

THE TAR HEEL

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

Volume XXVII.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCT. 30, 1918

Number 5

SQUAD PREPARES FOR WAKE FOREST ELEVEN

PIGSKIN HEROES GO THROUGH STIFF PRACTICE BEFORE GAME WITH BAPTISTS

GAME SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY

Three Games are Assured in Five Games Scheduled—Ancient Thanksgiving Classic Probable

With the past week of good weather football has once more loomed up large on the athletic horizon of Carolina. Coach Ritch has been putting his men through a stiff practice, and as a result, after only one week of training, the squad is rapidly being whipped into form and the coach believes he has the material for a team which will not only more than hold its own against opposing state college teams but will duplicate the performance of the famous 1916 team, and send the proud pigskin warriors from Virginia once more under the yoke in the annual Thanksgiving classic.

The only great difficulty in the way of varsity athletics this year is the lack of time for practice. While every spare moment is being utilized for the gridiron candidates, Coach Ritch is badly handicapped. However, all colleges are laboring under the same disadvantage, and are practically on a par in respect to the time at their disposal for football.

A full schedule has not been definitely arranged yet, but we are sure of three games in a five game schedule. The proposed schedule is as follows:

November 2—Wake Forest at Chapel Hill.

November 9—Washington and Lee at Lynchburg, Va.

November 16—Davidson at Winston.

November 23—Open.

November 28—University of Virginia—pending.

The only difficulty that is holding back the final arrangements between Carolina and Virginia is the lack of time for coaching and practicing the teams. But in all probability the great annual game will be staged, as neither team's schedule would be complete without this traditional climax. The game will most likely be played on Emerson Field, thus giving the Tar Heels an opportunity to enjoy the holiday treat which the Virginians have had so long.

(Continued on Page 3)

MARINE AND NAVAL UNITS ORGANIZATION COMPLETED

DRILLING WITH OWN COMPANY GETTING INTO TRIM RAPIDLY AS RIFLES ARRIVE

The Soldiers of the Sea have lifted their hammocks, packed their troubles in their sea bag and taken up their quarters on the lower deck of the good ship "Battle" where they are quartered with their shipmates in the Carolina Navy. Gobs and Leather-necks have received copious instruction in swabbing decks and have rated mop duty under the able tutelage of seaman McKellar, First Sergeant Stump and Private Milligan.

The crew has been receiving strenuous drill under First Lieutenant Richard F. Boyd, Marine Corps, Comd'g., and have succeeded in salting up the drill to a considerable extent. Once, twice, or thrice around the track in leap-frog seems to be the most popular and profitable form of exercise with the Gobs and Leather-necks. "Getting the Hun", a game introduced by Private Milligan, has aroused keen interest on the Emerson Field. The Huns, designated by white arm bands, have lost heavily in recent battles—an indication perhaps that Marines never lose, even in play. Lieutenant Boyd lectures to his company for some fifteen or twenty minutes each afternoon, explaining to the men Marine and Naval standards, and the finer points in Military Efficiency. Sergeant Stump drills the Company to Mess and practically has charge of the barracks of the naval and marine units.

Much disappointment was experienced on the campus over the refusal to transfer men from the S. A. T. C. into the Marine Corps. Private J. M. Hornady has been inducted into the Marine Corps and was duly initiated Tuesday night by the Charter Members. The organization is at present ten strong. Several other men have applied for admission and will be examined soon. Under a new ruling, upper classmen in the Non-S. A. T. C. may, with a written statement of their parents' consent may apply for induction, provided that said applicants are at least eighteen years of

(Continued on Page 4)

NEW RIFLES RECEIVED BY MILITARY ORGANIZATION

200 ARRIVE—300 MORE ON WAY RIFLE RANGE TO BE MADE READY FOR PRACTICE

GENERAL ORDERS FOR SENTINELS

Will Walk Post During Drill Hours—Battalion Passes in Review Before Governor

With the arrival and distribution of 200 Winchester rifles, allotted fifty to the Company, the University S. A. T. C. men are ready to begin a new and more advanced phase of training, the manual of arms. The drills for the past week have been mostly in platoons and companies, the school of the soldier and squad having been pretty thoroughly mastered by the men of this command. Three hundred additional Russian Rifles are now in transit to the University and with their arrival each man in the Battalion will be equipped, ready to begin training in the handling, care and operation of the weapon. A Rifle Range will be fitted out and target practice will soon be the order of the day.

