WILSON HIGH TEAM WINS AYCOCK MEMORIAL CUP

THOS. BURTON AND WILL ANDERSON COMPOSE WINNING TEAM FROM WILSON

MANY VISITORS HEAR DEBATE

"Resolved, That Congress Should Enact a Law Providing for Compulsory Arbitration of Industrial Disputes," is Subject

The climax of the sixth season of the North Carolina Debating Union was reached last Friday night, April, 12, when Wilson and Jamestown High Schools debated against each other for the honor of the Aycock Memorial Cup, Wilson winning the trophy. Never was finer oratorical excellence exhibited in any high school debate at Chapel Hill, and the speakers held during the entire debate the closest attention of an audience that taxed Gerrard Hall to its utmost capacity. The setting in itself was enough to inspire the two teams to do their best. The audience was composed of students and faculty of the University and the large number of representatives and teachers from high schools all over the state. Mr. Graham was presiding officer. The secretary was Mr. E. R. Rankin, the soul and spirit of the debating union. Also on the platform was Mr. N. W. Walker, who was to present the coveted cup. The blue and white of U. N. C. decorated the hall and above the president's chair was draped the state flag.

In a brief opening address Mr. Graham welcomed the debaters in the name of the University. The preceding debates of the series, he said, had been characterized by the extreme closeness of the decision and by the fine spirit of all contestants.

"Resolved, That Congress Should Enact a Law providing for the Compulsory Arbitration of Industrial Disputes" was the query which was upheld by the Jamestown High School team, Willis Stanley and Miss Nellie Haynes. The affirmative contends that such a measure is the only remedy for existing industrial evils, that it is just, practicable, and that it has been successful.

Work on Chapel Hill's New Postoffice Begun

The work of hauling sand for the new Post Office Building, which is to be opposite the Battle Building and central to both the business of the town and the students, has already been started. The contractors, Haymes Bros., have also ordered the cement for the foundations, which is now on the way, having been delayed by the lack of railway facilities and the completion of the present contract of the firm at Pulaski, Va., where another post office is being erected. The contract, signed last December, calls for the erection, within one year, of a one-story building, with the most modern conveniences. It is to be 80 feet in length by 40 feet in width, with ornamental columns in front, and is to be similar to the latest college buildings, so that it will blend with the plans of town and University—the New Alumni Hotel, the Presbyterian Memorial church, and college dormitories. The three large doors will take care of the students much better than swinging doors in the old structure. The plans for the interior call for abundant floor space for both the public and the office work. Vaults are to be provided as a necessary safeguard. As there will be margin of between ten and fifteen thousand dollars over and above the cost of building and lot, the equipment and grounds will be easily cared for. The property was sold by Dr. MacNider to the government for $8,500.

Mrs. Charles Herty is now on the "Hill" for a short visit.

Yackety Yack Board for Next Year Chosen

At the last regular meeting of the Literary Societies managers and editors were elected for next year's "Yackety Yack". The election of Editor-in-chief naturally fell to the Di Society, the Phi having had the honor last year and the Fraternities this year. Each Society elects a business manager and three assistant editors. Each Fraternity elects one Assistant editor; and the Editor-in-chief every third year.

W. E. Price, of the Di Society, has been elected Editor-in-chief of next year's Annual. A business manager and the three assistant editors are to be elected to-night.

From the Phi Society, C. M. Hazelhurst has been elected Business manager. The Assistant editors elected are; O. R. Cunningham, E. E. White, and D. L. Grant.

WEIL LECTURER UNABLE TO MEET ENGAGEMENT

The McNair Lectures will be delivered on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th of May by Dean Schailer Mathews of the University of Chicago. The general subject of Dean Mathews' three lectures will be "War and Religion".

Dr. Mathews is one of the most interesting as well as one of the most thoughtful speakers in the country and his lectures here will no doubt attract wide attention.

G. C. W. GLEE CLUB WARMLY WELCOMED TO CHAPEL HILL

AGGREGATION OF PRETTY GIRLS WITH A WELL PLANNED PROGRAM FEATURE CONTEST

An aggregation of pretty girls with rhythmical music and tuneful voices composed the G. C. W. Glee Club which staged a performance in Gerrard Theatre Tuesday night. Of more than notable interest is the fact that this was the first girls' college glee club in this State to migrate from dormitory walls. But if the repeated encores which the fascinating beauties received from the packed house give any indication of the popularity of such a novel organization, then it is safe to say that Carolina will welcome many more such troupes in the future.

The program was well balanced, the songs ranging anywhere from "Good-Bye Ma, Good-Bye Pa" to the "Star Spangled Banner". Perhaps more instrumental music and a few additional pretty songs would not have been amiss, but the production as a whole deserves nothing but the high praise voiced by the audience. Every number on the program was well encoered, some of the renditions bringing down the house.

Special mention is due Benjamin S. Bates, director, and Miss Thelma Harrell, accompanist, who were largely responsible for the unheralded success of the organization. Mr. Bates possessed an excellent tenor voice, which he had under splendid control, while Miss Harrell, with her delicate touch, proved herself an artist at the piano. Mr. Hurley's voice found its chief appeal in the depth of its tone.

The popular airs were well received, especially the selections on the guitars and ukeleles. The double quartette was better than the average. The duett by Miss McKee and Mr. Bates and the solo by Miss McMichael were numbers that struck responsive chords in the hearts of the theatre-goers. "Mammy's Lullaby" by the whole Glee Club possessed a popular appeal, while "Dixie" concluded the program.

