

INSPIRATION SUBJECT GRANGENT'S LECTURE

Harvard Department Head, Giving Dante Seminar, Speaks in Gerard Hall.

"Inspiration, Divine and Poetic," was the subject of a lecture by Prof. Charles H. Grandgent before a large audience in Gerrard Hall Thursday night. Prof. Grandgent, who is head of the Romance language department at Harvard, has been giving a seminar in Dante during the past week was designed for the student body in general, which had not had the opportunity of hearing his regular seminar lectures.

The speaker's discussion of Dante was prefaced by a review of the three main, with special reference to the progress of the middle ages. The medieval minds, he said, were not merely the constructors of verse and buildings, but chiefly of theology.

"Dante was the voice of the Renaissance," said Prof. Grandgent in speaking of the great contributions of Dante. He spoke of Dante as the father of his country, and the one who established the literary medium of the Italian language. "No other language owes so much to any one man as the Italian," he continued. "In love of him Italian patriotism finds its focus."

GLEE CLUB SOON TO MAKE TOUR OF EAST

Musicians Will Storm Many Cities With Their Tuneful Cohorts.

Under the efficient leadership and direction of Prof. T. H. Hamilton the Glee Club is fast completing its preparation for the eastern tour. The program which will be presented is well balanced, and contains popular songs as well as serious numbers. It is almost an entirely new program, there being only one or two numbers that have been produced before. Manager Chas. L. Nichols is completing dates and arrangements for the trip and the following towns will be stormed by the musicians on their crusade: On Monday, February 21, a concert will be given in Wilson. On Tuesday, February 22, the Club will migrate to Rocky Mount. On Wednesday, February 23, the Club will play in Tarboro, and on Thursday the boys will journey to Washington. On Friday, the 25th, the Club will play in New Bern, and the final concert will be given in Goldsboro on Saturday night, February 26. On Saturday the boys will return to the Hill.

DR. WOOD TALKS TO SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

University Graduate Speaks on "Our Debt in Medicine to the British."

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society held its 246th meeting recently. Dr. E. F. Wood, a graduate of the University of the class of 1899, delivered a lecture on "Our Debt in Medicine to the British." The lecture, being part historical and part hygienic, outlined the story of Malaria and recent work on similar diseases.

Dr. Wood was recently in London and there learned directly the whole story of Malaria.

Dr. Wood is the son of Dr. Thomas F. Wood, a great friend of the University.

The Wood collection of a thousand volumes of medicinal books is the property of the University Library, the books being given to the University by his wife after his death.

FACULTY MEMBER TO TALK WITH STUDENTS

President Van Noppen of the Y. M. C. A. announces that under a new arrangement one member of the Faculty will be in the "Y." building every afternoon to talk with students and discuss their problems. The consultations will last an hour each afternoon and a different member of the Faculty will be in the "Y." each afternoon. The Faculty members will rotate in their services, thereby preventing the work from falling on the shoulders of a few members. It is believed that this arrangement will bring about a closer relationship and understanding between the Faculty and the students, and will serve in a large degree to cause the problems confronting a student more easily overcome by him. A schedule for the remainder of the year will be in the next issue of the Tar Heel.

DI SOCIETY APPROVES WAGE EQUALIZATION

Little Opposition in Literary Society to Paying Equal Wages to Men and Women.

A resolution favoring the equalization of wages of men and women for the same work performed had little opposition in the Dialectic society Saturday night.

The question was construed to mean the equalization of wages for the same piece of work, not necessarily the quality of the work. Practically all agreed that if it was to be debated on the basis of merely the same piece of work, there would be nothing to argue, for when considered from this standpoint the equality was regarded as only fair and just.

The subject was introduced by J. L. Apple, who gave an interpretation of the question, and expressed himself as favoring the equalization of wages. However, he was not in favor of equal wages when there is a difference in the quality of work, or when it is a question of physical strength.

L. V. Huggins and R. L. Carroll gave illustrations to show a difference in wages would be unjust, and contributed arguments in favor of equality.

W. H. Bobbit declared that when the amount of work is the consideration there is no question. It is when the amount of efficiency is considered is when the question is debatable, in his opinion.

B. W. Blackwelder contended that man's potential power and reserve ability entitled him to more wages.

The vote of the society was in favor of equality by a big majority.

W. S. BERNARD TALKS AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Professor Bernard Declares That a Reversal to Old Methods in Religion is Needed

That a reversal to old methods in religion is needed, and that if the church is successful it must render service to humanity through the instrumentality of Christian faith and religion, was, in part, the message of Prof. W. S. Bernard in a talk at a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in the reading room Thursday night.

"Service to mankind is the first duty of the church," said the speaker Bernard. This, he said, must be prompted by the same motives that prompted the work of Christ. Love of God and love of brother were referred to as two fundamentals of religion.

Prof. Bernard reviewed the work of St. Paul in Macedonia, Athens, and Corinth, and his phenomenal success up until the time he reached Athens. Mr. Bernard told how Paul allowed the atmosphere of Athens, what was then the intellectual center of the world, "hoodoo" him. Being so greatly impressed with the learning of the Athenians, he tried to use their methods and attempted to present philosophical arguments for his cause. The result was that he failed. He moved on to Corinth, discarded Athenian philosophy and methods, and returned to his old way of preaching. Here he had even greater success than ever before. Prof. Bernard attributed the lack of success of the churches today to similar reasons. He declared that, instead of trying to use modern and up to date business methods to attract people to Christianity, we must go back to the old way. He showed that the use of such methods has covered the Y. M. C. A.'s in the large cities to mere athletic and social clubs.

RALLY WINS FOR YALE.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 8.—Yale rescued today's basketball game from North Carolina University in the last minute of play today. The final score was 32 to 30. Carolina began the last ten minutes of play with a lead of 25 to 16, which they had acquired by a magnificent spurt at the beginning of the second half. The score at half time stood 17 to 16.

Captain Flynn's all around play and Cohen's defensive game were the features of Yale's performance, while Carmichael and Captain Shepard starred for Carolina. The contest was witnessed by Yale's junior promenade of society folk.

Carolina was crippled when Seifert strained his ankle and retired in the last five minutes of play. Yale's winning goal was thrown in the last fifteen seconds of the game.

The line-up:
Yale (32) Carolina (30)
C. Onley Carmichael
Baither McDonald
L. F.

Alderman (4), Flynn (3), Cohen C.

BRYAN PRIZES TO BE AWARDED FOR ESSAY

The department of Government announces that the Bryan prize will be given to any student in the University who submits the best essay on Political Science.

The Bryan Prize is given annually by William Jennings Bryan to the student who submits the best thesis of a political nature. The prize has formerly been awarded by the department of Economics but since the establishment at the beginning of this school year of Department of Government headed by Dr. Hamilton the prize has been given over to this Department for award. The prize was established in 1903 and is in the nature of money.

Beginning next year only students who have had, or are taking, government 1 and 2 and government 5 and 6 will be eligible.
