TECHNICAL STUDENTS OPERATE WIRELESS IN PHYSICS BUILDING

SCORES OF BASEBALL AND FOOTBALL GAMES REPORTED IMMEDIATELY BY RADIO

CAROLINA GETS NEWS WHILE HOT

As farther proof of the fact that "we do things at Carolina," electrical engineering students have installed a wireless in Phillips Building and reports concerning all important happenings of national interest together with results of sporting events are now known in Chapel Hill immediately after they happen.

Time was when it was late in the night before scores of baseball and football games were known in Chapel Hill. But now, thanks to this wireless, the score of baseball games is announced inning by inning, and football results are given out each quarter.

The receiving end of the wireless is in a basement room in Phillips Hall and from that room the antennae of the station stretch to the top of the 120 foot smoke stack of the University power plant.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY RECIPIENT OF VALUABLE SET OF BOOKS

SET IS GIFT OF UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA TO THE UNIVERSITY

The University Library is the recipient of an excellent set of books, a gift from the University of California. This set consisting of forty-three volumes is known as the Semi-Centennial Publications of that institution. Every fifty years the University of California collects and publishes the various literary productions of its faculty. The set just received contains such writings between the years 1868-1818. Published by the University of California Press at Berkeley, Cal., the collection contains everything in science literature and history written and discovered at the University of California in the past half century. Some of the titles are "Idealism and the Modern Age," by G. P. Adams, "The Greek Theater" by T. J. Allen, "Kinsol's Historical Memoir," H. E. Bolton, "L'extotisme Americain," Gilbert Chanaid, "Edmund Spencer," H. E. Cory, "Typhoid Fever," F. P. Gray, "Game Birds of California," Joseph Grinnell, "Kipling the Story Writer," W. M. Hart, "Spain's Declining Power in South America," Bernard Moses, "Physical Chemistry of the Proteins," T. B. Robertson, and "Fundamental Equations," Frederick Slate. So the set contains some of the best works recently done in biography, science, history and other subjects.

Another valuable additions to the Library at the suggestion of the German department is a sixty volume set of Martin Luther's works. This collection contains fifty-two volumes of "Table Talk" and four volumes of miscellaneous writings, four volumes of his German Bible. It will be remembered that Luther translated this Bible from the Hebrew into German. It was what may be called the main factor in unifying the German language. Before this Bible was translated, each German state had a different language. The publication of Luther's was thus a great factor in bringing about the unification of the language.

SOUTHERN R.W.Y. CHANGES SCHEDULE OF LIMITED

It has been announced by the Southern Railway Company that Train No. 236 between Chapel Hill Station and University will leave Carrboro at 3:50 P. M. instead of 4:00 P. M. and will arrive at University at 4:30 P. M.

V. M. I. HANDS VIRGINIA SURPRISE

With the exception of the V. M. I.—Va. and N. C. State—Georgetown games there was no upset of the dope in Saturdays results. Virginia's defeat at the hands of V. M. I. by the decisive score of 22 to 6 came as a surprise to many, after her showing against Randolph-Macon last week. N. C. State also, after triumphing over the Navy at Annapolis, showed a reversal of form and went down before the Generals 27 to 0. Carolina's failure to score against Yale was a disappointment to some, although the score against her was not so large as that of last year.

Georgia Tech overwhelmed Davidson 66 to 0, and the University of Georgia held South Carolina scoreless while herself piling up 37 points. Washington and Lee defeated Wakes Forest 27 to 0. Maryland State was helpless against Princeton, and drew the small end of a 35 to 0 score. The games generally had little or no direct bearing upon either the State of the South Atlantic championship standing.

Next Saturday N. C. State meets Penn State, and Carolina the University of South Carolina at Chapel Hill. With these preparatory games, both teams should be in trim shape for their encounter at Raleigh on the 21st.

COL. PRATT TALKS IN CHAPEL ON MILITARY TRAINING HERE

URGES NEW MEN TO CONSIDER ADVANTAGES OF R.O.T.C.

Col. Joseph Hyde Pratt on Friday morning spoke to the Freshman Class in Chapel about the R. O. T. C. He was introduced by Mr. Frank Graham who ended with the words that "Col. Pratt led the attack on the western battle front in Europe where the North Carolina troops wrote their names in mud, blood, and glory."

