THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

It is pretty clear that the college newspapers of this section of the country do not compare favorably with those in similar institutions in other parts of the country. Too much can't be done to improve this situation. The action of Editor Leek, of the Richmond Collegian, in attempting the formation of a South Atlantic Collegiate Press Association deserves the heartiest co-operation from the college newspaper in this section, for it is only by concerted action and stimulation of interest that the papers can be lifted to their proper level. It is an ambitious undertaking for a single paper, and institution, to take upon its shoulders the responsibility of inaugurating a method by means of which we may obtain joint effort. Over a hundred papers have been invited to send representatives to the Richmond meeting, and it is the sincere wish of The Tar Heel that these papers respond with enthusiasm to this opportunity of getting together, and beginning the revivifying of southern college journalism. We shall be glad to do whatever we can to promote this cause, and wish to thank the Richmond Collegian for providing the means by which we may get started.

INTELLIGENT CITIZENSHIP.

Nominations have been made for the presidency of the Y. M. C. A. for the coming year. Information about the three men who are now in the running is to be found elsewhere in this paper. Study these men. Study the position that is to be filled, and when it comes to your part in the affair of casting your vote, be prepared to vote intelligently. We are free to talk about what the citizens of the state should be prepared to do in an election, and are bitter in our expressions about "the peepul" failing to do a certain thing. This campus makes about as many blunders in its selection of men to serve in the several campus positions as do the citizens of the state in making their selections. Here's a chance to exercise the function of citizenship intelligently. For the sake of the men running, for the sake of the position to be filled and the influence on the campus for the coming year, and for the sake of your responsibility as a citizen, be PREPARED to vote when the ballots are distributed.

CORRECTION.

The article carried in the Student Forum column Tuesday in reply to Dr. Hanford's recent articles was signed "The Student Council." This should have been signed "A Student Journalist." We make this statement to correct any impressions that may have gone out, and to express our regrets that this error should have occurred.

THE COMING ASSEMBLY.

The Tar Heel should like to especially invite the attention of the student body to the announcement by Dean Bradshaw of the coming assembly that has to do with the preservation of University property, and the beautification of buildings and grounds, and to urge that all arrange to be present.

NORTH CAROLINA CLUB ANNOUNCES PROGRAM

any information concerning them that one might desire.

The program is as follows:

March 7.—City Finance and Financial Methods in Carolina. J. G. Gullick will give a paper on this subject; he will show the different types of financial methods in North Carolina, and some adequate means which might be used in bettering the existing methods. The methods of handling finances in this State are comparatively poor and the Counties are far behind the cities in this respect.

March 21.—Public Utilities in Carolina Cities. This subject will be handled by W. E. Wolf. He is actually making a survey of North Carolina utilities and will discuss and contrast the different kinds.

April 11.—Home Ownership and the Housing Problem. At the present time less than one-half of the people of the State own the houses they live in. There are fewer people in the country who live in rented houses than in the cities. Miss Pruitt will lead the discussion on this question.

April 25.—Community Life and Organization in Carolina. The discussion of this will cover the rarity of country communities, the rural social problems, the most promising agency of social integration in rural areas, social engineering in mill and factory centers, and outstanding achievements in North Carolina. Communities are very common in the European countries, but there is no law for organizing them in this country, and consequently there are only about three in this State. This problem will be discussed by J. C. Cowan.

May 9.—Training for Public Service. Mr. H. W. Odum will discuss the agencies and activities for public service.

May 23.—Municipal Accounting and Auditing. P. Hettelman will read a paper on the subject.

BRADSHAW SPEAKS AT SOPHOMORE MEETING

Talks of Position of Sophomore Class in Making System of Self-Government Success.

Dean Bradshaw in an address before a meeting of the Sophomore class on Tuesday brought out strongly the position of the Sophomores in making the system of self government here at Carolina to be assimilated by the Freshmen and other new men as they enter the University each year. Dean Bradshaw said in beginning his talk that the most effective means of getting a thought to the Freshmen was through the Sophomores.

He reviewed the campus conditions of this session and said that the University officials considered that this year has been a most successful one up to the present, with a higher record of scholarship, and better publications and a student body who could stand a bad football season and still retain their athletic morale.

The system of government of the school that he is attending appeals strongly to the Freshmen, and he is ever interested in how this system is conducted, said Dean Bradshaw. He said that in his opinion the system of Student Self Government was the greatest thing that we have at the University, and that it was the real power in the training of leaders as the University is supposed to produce. "The first thing that a man needs to learn to be a leader, is to learn to master himself," said Dean Bradshaw.