President Graham left yesterday for Shelby, N. C., where he will deliver an address.

TAR HEEL CONTEST

Contestants for next years, board will find a list of assignments posted in both the Y. M. C. A. and Journalism rooms. Take two or more of the topics and write them up, placing them in the hands of the assignment editor or in the Tar Heel box by 9 P. M. Wednesday night, just inside the Phi Delta Theta house.

A number of candidates have already handed their names in for the contest which will last for four consecutive weeks. Freshmen especially are urged to get into the Tar Heel work. All contestants are welcome to attend the regular Tar Heel meetings Wednesday nights at 9 P. M. promptly. Don't hesitate to ask some member of the board for any desired information in regard to the contest or work in general.

"The Man of the Hour" Presented in Great Style

"The Man of the Hour" presented by the Dramatic Club on Monday night will long be remembered as one of the best entertainments ever given by a Carolina Dramatic Club. The play itself was excellently chosen, and the acting could hardly be better. The attention of the audience was held so closely that, though the play was really very long, it seemed hardly more than an hour from the opening scene until the curtain fell on the last act.

The plot consisted of the struggle of a young man to cling to the right and preserve his character unsullied against the attempts of his political and personal enemies to pull him down. For a while the fight is desperate and the hero seems to lose all, but he sticks to the right and finally wins in love and fame, bringing disgrace upon his enemies.

B. Lacy Meredith drew much applause with his happy interpretation of a light-hearted youth, who was fine at heart, and Fred Cohn, as political boss, played a difficult role in a truly artistic manner. J. Y. Jordan in the title role could hardly have been surpassed, while Miss Lay, as Dallas the heroine, together with Miss Wilcox, as the hero's mother and Miss McFadyen taking the part of the attractive young orphan were excellent and added greatly to the play. This was a new feature as it was the first appearance of "Co-eds" in a dramatic Club performance. Oettinger, as the "big-hearted" alderman, was well

Chapel Hill Goes Over the Top With 3d Loan

Chapel Hill's quota for the third Liberty Loan of $28,400 was over subscribed last Saturday night, and on the evening of the 18th had reached the $33,100.00 mark.

Dr. Bell, who is moving the hand of the clock up as the amount rises, expects at least $40,000 before the four-week period is up. The clock was made and put up before the exact quota was known, which was only given out from Washington on the 15th. Since then the hand has moved rapidly, but seems to be slowing down at present.

Dr. John H. Finley, who was to deliver the Weil lectures on Citizenship next week, has been called to France on an important mission, and has telegraphed that it will be impossible for him to keep his engagement.

Dr. Henderson, as Chairman of the Committee on University Lectures, made every effort to make an arrangement that would fit Dr. Finley's obligations, but this unforeseen emergency could not be avoided.

It is a great disappointment both to Dr. Finley and to the University community that he cannot come at this time. However, it is hoped that Dr. Finley may be able to deliver the lectures which he has prepared at some later date.

CAROLINA 3-VIRGINIA 0 IN 1ST GAME OF SERIES

TEAMS BREAK EVEN IN TWO SNAPPY CONTESTS BEFORE MANY PEOPLE

VISITORS WIN SECOND GAME 4-0

Powell and Pippin Play Stellar Game in First Clash at Greensboro Saturday and Team Shows Fine Form

Showing a great comeback after an entire week's cessation of practice on account of the continual wet weather, the baseball team for the second time in succession proved the Greensboro "jinx" to be a myth by shutting out their ancient rivals there by the score of 3-0 last Saturday. What is more, in mud almost up to their shoe-tops, both teams put up a pretty game of perfect ball, neither side having an error chalked up against it.

To the whole team goes the credit for the victory, but to Jack Powell in particular goes the honor of the contest. His curves never broke better, his control was perfect, and the five hits he allowed were well scattered. In addition this was Powell's second straight victory over Virginia, and this fact adds luster to the achievement.

It was a great game before a large crowd, with a slippery field and an overcast sky unable to dampen the ardor of the small crowd of Carolina men who had journeyed down to support the team. This small bunch of rooters, ably supported by the college girls, kept up a continual racket from the start to the finish of the game. The continual wet weather of the past week made the game slower than usual, two and a half hours being consumed in the required nine innings.

Opposed to Powell was the famous Eppa Rixey's brother. The Virginia team showed its confidence in him by the brand of ball they put up. Though somewhat wild at times, he allowed but six hits.

Grandin started things off for Carolina in the "lucky" seventh when he got on to one of Rixey's benders and rapped out a pretty single over second. Bryant sacrificed him to second. Younce came up next, but fouled out to first. With two men down Powell hit the first ball pitched over the center fielder's head, the ball almost reaching the fence. Grandin scored while Powell stopped on second. Rixey passed Cordon. Herty grounded out to first.

Carolina added to her score in the ninth, the one was enough to win. Younce, first up, obtained his regular single over second. Powell advanced him to second. Cordon went out, second to first, Younce going to third on the play. Here Rixey went wild again and passed Herty and made the grave mistake of handing one straight over to Pippin. After the mud had lifted it was found that Younce and Herty had both scored, while Pippin was perched on second. The next man up was an easy out, to first.

There were some tight moments for Powell and for the Carolina