Col. Pratt was not able to speak standing on account of injuries sustained in a fall some time ago. Seated on the platform he brought forth the following facts.

When a person is undertaking a problem he generally thinks, first of how it is going to affect our community, our town, our country, our state, before he thinks of how it is going to affect our country at large. The patriot first thinks of how it is going to affect our country at large, then the state, county, town, community, and lastly himself.

Col. Pratt then discussed the position that the University of North Carolina should hold in the state "It should be so equipped and developed," he said, "that it can give any information about anything to anybody anywhere. It should be so equipped that it can train men to take up any profession. The chief source of information is the University, and it should be so equipped to aid the state in obtaining what it needs."

The state needs an organized militia and it must have some kind of protection. The question is "How is the University of North Carolina going to assist the state in obtaining an organized militia?"

The United States is not at peace with Germany. She has not yet signed the Peace Treaty, and a state of war still exists between her and Germany and Austria. The question concerning compulsory military training was brought up in Congress. Congress did not pass this bill but it did pass a bill for the reorganization of the Regular Army, National Guard, and R. O. T. C. The bill provides for voluntary instead of compulsory training through the National Guard and R. O. T. C.

North Carolina, in the division of the National Guard, is in what is known as the Fourth Corps. The (Continued on page four)

DIALECTIC SOCIETY BY BIG MAJORITY VOTES REVALUATION

SPIRITED DISCUSSION ENDS IN LARGE VOTE FOR REVALUATION

FIFTEEN NEW MEN INITIATED

After a warm discussion last Saturday night the Dialectic Society expressed itself as favoring the Revaluation act, by a large majority vote. At this meeting there was also the initiation of fifteen men into the society.

After the initiation of the new members, the program took the form of an open forum discussion on the question, "Resolved, that the Dialectic Society go on record as favoring the Revaluation act." The resolution was introduced by Joe Erwin, who expressed himself as heartily in favor of the act as a means of listening all property at its real value on the tax books. He explained the Revaluation act, showing why he claimed that the machinery of the system provides justice for all tax payers. Pointing out former inequalities in taxation, he gave his reasons for believing that the Revaluation would eradicate these evils from our tax system.

C. W. Phillips followed, also upholding revaluation. He read paragraphs from North Carolina laws which explained revaluation. He contended that it was an absolutely fair measure to all, and without any partiality to favor any city property owners.

R. B. Robbins read a section from the constitution of the State, which provided that all taxable property should be listed and gave this as his reason for not favoring revaluation. One of his reasons for opposing the act was that the property was assessed at abnormal times, and at a time of inflated prices brought about by abnormal conditions.

J. D. Darsette made a spirited talk in favor of the act. He contended that many of the objections to the act were made for political purposes.

The discussion was a spirited one throughout and keen interest was shown in the subject.

At the next meeting the question of whether Eugene B. Debbs should be released from the federal prison at Atlanta will be discussed.

THE NEXT ISSUE

The next issue of The Tar Heel will have a circulation of between five and six thousand and will go to all of the Alumni. We want especially for this issue any incidents, stories, etc., that will help depict the crowded condition that exists in Chapel Hill now. Either tell your story to some member of the Board, or put it in a human interest story and turn it in. If you delay it will do us no good. Let us have what you have by Wednesday noon.

CAROLINA DROPS HARD FOUGHT GAME TO YALE IN NEW HAVEN SATURDAY BY SCORE OF 21 TO 0

CLARK LAW CLUB MEETS FOR FORMAL ORGANIZATION

C. H. NICHOLS ELECTED PRESIDENT AND H. BRANTLEY MADE CLERK

Last Saturday morning the Law Club, more correctly known as the Clark Club, was formally organized for this year by the election of C. H. Nichols, President, and H. Brantley, Clerk. This Club, as the name signifies, is made up of law students and any member of the first and second year classes is eligible to membership in the Club. The Clark Club, a recent organization in the Law School having been organized only last December, bears its name after Chief Justice Walter Clark of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

The Club meets bi-monthly and assumes the role of the supreme court of the State and tries cases as per the regular procedure of this latter body. A member of the law faculty, who prepares the case two weeks in advance of the convening of the Club, acts as chief-justice. Two members of the Club are duly selected as attorneys, while the remainder of the members act as associate justices, the President and Clerk excepted. Each associate justice, is at the conclusion of the trial required to render an opinion on the case under consideration not to exceed three minutes in length, the opinion of the chief-justice being reserved till the last.

