were chosen as alternates. The affirmative team will go to Charlottesville, Va., where it will meet Hopkins. The negative team will debate Virginia at Baltimore. The date set for the final clash is April 1. The debate here will be between Virginia and Hopkins.

The query to be discussed this year is, Resolved, That, constitutionality granted, legislation requiring compulsory arbitration of all controversies arising between employers and employees of railways engaged in inter-state commerce, and making strikes and lock-outs on such railways illegal, should be enacted. The judges for the preliminary were Professors A. C. McIntosh, J. G. deR. Hamilton, L. P. McGehee, M. H. Stacy and W. W. Pierson. Other candidates who took part in the contest were A. M. Lindau, V. F. Williams, C. B. Hyatt and E. E. Duncan. The judges declared the try-out to be the most spirited contest held here in several years.

Dr. Henry Louis Smith Delivers Lecture Here

"A Man's Personality" was the theme of the lecture given in Gerrard Hall last Sunday night, by Dr. Henry Louis Smith, President of Washington and Lee University. Dr. Smith is a very strong speaker, and his audience was unusually large.

He enumerated as the four prime elements which constitute a man's personality, courage, energy, love, spirituality, or height, and love.

"You can't accomplish great things with a splitting headache," he said, by way of introduction. A man's body is his only machine, and if it gets out of order, his usefulness is impaired."

"Courage is the backbone of a man's personality," was Dr. Smith's first proposition. He exhorted his hearers to assert themselves, to recognize the things which seem hardest for them and then to deliberately do them until they become easy and habitual.

"Energy is the inner force which impels a man to work, not because he has to, but because he wants to. Energetic men may be compared to locomotives, industrious men to box cars. One leads, the other is led."

That which lifts one above the commonplace, which relieves the monotony of routine existence, is the faculty of getting away from the material, or as Dr. Smith expressed it, "height." It is the

MILITARY TRAINING CLAIMS OVER FIVE HUNDRED MEN

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY RIFLES NOW ON WAY TO CHAPEL HILL

The two hundred and fifty rifles which were ordered from the Government last week to supply the University's training corps have been shipped, and are expected at any time. In the meantime the drilling will go on as usual until the rudiments of drilling are mastered.

As yet there has been no relaxation in the enthusiasm which characterized the organization of the unit last week. The attendance on drill has been almost perfect and not a man has withdrawn. More than five hundred men are drilling two nights a week regularly, and the members continue to increase. Nor is the drilling confined to the one-hour drill periods. Any time during the day or night the commands of officers and trample of feet can be heard from all parts of the campus, and the halls of the dormitories are being utilized as drilling grounds.

More room for drill was provided this week by illuminating the large athletic ground back of the South Building, and the square space between the Library and Fraternity Row is also being used by the squads.

The officers report that their men are intensely interested and are making exceptional progress. Within a short time the squads

DISCUSSION GROUPS TO HEAR REV. C. L. KING

The Y. M. C. A. discussion group, next Tuesday night will be addressed by Rev. C. L. King, a student in Union Seminary at Richmond. Mr. King is considered probably the most effective speaker among the students of that institution. A large audience is expected.

Tug-of-War Takes Place Junior Week

The Tug-of-War is to be held on April 12, so that the visiting ladies may see their valiant champions in action. This will not be a full dress affair, and anyone wearing full-dress, or white trousers will not be allowed to participate. The ladies will think more of you if they see you in your working togs; or at least they will get a real line on you in your native element. Those on the losing team will be afforded an opportunity to show their swimming prowess. Everybody get together and let's make this a big event. Each class is to be represented by fifty men—the bigger the better. A fathomless mud-hole will separate the contestants. Who is going in?

It is rumored that "Cutie" Price and John Terry will occupy the first knots for the Juniors, while "Villa" Currie and "Bill" Grimes are anticipating the sophomore side of the affair.

Class of '18 Preparing to Enter New Dorms

Will Get Together in the Last Year of Their College Life and Get Acquainted

In a meeting of the junior class last Wednesday afternoon it was proposed that the rising senior class should get together next year and concentrate in the new dormitories. Such a plan, they believe, will certainly strengthen the class as a unit, and allow every man to come in close touch with his fellow classmates during his last year at college. The benefit that a man derives from his college career, through his association with other men, it was argued, is not to be despised. This scheme is calculated to further that branch of a man's education.

The class now has an option on all the rooms in the new dormitories. These may be registered for at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week between 2 and 3 P. M. The rate for two men in a room will be one hundred dollars a year, or fifty dollars per man. For three men to a room the rate will be one hundred and fifteen dollars a year, or thirty-eight dollars apiece. Since these dormitories are to be connected to the new heating system next year it is probable that there will be no complaint about lack of heat and hot water. Furthermore the accommodations are far superior to those in the other dormitories.

"Come early and sign up for a good room during your senior year among a crowd of your own classmates" is the war cry of the rising seniors.

Speakers Selected For Commencement

The commencement speakers have been selected as follows: Dr. W. D. Moore, President of the Presbyterian Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon, and Secretary of War Baker will deliver the commencement address. In case of war, Secretary Baker states that he may not be able to fill his engagement. If he should not be able to be here some collegiate orator will probably take his place as our commencement is early enough not to interfere with that of other Universities.

THE LOST AND FOUND BUREAU

The following unclaimed articles are at the Y. M. C. A. Lost and Found Bureau:

2 one dollar bills, a Junior Ingersol, pair glasses in case, a gold ring with blue set in it and initials F. Y. W. inside, a medical pin with the letters K. K. on it, some knives, several hats and caps, and a few cuff buttons.

Call for these articles any day at 2:15.

FREDERICK PALMER HERE THURS. NIGHT

FAMOUS WAR CORRESPONDENT LECTURES IN GERRARD HALL

ILLUSTRATES WITH PICTURES

Showing the Place of Battles and the Various Methods of Fighting on the Western Front

Frederick Palmer, the famous war correspondent, who "has seen more modern warfare than any other American writer," according to Roosevelt, will lecture here on April 5.

It was only with much difficulty that Mr. Palmer was induced to come to Chapel Hill and so far he has filled no other engagements in the South. He will deliver a private lecture before the War College in Washington just before he comes here.

Mr. Palmer's work as a war correspondent is well known, and he is usually regarded as the greatest of all war correspondents at the present time. He has been on all the battle fronts of the war and was on the Western front in France from the beginning of the Somme offensive until November 1, 1916. He had the freedom of the field, as no other American correspondent has had, with the British and French official motion pictures. He will tell his experiences as an eye witness of the battles of the Somme and around Verdun. He will talk 45 minutes and then give a running comment with the moving pictures, explaining the conditions of contemporary warfare. The place of battles and methods of fighting will be made clear.

Mr. Palmer has written several books on the war, one of his best being "My Year of the Great War." He has been in every great war of recent years. Since his return from the front he has lectured only in large cities, but Prof. Archibald Henderson, of the lecture committee here, finally persuaded him to come to North Carolina.

High Schools Enter Tennis Tournament

That the interscholastic tennis tournament will be hotly contested this year, is shown by the fact that the following high schools have already entered teams for singles and doubles: Fremont, Normal, Raleigh, Greensboro, Oak Ridge, and Chapel Hill. The contest will take place on the Hill in connection with the debating union, April 19 and 20.

Dr. Archibald Henderson will speak at Charlotte, April 13, under the auspices of the Mecklenburg County Alumni Association.

Prof. J. H. Johnston will deliver the commencement address at the Merry Oaks School, April 18.
