UNIVERSITY CELEBRATES 126TH. ANNIVERSARY SATURDAY, OCT. 11TH.

MEETINGS WILL BE HELD THROUGHOUT THE STATE BY ALUMNI

F. D. WINSTON CHIEF SPEAKER

Oldest State in America Celebrates After-the-War Birthday

On account of the fact that University Day this year falls on Sunday, the regular anniversary exercises will be held on Saturday, October 11. As the Tar Heel goes to press the plans for the celebration of the University's 126th anniversary of its founding have not been fully developed, although they are rapidly assuming shape. The feature of the exercises will be the annual address in Memorial Hall by the Hon. Francis D. Winston, of Windsor, a member of the class of 1879. There will be the usual academic procession from the Alumni Building to Memorial Hall. Professor Hamilton will be chief marshal for the occasion.

Contemporaneous with the celebration in Chapel Hill will be alumni meetings throughout that state in honor of the day. It is planned to have meetings in every county in the state and arrangements have already been perfected to have alumni meetings at Charlotte, Greensboro, Wilmington, Raleigh, Durham, Tarboro, New Bern, Wadesboro, Mt. Airy, Lumberton, Laurinburg, Statesville, Fayetteville, Salisbury, Monroe, and Washington. At Greensboro, Durham, and Raleigh, President Chase will attend meetings of the Carolina alumni, while Professor M. C. S. Noble will be present at the Wilmington meeting.

UNIVERSITY INVITED TO SEND DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE AT DES MOINES

Declaring that the responsibility for the solution of the problems arisen in the world rests upon the shoulders of students in the colleges of America, J. R. Wilson, traveling secretary of the North America Students Volunteer Conference movement, presented plans adopted for the eighth international convention of students at Des Moines, Iowa, the latter part of December, 1919, to the ministers of the town and the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, meeting together Wednesday afternoon in the cabinet room, at 3:00 o'clock, and following a discussion of the proposition, a motion was made and carried to adopt the proposition presented and register with the student movement headquarters a quota of 15 delegates to be selected from the student body as representatives of the University of North Carolina to the Des Moines conference.

In presenting the prospects of the convention of students, Mr. Wilson stated that with an attendance of approximately 10,000 delegates selected from colleges in all parts of the country and with the best the world can afford, the conference is expected to be the greatest gathering of students intent on the advancement of Christian principles on record. Indicative of the care with which the programs of the past conferences have been worked out, Mr. Wilson referred to the address delivered by Donald Frazer, a notable figure in South Africa work, to the conference held at Nashville, Tenn., in which the thought and observations of years of personal experience in work in the field were condensed and recounted verbally to the assembled delegates in a space of twenty minutes.

In addition to field work and internal work on the campus, it was stated by Mr. Wilson, that problems having direct and significant bearing on matters of world import politically and socially, will be given thorough discussion by men who have made these problems and their solution a constant study.

A communication from Lord Robert Cecil, read to the assembled body, showed the attitude of the great Britisher toward the influence of the work of such institutions as the conference of students, and other allied organizations.

DR. HARRY WOODBURN CHASE, NEWLY-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

University Formally Opened on Thursday

With President Chase presiding and the entire student body in attendance at Memorial Hall, the university was officially open for the ensuing year last Thursday. Dr. Moss, without whom no Carolina meeting would be a real Carolina meeting, opened the exercises with prayer. Major Boyett, following the invocation, presented the plan of the R. O. T. C. and urged that as many as possible and especially the freshmen and Sophomores take the course.

Dr. Chase, following Major Boyett, extended a hearty welcome on the part of the university to all of its students. In the course of his address, he set the task which Carolina men must accomplish this year if they would make a successful year of it and keep continually Carolina's light bright.

Taking as his theme of discussion the possibilities and fields of service that await Carolina Men, Frank Graham, Dean of Students, closed the program. Mr. Graham brought out clearly the need caused by the recent war for men with trained minds and teachers in regulation and direction of the future policies of the world.

As the Tar Heel went to press Thursday evening, Registrar Thos. J. Wilson, announced that the enrollment had reached a total of 1,250. This is an approximate two hundred larger than any previous enrollment. The final total will probably be well over 1,300.

Howe New Dean of the College of Liberal Arts

To fill the vacancy in the Deanship of the College of Liberal Arts, caused by the election of Dr. Chase to the Presidency, the trustees elected Dr. Howe, since 1903 head of the Latin Department at Carolina.

Dean Howe brings to his position a wide experience filled with high attainments of scholarship. Much of his educational training was received at the higher universities of Europe, among them being the University of Halle, Oxford University, and American School of Classical Studies at Rome.

Dr. Howe, through his long connection with the University, has acquired intimate knowledge of the needs of students and those who wish enlightenment concerning questions of educational policy and practice which concern the College of Liberal Arts, will find him ready to give them the benefit of his long experience.

GERARD HALL PACKED FOR 1919 COLLEGE NIGHT

FACULTY AND STUDENT SPEAKERS PRESENT PHASES OF CAMPUS LIFE

Officially ushering in the year of 1919-20, College Night, held last Thursday night under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. was declared the most successful ever held. Gerrard Hall was filled with a capacity students and even before the speakers took the platform, much "pep" was inducted into the crowd then the efforts of that energetic rubber ball, "Lerubby" Rives.

