COMMERCE SCHOOL IS RADICAL INNOVATION IN UNIV. CURRICULUM

ferred in Accounting, Business Organization, Money and Banking, Insurance, Transportation, Corporation Finance, Commercial Law, Labor Problems, Rural Economics, Practical French and Spanish, Advanced English Composition, the writing of technical papers, and Psychology.

Included in the fourth year's work the Theories of Economic Reform, Advanced Accounting, Industrial Management, Public Finance, Foreign Trade, International Law, Markets and Marketing, Salesmanship and Sales Management, Advanced Commercial and industrial Geography, Latin American History and Customs, Social Psychology, and Ethics.

A part of the training will consist of attendance upon lectures given by representative business men of the State and of the South, and already a promising list of North Carolina business men have agreed to give these lectures. These will be supplemented by government officials who are dealing with industrial problems. Representatives of the Tariff Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Census Bureau, and Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce are among those who will come.

During the summer between the Junior and Senior years, each student will be expected to spend his time working in an establishment in the line of business for which he is preparing. This may begin in the summer following the Sophomore year, as is the case now with the students who go to the National City Bank of New York. The University itself, in its business aspects, will be used as a working laboratory, particularly the offices of the Treasurer and the Business Manager.

Mr. D. D. Carroll, Professor of Economics, has been appointed acting dean of the School of Commerce, and Professor Roy B. Cowin will be Associate Professor of Accounting. Professor Cowin has taught accounting at the University of Michigan and the University of Iowa, and lately has been in the accounting department of the post office department.

the call of the spirit of adventure. Not the adventure of sensuality and debauchery, but the adventure of going out into the world's vast field of knowledge and beauty there to seek out those gems of truth which were hidden in the rocks of that fair land.

He was followed by several members of the society, who spoke briefly on subjects of interest, until at last the cups of oratory were drained to the dregs—and thus came the end of a perfect smoker.