Dean Bradshaw spoke of the many times that he had heard the question asked: "Just what is the Honor System and the System of Student Government at the University?" This system of Student Government that the University is noted for is essentially the essence of individual management, and its real function is to teach a man to master himself and thus to become a leader of men.

Dean Bradshaw stressed to the Sophomores the opportunity that they have in explaining this great question to the Freshmen, and of making them see the functions of the Honor System in its real light. "The Freshman Class is always ready to learn these essential things and if they are made to see the real meaning of Carolina's system of Student Government eventually every individual will know it and contribute to its functioning the proper support," said Dr. Bradshaw.

CAROLINA STUDENTS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Trinity Missionary Meet Attended With Great Spiritual Benefit by Local Churchmen.

Carolina representatives to the Student Missionary conference recently held at Trinity college have returned and report a splendid conference and royal treatment.

The conference lasted three days and was used as a means of interesting men and women of North Carolina in the importance of missionary work. One hundred and fifty delegates from the various denominational and normal colleges attended the conference.

Addresses were delivered by Dr. Few, president of Trinity, and others, among whom, were Dr. W. E. Smith, executive secretary for foreign missions, of the southern Presbyterian church. His subject was "The Missionary Call to Young Men and Women." Dr. Smith is just back from a trip to China, Japan and Korea, where he studied conditions among the peoples of these countries. The great opportunity for Christian service in these lands was forcefully presented to the delegates.

Dr. Fay Campbell, of Yale university also delivered an address as did a number of returned missionaries. For the entertainment of the delegates a missionary pageant was staged by the North Carolina College for Women students, called "In The Name of the Cross."

Carolina's representatives to the conference were: Charlie Phillips, C. J. Williams, S. O. Bondurant, A. J. Raper, Charles Smith, R. A. Brown, F. A. Grisette, J. D. Simonds and O. L. Hedrick.

STATE GIVES SURPRISE WINS FROM CAROLINA IN A LIVELY CONTEST

was put to guard Ripple, and he did it with credit, the big boy making only one shot good. By a steady uphill climb, playing as much on the defense as on the offense, Carolina overcame the seven point lead that State held over them at the end of the first half, and it appeared to be anybody's game. A royal battle was waged, both teams fighting for dear life, with Carolina playing a better brand of ball than State in this period. Carmichael made two goals, Hanby two, and Erwin and Shepherd added one each during this half. Many shots of both quints went wild, the teams shooting recklessly in the last few minutes of play. State made only three court goals in this period. It has not been definitely ascertained whether the victory by State over Carolina will have an effect on the State championship or not. State and Trinity have played but one game, the latter five winning. If they should play another game and State should win, whoever wins the game Saturday night between Trinity and Carolina will have to play the West Raleigh aggregation for the honors.

BASKETBALL SEASON SUCCESSFUL AT ELON

Game With Wofford at Elon Will Complete Successful Season of Year.

The game with Wofford on the home floor Monday evening will bring Elon's basketball season to a close. It is not probable that any extra games will be played to break existing ties with Davidson, Wake Forest, or N. C. State, owing to the early opening of the baseball season.

On the whole the season has been successful. A total of nineteen games were played, including all the college teams in the State except Trinity, three strong Virginia Colleges, and five "Y" and Association games. Of these nineteen games eleven have been won while eight resulted in victories for the opposing teams. Not a single game was lost on the home floor.

The record of games with the State colleges only is especially gratifying. Out of eleven games seven were won and four were lost. Guilford and Lenoir were defeated twice each. Davidson, N. C. State and Wake Forest were each defeated on the local floor but succeeded in turning the tables on their own courts. Carolina also defeated the Maroon and Gold quint. Elon's percentage in State college games only is 63.6, which places her in a high position on the list.

Guilford Debating Team Defeats Hampden-Sydney

(N. C. Collegiate Press News Service)

On February 19, the Guilford College debating team won a double victory in a dual debate with Hampden-Sydney college. The question debated was, "Resolved, That waiving all questions as to transportation the Federal Government Should Own and Operate all the Coal Mines in the United States, constitutionality granted."

E. L. Hollady and S. G. Hodgkin, the affirmative team, won by a two to one vote at Guilford, while J. C. Newlin and A. I. Newlin won by a unanimous vote at Hampden-Sydney.
