CHAPEL HILL CAPTURES CHAMPIONSHIP OF STATE IN SPIRITED CONTEST

Score Tied Several Times but Chapel Hill Forges Ahead in the Last Half

BY MARGIN OF ONE POINT

In a nip and tuck basketball contest Friday night, Chapel Hill defeated Charlotte by a margin of one point and won the state championship for 1921.

The game was as well played and as keenly contested as any high school game ever witnessed on the local court. The two teams stuck to each other in scoring like leeches, not more than three points ever separating them during the first half.

Charlotte lost heavily on account of poor foul shooting, making only 10 out of 20 trials good. In all-round play the game was the best of the high school games seen here this week. Both teams showed much more speed and fight than is usually evidenced by high school aggregations.

In the second half Chapel Hill was always in the lead, running up at one time a lead as high as 31 to 24, but Charlotte rallied, and urged on by Yates, whose shooting was a feature of the game, came near tying the score several times.

Chapel Hill appeared to have just a slight edge throughout the entire game. Merritt's floor work and Poythress' shooting, and the all-round guarding of Harrell featured for the victors. Harvell starred for Charlotte during the first half, and attracted much attention by his spirited fight against his larger opponent. Mallory showed up well, and Yates' work at center was an important element in his team's play.

Chapel Hill reached the final contest after having defeated New Bern here Wednesday in the last lap of the eastern finals. Charlotte defeated Greensboro here Tuesday, and Leaksville Thursday, thus winning the western championship and the right to contest Chapel Hill for all-state honors.

ROBERTSON LECTURES ON PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Dr. Robertson, Managing Editor of Hispanic American Review Gives Illustrated Lecture Here.

An illustrated lecture on the Philippines was given Thursday night in Gerrard Hall by Dr. James A. Robertson, managing editor of the Hispanic American Review and a noted authority on his subject. Dr. Robertson has also been giving a seminar on the Philippines which has been largely attended.

After being introduced by Dr. W. W. Pierson, Jr., the speaker began his discourse by reading a simple story of the folk lore type. His reasons for doing this was that "it breathed so distinctly of the old life of the Philippines," while the pictures that he was to show depicted the new or later life.

Dr. Anderson showed a number of colored slides showing country and city views, scenes picturing school life and various other things of interest. The country views included mountain scenery, rice terraces, cocoa palms and large forest trees, mountain highways, and thatched-roofed huts of the natives. A number of schools were shown, as well as school games and exhibits of articles made in the schools. Other objects shown were churches, river boats, and pictures of army life and hat making.

PRESIDENT CLASS '19 SPEAKS TO FRESHMEN

Luther Hodges, president of the class of '19 spoke to the Freshmen in Chapel Hill Friday morning. "I feel," said Hodges, "like all Carolina men feel when they come back to the Hill." He then told about a few of the things which carried Carolina through that awful period of the S. A. T. C. Hodges said that the principal thing was that Everlasting Carolina Spirit, the spirit of a true gentleman. Another thing was the beautiful spirit of Dr. Chase who was just taking over the reins of the University. That same spirit with which he steered her through that crisis has made the University what she is today, and has a great influence in making the Legislature give such a great appropriation to the University.

SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS FETE ST. MARY GIRLS HERE ON HOUSEPARTY

Pi Kappa Phi and Zeta Psi Fraternities Show Visiting Girls the Best of Entertainment.

ARE HERE FOR HOLIDAYS

Ten St. Mary girls who are here as guests at the houseparties of Misses Louise Buice and Frances Venable were given dances Friday and Saturday night by the Pi Kappa Phi and the Zeta Psi fraternities respectively. Besides these dances which were both of an informal nature they were given on the same dates several other hops of a more informal nature and bid fair to have several more before they leave. They will go back to Raleigh, leaving behind them an enviable record in the line of informal entertainment.

The Pi Kappa Phi Hall was the scene of the first dance. Mrs. Manning and Mrs. Elliott were the chaperones and several local girls were present. The hall was decorated in the fraternal colors of yellow and white. Punch was served and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Saturday night the Zeta Pisis repeated the performance and gave the fair ones another hop, which was also a splendid success. Mrs. T. J. Wilson was the chaperone and several other girls were over from Raleigh.

Both of the dances were informal and the music for both was furnished by the Tar Baby Five. Midnight banquets were staged at Gooch's after each dance.

The young ladies attending the houseparty of Miss Buice are: Miss Laura Underwood, Miss Rosebud Underwood, Miss Elizabeth Carrigan, Miss Maurine Moore and Miss Hannah Lilly. Those attending Miss Venable's houseparty are Miss Susan Peques, Miss Fielding Dauthat, and Miss Dorothy Kirkland.

The party will leave Wednesday for Raleigh where they will resume their studies.

