ASHEVILLE BOYS DEFEAT GOLDSBORO LASSES IN EIGHTH ANNUAL MEET

ARTHUR KALE AND CLIFTON ERVIN WIN OVER MISSES EDWARDS AND HENLY

JUDGES WERE DEVIDED ON VOTE

The eighth annual contest of the high school Debating Union was brought to a close on Friday night, April 23, in Memorial hall, when the Asheville high school, represented by Messrs. Arthur Kale and Clifton Ervin, who won the Aycock Memorial Cup by defeating the Goldsboro high school, represented by Misses Elizabeth Edwards and Blanche Henley. Asheville upheld the affirmative side of the query, Resolved, That the United States should adopt the policy of further material restriction of immigration. Goldsboro defended the negative. The debate was one of the most closely contested ever held, the decision of the judges being three to two in favor of the affirmative.

The contest was held before an audience of students, townspeople and visitors that completely packed Memorial hall, every seat being taken. The fact that it was a battle of wits between two boys on one side and two girls on the other added much interest to the occasion. President Harry Woodburn Chase presided and Mr. E. R. Rankin acted as secretary. The judges were Professors, Horace Williams, Lucius P. McGehee, Edwin Greenlaw, Louis R. Wilson, and W. S. Bernard.

Before announcing the decision of the judges, Prof. N. W. Walker spoke briefly of the purposes and aims of the high school debating union and the work it is doing. The final decisions in these discussions of questions of national interest have in several cases anticipated legislation on these subjects, a notable example being in regard to woman suffrage. Mr. Walker presented to each of the four contestants in the finals a handsome gold medal, these being given by the Dialectic and Philanthropic societies. The winning team was then presented with the Aycock Memorial Cup which was contributed by former intercollegiate debaters of the University.

State Track Meet Here Today And Close Contest Expected

Five colleges of the state will be guests of the University of North Carolina here on Saturday, May 1st, at the annual state track meet. The five colleges, not including Carolina, will be North Carolina State, Elon, Davidson, Wake Forest, and Trinity. Each one of these schools is planning to send a large team to the Hill to compete for the cinderpath honors. Trinity is sending twenty men, and she is especially strong in dashes and the track work in general. N. C. State will send a team that is said to be very strong in the weights contests. Davidson's team will be composed of seven men, Wake Forest's will be made up of fourteen, and both teams are very good this year.

Captain Spencer is expecting the hardest state meet in recent years, and the contest Saturday will undoubtedly be much more fiercely contested than was the one last year in which the Blue and White aggregation easily carried off the pennant.

The list of events of the meet will be the same as that of last year, and the order of their occurrence will be finally decided upon as soon as the teams from the various colleges arrive on the Hill. The events will be the 100, 220, and 440-yard dashes, the one mile and two mile runs, the 120 yard high hurdles, the 220 yard low hurdles, the broad jump and the high jump, shot put, discus, pole vault and javelin.

This is the meet that largely determines who will represent Carolina at the South Atlantic meet that will be held on May 8 at V. P. I., Blacksburg, Va. It is also the meet that will determine to a large extent who will receive letters.

Fresh Victorious In All Games; Va. Fresh Beaten

The freshman baseball team came out victorious in each of the three games it played on its northern trip last week. The first game was with Woodbury Forest and ended with the score of 19 to 9 in favor of the freshmen; Fishburne Military School was defeated in the second game, 8 to 6; and in the game with the Virginia freshmen, the Carolina freshmen were victorious by a score of 5 to 1.

The game with Woodbury Forest at Orange, Virginia, was the easiest game of the three. The Woodbury pitcher was hit at will by the freshmen, as is testified by the 18 to 9 score. Three pitchers were used by the freshmen in this game: Doughton, Linney, and Bryson. Morris caught at all three games.

Fishburne Military Academy was played and defeated at Waynesboro, Virginia, on Thursday, the 22d, the day after the Woodbury Forest game. The game was fairly close and interesting. Enlow, Bill, and Bryson worked in the box for the Carolina freshmen, while Morris received. The final score was 8 to 6.

Friday witnessed the last game of the trip at Charlottesville, where the Virginia freshmen were defeated 5 to 1. Bryson pitched the entire game this time, and did his work well. The individual hitting star of this game for Carolina was Sessones, who played left field. He got four hits out of four times up, one of them going for a triple.

The entire team hit and fielded well in all of these games. The next game is with the North Carolina state freshmen, and will be played sometime next week.

PLAYMAKER'S GIVE LAST PERFORMANCE TONIGHT

With good prospects for a real still from the state prohibition officer at Raleigh, and with a new setting painted for the Lowrie play, the Carolina Playmakers are getting ready for the production of the three original plays on the nights of April 30th and May 1st. Since the last announcement a few changes have been made in characters. Miss Penny has been shifted from the moonshine play to the Lowrie play, and Miss Markham now takes the part of the very clever moonshiner's daughter. In "The Bell Buoy" Mr. Hodgins plays the part of the "Doctor," thus releasing Mr. Neiman for the Lowrie play. The cast for this tragedy of the Croatan outlaws has been completed and is as follows:

"The Last of the Lowries"
Henry Berry Lowrie.....E. Neiman
Cumba Lowrie.....Miss Taylor
Mayno Lowrie.....Miss Freeman
Jane Lowrie.....Miss Penny

Come, My Lads, Let Us R. O. T. C.