This week has also witnessed the opening of another new chapter in the martial life of the S. A. T. C. Sentinel duty has begun. The twelve general orders of the sentinel have been printed in sufficient numbers so that each man of the Battalion can secure a copy. No Guard Mount at night will be attempted yet, sentinel duty being confined to the drill hours.

On the twenty-eighth, the Battalion passed in review before Honorable T. W. Bickett, Governor of the State, who came over to attend the funeral services of the late President Graham. To comply fully with regulations, orders were issued from Military Headquarters for all men to wear canvas leggings, except the Guard of Honor, who were permitted to wear spirals. All men wore their blouses, shirt collars inside and no hat cords were allowed. The entire organization did its best and, considering the short period of time it has been in training, acquitted itself in a decidedly creditable manner. The Governor expressed himself as being very favorably impressed with the discipline and soldierly bearing of the men.

News of great interest to a number of students at the University has just been received at Military Headquarters, to the effect that men of other registrants prior to September 12th, 1918, and in Class 1 are now eligible for Infantry Officers' Training Camp at Fremont, California. The original instructions were to accept the applications only of those men of September 12th.

Since the announcement of the opening on December 1st of the Fremont Camp applications have been pouring in from all parts of the state to Military Headquarters here, and it has been found necessary to detail a special clerk to take care of the Fremont correspondence. A great number of applicants are also applying in person.

GYM EXPERTS CONTINUE WORK AS IN FORMER DAYS

Notwithstanding the fact that a large majority of the men in school this year are S. A. T. C. men who have very little spare time to devote to gym work, this work is being carried on by Dr. Lawson as in normal times.

The majority of the men who are now working in the gym are non-S. A. T. C. men who have time to do the work. The exercises given this year cover all phases of gym work and are intensive as possible.

Dr. Lawson is conducting the classes by himself, no assistants returning this year. All of the gym experts who are on the Hill now are S. A. T. C. men and haven't the time between studies and military duties to give to gym work. Dr. Lawson is in great need of assistants and any aid along this line would be appreciated. From 2:30 P. M. until 6 P. M. he is in the gymnasium and from 4:30 P. M. to 5:45 P. M. he gives the classes physical instruction.

The work so far done by the men has been good, the only trouble being the lack of assistants.

The bathing facilities have been systematized. Dr. Lawson reports that two companies, totalling three hundred men, bathe daily,—thus giving over the gym to the two parts of the battalion in alternation. In this manner two companies make use of the gym Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and two on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. By this arrangement about eighteen hundred three minute baths are given every week.

Silence—The sauce that softens the spice of life.

DR. EDWARD KIDDER GRAHAM

Edward K. Graham, president of the University, died at his home here Saturday, October 26, following an illness of five days from influenza and complications. Dr. Graham had been ill a few days when pneumonia set in, and, although the student body was aware of the serious nature of his illness, every hope was entertained for his recovery. The unexpected news of his death has overwhelmed the student body with a keen, personal grief and has brought sorrow to the hearts of those who knew him.

The University has lost, by the death of President Graham, a great leader—a virile young leader of the new era who brought the University he loved into a more intimate relationship with people all over the state and at the same time placed it in the forefront as one of the Universities of the nation alive to educational requirements of today. In his inaugural address, delivered April 22, 1915, he characterized the State University as "a living unity, an organism at the heart of the living democratic state, interpreting its life, not by parts, nor a summary of parts, but wholly fusing them all into a new culture center, giving birth to a new humanism." Such was his idea and to this end he lived and wrought. On that day, the day of his inauguration, the governor of North Carolina said, "That man and hour have met. We are beginning a new chapter in the history and culture of North Carolina."

A true prophecy. The man,—a product of the institution he was to lead so well, endowed with every requisite for that leadership, a great thinking, clean minded young leader—and the Hour—the turning point in the University's life.

It was but characteristic of the man to offer his services to his country when this nation entered the war and these services were constantly sought. When the Students' Army Training Corps was recently organized he was at once selected as regional director of the corps for the South Atlantic States, States, with the University as regional headquarters. This work was his chief care at the time of his death, but he also found time to act as trustee of the American University Union in Europe, as a member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. and as a member of the educational committee of the council of national defense.

The relationship between Dr. Graham and the student body was close, affectionate. His personality was of that rare type which is aptly said to be in "the spirit of things"—the type of personality that stimulated among the students the love of the right—the defense of cherished ideals—the birth of new, clean thought. Under his leadership men not only became his devoted admirers,—they were his disciples also.

