CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE DECIDED IN FUTURE

Secretary E. R. Rankin announces that the championship series in high school basketball will begin next week throughout the high schools of the State. Conferences of managers in the East and the West will be held at an early date to arrange the schedule by which these teams will compete. The final State Championship game will be played in Chapel Hill around March the 15th. The football, baseball, basketball and track contests among the high schools of the State for the past few years have been eagerly participated in by the school athletes, and as eagerly watched by high school enthusiasts throughout the State. Below is a list of the past champions in the basketball contests:

- Winston-Salem High School—State Champions, 1915.
- Durham High School—State Champions, 1916.
- Winston-Salem High School—State Champions, 1917.
- Durham High School—State Champions, 1918.
- Winston-Salem High School—State Champions, 1919.
- Wilmington High School—State Champions, 1920.

WINSTON DESCRIBES CHAPEL IN SIXTIES

given more excuses than you had absences marked against you." "Oh, that's all right," said the student, "just let the rest count on this week." "In those days," continued Dr. Winston, "there was no water except at the well, no baths, no steam heat, and no side walks. The New East and New West buildings were considered the handsomest then in the State except the capital at Raleigh. These two buildings had steam heat and were considered up-to-date, and very fine."

Dr. Winston told of a humorous happening that happened at commencement one year: All Seniors were required to make speeches and submit them to Professor Hubbard for approval. One student took excerpts from the speeches of Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Everett and other great orators and pieced them together and submitted the result of his labors to Professor Hubbard. After finding out the opinion of the Professor his paper the student in reply to an inquiry said: "No, Old Hub never touched me but he did give Clay, Webster and those old orators hail Columbia."

FACT AND COMMENT

The Asheville Times reproduced last Thursday one of the articles which appeared in the January number of Carolina Magazine. The article was entitled "Sheep to the Slaughter" and was by William E. Horner.

On the request of the three presidents of the upper classes 132 seats downstairs in Gerrard Hall have been vacated in order to furnish seats to the many upper class-men who desire to attend Chapel. These seats are in the extreme back of the hall. The Freshmen previously occupying the seats have been sent upstairs.

The local post of the American Legion will have a smoker at the school house on February 22. The post has a membership of about sixty and is composed of students, faculty, and townspeople. Officers include Fred Morrison who is post commander and L. J. Phipps, the adjutant.

The following men were initiated into Vance's Inn of Phi Delta Phi, the legal fraternity: Robert H. Frazier, George D. Robertson, Frank S. Spruill, John W. Hunnicutt, and A. M. Carroll.

President Chase and Business Manager Woolen were in Raleigh during the first of the week attending a meeting of a committee on Higher Education.

Professor Frank P. Graham will deliver a talk before the Rotary Club of Burlington Friday night, February the eleventh, about the situation confronting the colleges of North Carolina at the present time.

The Geological Club held its regular meeting last Thursday night, February 3rd, in New East Building. Mr. H. S. Boyce presented a paper to the Club on "The Iron Ores of Norway and Sweden."

Miss Luisa Reed, of the Class of '19, is on the Hill finishing work on her A. M. thesis. During her short visit she has been entertained by many of the people of Chapel Hill. Miss Mary Thornton gave a delightful tea at the Little House to which she invited all Miss Reed's friends. Mrs. MacIntosh also entertained, giving an enjoyable afternoon party in honor of Miss Reed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The women students of the School of Public Welfare will be at home every Thursday afternoon from four until six at Rosemary Lodge.

The preliminary for the Southern Oratorical Contest will be held next Wednesday evening. A man will be selected to represent the University in this contest in which men from seven Southern colleges and Universities will speak. Orations must deal with social, political, or economic questions of present day moment.

buying the negative, cornering the supply and boosting the price were nobly rejected by the Candidate. Turner has an exceptionally fine opportunity of success in this campaign though nobody has been able to find out what he is running for. All desiring his photo can obtain them in Smith building at the room at the top of the middle steps.

Come early! Line forms to the right.

Applying Theory

Westinghouse, putting theory into practice, has employed the ablest technical graduates of the engineering schools of the country.

Annually over two hundred picked electrical and mechanical engineers are trained. Before their analytical minds the field of electrical practice is systematically passed in review until the work which they can elevate into achievement is discovered.

In this way the directing personnel of Westinghouse is built—trained engineering thinkers put where they can achieve the greatest results. Bulletins descriptive of the various lines of work and the way young engineering graduates obtain positions with the company will be gladly furnished.