R. O. T. C. HERE IN RIFLE COMPETITION

J. V. Ambler Makes Best Score in Contest Here; May Meet Other College Teams.

A rifle team of ten men, representing the University of North Carolina, took part in a gallery rifle competition on Friday, March 11, which included teams representing all units in the Fourth Corps Area. Each man fired 10 shots at the following ranges: 50 feet standing; 50 feet kneeling; 75 feet sitting and 75 feet prone. The Carolina R. O. T. C. rifle team with their scores are as follows: J. V. Ambler, score—190; C. I. Mathews, score—189; L. V. Huggins, score—186; I. W. Cashatt, score—182; A. M. Cornwell, score—181; W. H. Doyle, score—181; H. L. Branson, score—176; A. R. Kistler, score—175; C. B. Yarley, score—173, and J. D. West, score—167.

The above scores were sent to the Fourth Corps Area headquarters and the result of the competition between the different college R. O. T. C. units will be announced as soon as the scores have been tabulated. The three highest scoring teams in the Fourth Corps Area will compete in a match possibly this month with the three leading teams of the Ninth Corps Area, which includes the far western States. The R. O. T. C. department is highly enthusiastic over the showing made by the aforementioned men.

JUNIORS INAUGURATE A "CLEAN-UP" WEEK

The Junior class is co-operating with the Community Club, in inaugurating a "Clean Up" week on the campus. Last year the Junior class did the same thing with good results. The purpose is to stop the general throwing of trash anywhere on the campus, and to use the trash cans instead.

Photographs were taken by the party showing the operating conditions at the plants. The trip was a part of the regular University work and the students will be required to report on all they saw. During this week Dr. Saville will take his class in materials and construction, C. E. 17, over to Durham to inspect the various processes in the manufacture of iron and steel.

There is a possibility that the time and credit given for R. O. T. C. work will be greatly increased next year.

Services are being held daily in the Episcopal Church during Lent.

DODD WILL LECTURE ON WILSON'S IDEALS

Chicago University Professor to Speak on Tragedy of America's Great President.

"The Shattered Idealism of Woodrow Wilson" is the subject that William E. Dodd, professor of American History in the University of Chicago, will lecture on to the students of the University in Gerrard Hall Thursday night.

The University lecture committee considers itself fortunate in securing Prof. Dodd, one of the six most eminent authorities on history in the United States, to address the student body. Prof. Dodd has written many books on historical subjects, especially concerning the South.

Prof. Dodd is very capable of lecturing on any subject concerning Woodrow Wilson and his work. He is a close friend of the ex-President's and has been associated with him in many things. Prof. Dodd wrote a book entitled "Woodrow Wilson and His Life Work" and is at present preparing another concerning Mr. Wilson and his work at the recent Peace Conference. Just a few days before the inauguration Prof. Dodd had a long conference with Mr. Wilson.

Prof. Dodd is a native of North Carolina, his birth place being Clayton. He is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and a former professor of history in that institution. He also studied at Leipzig, Germany. Prof. Dodd is a member of both the American Historical and the Mississippi Valley Historical Associations. He is the author of "Jefferson's Ruckkehr zur Politik" and "Life of Nathaniel Macon;" co-translator of Lamprecht's "What is History?;" author of "Life of Jefferson Davis" and "Statesmen of the Old South." Prof. Dodd is also editor and joint author of the Riverside History of the United States and a frequent contributor of historical articles to various reviews and magazines.

So on next Thursday night the students of the University will have the privilege of hearing one of America's most eminent authorities on history, Prof. William E. Dodd.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS MAKE INSPECTION TRIP

Professor Thorndike Saville Takes Senior Students on Long Trip in North and South Carolina.

A very successful and interesting trip was undertaken recently when Mr. Thorndike Saville, professor of hydraulic and sanitary engineering took five of his senior students in power engineering for a four-day inspection trip to various light and power plants in North and South Carolina.

Their itinerary took them on March 4 to the plants of the American Aluminum company, at Badin, and the Carolina Light & Power company at Blewitt Falls, while on the 5th and 6th, they visited the Southern Power Company's development on the Catawba river at Fishing Creek, Great Falls, Rocky Creek and Wateree, South Carolina. On the 7th, they returned to the Hill.

Through the courtesy of the Southern Power Co., automobiles were furnished for conducting the party to the various plants near Great Falls and Wateree, South Carolina. Students making the trip were: S. C. Austin, of Richfield; F. R. Bacon, of Charlotte; J. B. Broach, of Hurdle Mills; W. A. Hill and K. B. Noe, both of Charlotte.