With the coming of the long sunny afternoons, the grass and birds have put in their appearance on the campus. Likewise the uniforms of the R. O. T. C. have made their debut, and now the walks and the buildings of the old institution are swarming with "embry officers." And they are wearing them in all styles and shapes. From the U. S. shavetail "parallel-to-the-ground-straight-over-the-eye" variety to the "latest from Blighty" style they are wearing the barracks caps.

The good old days of the S. A. T. C., and the lieutenants from Georgia are brought to mind when we turn the corner and step full into the face of a "leather-putted" cap'n of infantry, isn't it? And they have rifles, too, and they are not the Russian regulation kind either.

$250,000 Hotel To Be Built by Alumni

The University Hotel Company, a $250,000 concern, was granted papers of incorporation Monday by the secretary of state. The company plans to erect a modern hotel at Chapel Hill as soon as preliminary arrangements can be perfected. The stock paid in is by E. G. Wright, Greensboro; J. W. Umstead, Tarboro, and Mayor W. S. Roberson, Chapel Hill.

By Lenoir Chambers

Chapel Hill, April 28.—Surrounded by a notable gathering of visiting educational leaders and facing 2,000 North Carolinians in Memorial hall this afternoon, Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase repeated after Chief Justice Walter Clark the oath of office and received from Governor Thomas W. Bickett the seal and charter now entrusted to him as 10th president of the University of North Carolina.

"Wherever and in whatever form it is our privilege to see the need," said President Chase after the chief justice, "I pledge the university to impartial and sympathetic service to the people of the state so help me God," and raising a Bible to his lips he kissed it, while the audience broke into waves of applause.

On one side of the new president on the platform as he was formally inducted into office were the representatives of more than 100 colleges, universities and learned societies; had been for the past 10 years. All his own faculty where he himself on the other side the members of were clad in the academic cap and gown and their many shaded hoods lent a fine display of life and color to the high sweep of historic Memorial hall.

Daniels at Dinner

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, who presided at the dinner tonight, stood just to the left of the new president as he took the oath of office.

Speaking from the same platform from which President Chase delivered his inaugural address were President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton, and Dr. Charles R. Mann, of the war department, all of whom pledged to the new president their support in his new duties.

Greetings were extended to President Chase from many educational groups. Dr. Ivey F. Lewis speaking for President Alderman of the University of Virginia, pledged the good wishes of the state universities of the country.

President W. L. Potteat of Wake Forest, speaking for the colleges of the state told the new president that "we pledge to you the adventure and romance of finding the way of right in a foggy time and calling after you the strength and hope of young North Carolina."

Others Pledge Support

Superintendent of Public Instruction E. C. Brooks, for the public school system, declared that "we are all with you."

W. N. Everett of Rockingham, speaking for 10,000 alumni, related in detail just how the trustees' committee, following the successive deaths of President E. K. Graham and Dean M. H. Stacy, had sought for a new leader and found him in President Chase.

"The alumni bid me say," he told President Chase, "that they had looked up your work and found it good; that on this arch they set their hopes and build their faith for a greater university."

Emerson White, a member of the present senior class, promised the support of the students now and when they become alumni, and Dr. Archibald Henderson, for the faculty, pledged their support to their former colleague.

Bishop Joseph B. Cheshire opened and closed the exercises with prayer.

Two thousand persons marched across the campus in the academic procession, including students, alumni, faculty, trustees, many state officers (Continued on page five)

IMPOSING SPECTACLE WHEN PROCESSION MOVED ACROSS CAMPUS

NOTABLES MARCHED INTO MEMORIAL THROUGH PATHWAY OF STUDENTS

It was the morning of April 28. The atmosphere seemed alive with that peculiar tenseness which precedes the unusual. Class time came, but the great vibrant bell high up in the top of Old South was still. It, too, seemed to sense, high in its dusty eyrie, the impending ceremony that was to inaugurate Harry Woodburn Chase, tenth president of the University of North Carolina, the oldest state University in the country in its one hundred and twenty-five years of existence.

For two days a discouraging drizzle had alternated with the fickle fancy of an April rain, but shortly before dawn a breeze sprang up out of the west and by daylight the sky was flecked with scurrying ghosts of windswept and fast disappearing clouds. The sand-clay top soil of the village responded to the wind and sun and by noon gave no indication of the rains of the preceding days. The wind blew itself almost out and by one o'clock more ideal weather could not have been asked for. The setting was perfect.

The eleven divisions of the inaugural procession had been assembling in their appointed places, and shortly before 1:30 o'clock a bugle note rang clear and high above the heads of the crowd. The R. O. T. C. unit swung into column in front of the Alumni building, the student body, led by marshal Beemer C. Harrell, took up the march and the procession had become a reality. Camera men began hurrying hither and yon along the line, and the clicking of the shutters was audible above the march. Following the chief marshal, came the senior law class led by Frederick O. Bowman, president; junior law, led by Ernest M. Currie, president; second year medical class led by Graham Ramsay, president; first year medical class, led by Ben (Continued on page three)