The entrance of the female portion of the student body was the signal for another outburst of enthusiasm from the gallant lads.

Albert Coates, acting as presiding officer, and thereby enjoying his task, caused more than one modest blush on the face of each speaker and not a little merriment in the audience by his mental gymnastics, at which he proved himself quite an athlete.

President Chase led off with the remark that it took a brave man to speak to the same audience on the same subject three times on the same day. The president did not seem lacking in courage, however. The university was described by the president as a community and each speaker, he said, represented some phase of the university life. A man became a Carolina Man, Dr. Chase said, when he relates himself to his university thru his community life.

Dr. Moss, known eventually and affectionately to all Carolina, welcomed the new men in behalf of the community. The biggest thing in any community, Dr. Moss said, is its religion. "Give the people of Chapel Hill a chance to learn who you are. Meet us half way and lets get acquainted."

"Shorty" Spruill, described by Albert Coates, as founded "bed rock," spoke on "studies." After all, said "Shorty," that's the main thing we came to college for.

"Billy" Carmichael, apologizing as a substitute, proved that he needed no apologies. Billy's topic was athletics, and he urged a greater interest among the students, although not at the expense of studies.

Thomas Wolfe, editor of the Tar Heel, next unfolded himself in sections and discoursed with much freedom on the topic of college publications, a phase of our community life, he said, "than which there was none than Wheeler."

Daniel L. Grant, dealing with the college organizations, one hundred and twenty-five strong, emphasized the need

Athletic Outlook Good; Plenty of Good Material

With the largest freshman class in the history of the University already registered and Coach Bond present on the hill ready to begin rounding the first year football team into shape, there is every indication that new lustre will be added this year to Carolina's athletic records, and that the class of 1923 will make the best showing ever made by any new class of this institution. Many new men are here who have already made enviable records for themselves on the gridiron elsewhere, and judging by the looks of many of the men in the new class, Coach Bond will probably demonstrate that a record can be made by those who are just taking up the game this year.

The freshman schedule includes games with the University of Virginia freshmen at Charlottesville, Va., Bingham School, University of Georgia freshmen, University of South Carolina freshmen, Davidson scrubs, Oak Ridge, with many other pending.

It is hoped that every first year man interested in athletics will go out and try for his team. The schedule includes many attractive trips. Don't stand back just because you happen not to know the game. The coaches are out there to teach you the game, and they want you out there. Their ability to put out a winning team will depend largely on the number of men from which they have to select.

Varsity basketball having been made a major sport, much interest is already being manifested in our next season's team. Rumors have it that we will have the best combination ever put out by the University. In addition to Capt. Carmichael, Lipert and Morris (all letter men of last year's aggregation), Shepard, the star forward on the famous 1916-17 team which defeated Virginia for the first time in nine years, and Little, a scrub on the same team, are back from France to add their weight to the squad this season.

Initiations

Forty-seven men, the largest number in the history of the University, were initiated into fraternities at the regular initiations on Monday night. Most of the chapters have been favored by applications from other chapters, so that the fraternities in general are in good shape for the year.

There were many visitors on "the Hill" for the occasion, both old men from the Carolina chapters and men from chapters in other schools. The men initiated into the various chapters were as follows:

Kappa Alpha—Euclid McWhorter, Chapel Hill.

Zeta Psi—Eric Norfleet, Roxobel; Jack McDowell, Scotland Neck; Frank P. Hunter, Warrenton; Isaac D. Thorp, Rocky Mount.

VARSITY ELEVEN STEPS INTO ARENA AFTER A THREE YEARS' ABSENCE

POWERFUL RUTGERS ELEVEN DEFEATS CAROLINA IN A CLOSE, HARD CONTEST

CAROLINA'S PUNTING SUPERB

Rutgers Profits by Tar Heel Fumbles; Close Contest With Yale Expected

Returning to the gridiron after an absence of three years, the Carolina varsity football eleven held the powerful Rutgers team to a small score Saturday at New Brunswick. Five members of the great '16 eleven were in Carolina's line-up. The Tar Heel aggregation outweighed twenty pounds to the man, was rushed off its feet the first half by the fierce plunging of the Rutgers team. All of Rutgers scoring was done in the first half.

In the first quarter Carolina fumbled on her twenty yard line, held for downs, but punted out short. Rutgers scored a touch down a few minutes later after two short runs. In the second quarter Rutgers began a steady advance down the field which the Tar Heels were unable to stop. French, Rutgers' sensational halfback, brake away near the end of the half and ran fifty yards for a touchdown.

Carolina returned to the game the second half with renewed confidence and held Rutgers scoreless. The punting of Coleman was far superior to his opponent's, being described by the news dispatches as "superb."

The New York Sun in its write-up of the game refers to the Carolina eleven as the most powerful produced here in several years.

Great confidence is entertained by the team regarding the game with Yale this week. A smaller score is the popular verdict.

The team, profiting from the valuable experience of the Rutgers' game, is developing rapidly.