We read with pride the glowing praise he received from great men of the state and nation, but we who knew him, who loved him, grieve to know that once more, but for the last time, the Man and the Hour have met.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, made the following comment tonight on the death of President Graham, of the State University.

"I have just learned of the death of President Graham. I loved him like a brother. I think he was the most useful man in North Carolina, and we could possibly spare any man in the state rather than him. We have nobody to fill his place. He was a man of clear vision, had the confidence of the entire state and was truly representative of the best spirit of North Carolina. I have known all presidents of the State University since 1875. He was the youngest man elected to the presidency of that great institution and bore not only a state but a national reputation as an educator, counselor and great citizen. I deeply deplore his death, which means an irreparable loss to the educational system of my state and to the country as a whole."

Washington, Oct. 26.—The tribute of Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, to President Graham, was as follows:

"Word which comes to me through the Washington bureau of the Greensboro Daily News of the death of President Graham distresses me beyond words. President Graham was a man of great distinction and talent. He was one of the south's most foremost educators. I

(Continued on Page 2)

HUNDREDS ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF DR. GRAHAM

GOV. BICKETT AND OTHER WELL KNOWN MEN WERE PRESENT FROM ALL PARTS OF STATE

BATTALION ACTED AS ESCORT

Burial of President was marked by Beautiful Simplicity of Funeral Services

Edward Kidder Graham, President of the University of North Carolina, whose death from pneumonia occurred Saturday night, was buried here this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services, marked with a simplicity and beauty in complete harmony with the life of President Graham, were conducted at the grave by Dr. W. D. Moss, the pastor of the local Presbyterian church.

The affection and high esteem in which President Graham was held were evidenced by the presence of hundreds of friends, former students and alumni within and without the state, by telegrams and messages to members of the family and the university faculty from every part of the country, and by a profusion of floral designs and autumn flowers of unimagined beauty.

The following active and honorary pallbearers were present:

Honorary: Governor Thomas W. Bickett, Dr. J. Y. Joyner, Dr. Kemp P. Battle, Dr. F. P. Venable, Mayor W. S. Roberson, M. C. S. Noble, Dr. H. H. Williams, Dr. W. D. Toy, Major William Cain, George Pickard, W. N. Everett; Active: Dr. W. D. McNider, R. D. W. Connor, Dean M. H. Stacy, Dr. A. H. Patterson, Dr. L. R. Wilson, Dr. J. G. De Rouhac Hamilton, Dr. Archibald Henderson, Charles T. Woolen.

In the funeral procession leading to the cemetery were the military guard of honor, of 40 men, led by Captain C. C. Helmer, Commandant at the University; Trustees of the University, representatives of other Colleges and schools, directors and Commandants of the S. A. T. C. College units in the state, the Faculty of the University, the Alumni and other visitors, and the student battalion.

Among the representatives of educational institutions were President Wallace C. Riddick, of the State A. & E. College; President J. I. Foust, (Continued on Page 4)

NEW REGULATIONS GOVERNING COMING HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES

EXTENSION BUREAU PERFECTS PLAN LIMITING CONTESTANTS AT CHAPEL HILL

Dr. L. A. Williams, secretary of the High School Union of North Carolina, announces the distribution this week throughout the state of a pamphlet on the regulations of the Debating Union. With the successful completion of its sixth season it has passed out of the stage of experiment and has assumed the nature of an institution. During the six years passed a spirit of fair mindedness and good sportsmanship has characterized the attitude of pupils and teachers alike in all the contests which has largely contributed to the acknowledged success of the Union.

The University for over a century has encouraged and fostered the spirit of debating and public discussion both inter-collegiate and intra-mural. When the policy of extension service was adopted and there was sought a channel through which the best interests of the state might be served, attention was inevitably drawn in one of these channels. So in 1912-13 the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies joined forces with the Bureau of Extension to project debating from the University through the secondary schools to the people of the state. The result of this attempt has been the High School Debating Union.

The query for debate this year is: Resolved, That the government of the United States should adopt a policy of requiring one year of military training of all able-bodied men before they reach the age of 21. As before, a bulletin containing outlines and arguments on both sides of this query, as well as references to sources from which further material can be secured will be sent without cost to all schools which are members of the Union. This bulletin is now in the process of preparation and will be sent to the schools by November 30.

War conditions make it necessary to modify somewhat the method of procedure of previous years, but it is hoped that the change will make for profit in interest as well as method.

(Continued on Page 2)