The purpose of such a Club is, of course, to train its members in points of law and court procedure through actual participation in it.

In addition to the Clark Club are four other law clubs, these being the Iredell Club, named in honor of Judge Iredell, a noted equity judge of the State; the McGehee Club, named after professor McGehee of the law faculty; the Battle Club, named in honor of Judge William H. Battle, founder of the Law School; and the Ruffin Club, so named after Chief Justice Ruffin of this State.

The purpose of these five Clubs are naturally practically the same being that of training its members in points of law through actual contact with the workings of the law.

DR. BRANSON OUTLINES PLANS FOR NORTH CAROLINA CLUB

NORTH CAROLINA INDUSTRIAL AND URBAN TO FORM BASIS OF WORK

The North Carolina club held a short meeting in Gerrard Hall Friday night for the purpose of discussing and outlining plans for the year's work.

Dr. Branson presided at the meeting and outlined plans for the year that have been considered for the year by last year's steering committee. The plans have not been completed or perfected, but a fairly definite program has been decided upon, which will be announced when it is completed.

The work of the year will be on the general subject, "North Carolina, Industrial and Urban." Each member that is to have charge of a program will make an intense research to find out the actual facts in regard to his subject, and will present them in the form of a report to the club. These reports should be nothing less than a contribution to the knowledge of urban conditions in the state. This year one man will handle each subject alone, instead of dividing the subject between two or more members, as has been done formerly. Dr. Branson expressed the willingness of the members of the faculty, who took courses related to the subjects, (Continued on page two)

TUMBLE ON YALE'S TEN-YARD LINE COSTS CAROLINA'S CHANCE TO SCORE

LOWE OUT PUNTS YALE BACKS

Carolina Wins First Downs by Successful Aerial Attacks

Playing a much better game than the score would indicate Carolina was defeated by Yale at New Haven Saturday. The score was 21 to 0, representing three touchdowns and goals from placement. During the first half Yale was clearly outplayed, and but for costly fumbles on the part of Carolina there probably would have been another story. The punting of Lowe for Carolina was easily the outstanding feature of the game. He consistently outpunted the Yale backs by fifteen yards.

Yale's first touchdown came in the very first minutes of play as a result of Poindexter's fumble on the kick-off which fell short upon the 45 yard line. By a series of rushes the ball was carried across. Yale again kicked off and for the remainder of the half the ball was kept well within their territory. Carolina, in the second quarter advancing the ball as far as their ten yard line only to lose it upon another fumble. The half ended with the ball well in the middle of the field.

In the third quarter Yale scored again, Carolina suffering heavily from penalties, but managing to keep the ball usually in the center of the field. Hanby blocked on attempt at a field goal from the 30 yard line. Yale scored again in the fourth. Carolina uncorked an excellent aerial attack, and made good gains on off-tackle plays, but was unable to recoup heavy losses through penalties. Both eleven played almost the entire game with first string men.

Line-up and summary:

Yale (21)	Position	N. C. (0)
Shevlin	Left End	Hutchins
Callahan (Capt.)	Center	Jacobi
Herr	Right Guard	Pritchard
Into	Right Tackle	Hanby

Mr. Lear, Mr. Walke and Miss Noble went with the truck to Efland to give the demonstrations and Mr. Walke and Miss Noble went to Cedar Grove with it. Over a hundred people consulted the demonstrators at each place and everyone seemed very enthusiastic over this new branch of University work.

The conveniences and comforts included on the truck are:

A portable Delco light set; a Delco water system pumping water from a small tank through a regular faucet into a sink; a washing machine; a vacuum cleaner; a churn; a fan and iron; a sewing machine; and a utility motor. All of these were electrically operated.

Mr. Walke of this division will be at the State Fair to give advice about these comforts and conveniences though the division will have no exhibit.