The results of this trip were exceedingly valuable for every plant visited showed a different type of hydro-electric development, which varied all the way from the Badin plant, operating under a head of water of 180 feet and the second highest overflowing dam in the United States, to the plant at Blewitt Falls, operating under a head of water of 45 feet.

There is a possibility that the time and credit given for R. O. T. C. work will be greatly increased next year.

Services are being held daily in the Episcopal Church during Lent.

MATERIAL NOT LACKING FOR FIRST YEAR TEAM

Nearly Hundred Candidates Out for Berth on Fred Patterson's Freshman Outfit.

Freshman baseball got away to a good start late last week when more than one hundred candidates responded to Coach Fred Patterson's initial call to arms.

The first day out was taken up in a general limbering up of all candidates, and a general classification of the various men in the groups that would receive special instruction in the art of the position for which they were trying. Some dozen pitchers, and about half that many catchers offer abundant battery material, while there is no lack of aspirants for any of the infield positions, and the outfield presents in itself a seemingly hopeless job in elimination. Whatever may be said about prospects for this year's Freshman squad, there is certainly no lack of material. Among the more promising candidates are two men from last year's Greensboro High School team, which won the championship, and five from the Burgaw outfit who were defeated by Greensboro at Chapel Hill in the final contest of the championship series.

MAKES SUGGESTION TO DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP

Would Avoid After-Season Wrangle by Post Season Series of Games by Contestants.

A sport writer of the Greensboro Daily News suggests a remedy for the annual after-season college basketball wrangle (so it seems to him) in which this season the Elon College faculty athletic committee springs the matter, contending that Carolina has not the undisputed champion basketball team of the State until her team defeats Elon on its home floor.

The same faculty committee further asserts that the assumption that Trinity, upon the defeat of whom the Tar Heel bases Carolina's claim, had any right to compete for the championship is all wrong, because she did not play Davidson, Elon or Guilford, and Wake Forest only one game.

From comparative scores in games with colleges of this state and Virginia this writer states that in his opinion the Carolina team is almost without doubt the champion of the State, but he thinks that Elon and the other colleges who have not been played really have a justifiable contention. He proposes that in the future each of the State colleges have one game scheduled with every other college and that a post-season series be arranged between the several teams making the best showing for the season and the championship could be decided without question.

He furthermore suggests the formation of a State collegiate association which would control all inter-collegiate athletics between colleges of the State. He points to the success of the Carolina officials, together with the managers of the high school teams, in mapping out schedules each year which almost without question have decided the championship.

The same writer states that the collegians want the support of the sport lovers of the State and in asking this support, they owe it to the fans to form an association to make schedules which will justly decide the State championship in the various sports.

SOUTHERN ORATORICAL CONTEST HONORS WON BY CAROLINA MAN IN SECOND ANNUAL MEET HERE

REPORT OF FACULTY MEMBERS ENDORSED

"Education for Citizenship" Endorsed by National Educational Council.

A report entitled "Education for Citizenship," prepared by Professor J. C. DeRouillac Hamilton and Edgar W. Knight of the University faculty, was unanimously endorsed by the Committee on Citizenship at the meeting of the National Council of Education at Atlantic City last week.

This committee consisted of many of the leading teachers of the country in History and Education. It asked that they continue the study for the purpose of adapting the idea in the report on the needs of Colleges and Universities.

This report was first prepared by Professors Hamilton and Knight as consultants in General Education for the Education and Recreation Branch of the War Department, and it was accepted by the Chief of Staff and 15,000 copies were ordered published for the service.

The report requires that every man, in order to be a trained and creative citizen, must have the ability to defend his country, make a living, enjoy and improve his environment, and contribute to the life of his time; he must have a reasonable degree of intelligence in the fundamental processes of economic life, in the important problems in social life, in government, and in general humanistic interests; and he must have an attitude of fairness, honesty, kindness, and helpfulness toward his fellow man; and of responsibility toward society in general.

The committee at Atlantic City at first disapproved of the last of these requirements. Two men of the committee contended that if the citizen had the necessary amount of ability and intelligence his attitude would inevitably be correct, and that education could not develop his disposition. However, they finally agreed with the report, and it was accepted unanimously.

J. Y. JORDAN FORMS NEW STUDENT BAND

Men are Needed Who Have Knowledge of the Middle Instruments.

Jay Y. Jordan, of Asheville, a member of the second year law class, recently in the consular service at Brest, France, and formerly the leader and organizer of the Carolina Minstrels in 1916-18, which was the most successful musical organization probably Carolina has ever had, has just organized a band of about 14 pieces. The first practice was held in Battle park last week. Mr. Jordan will receive the full co-operation of the Music Department, the University and the R. O. T. C. in providing uniforms, instruments and sheet music for his fellow cohorts.

Mr. Jordan is in especial need of a student who has knowledge of the middle instruments, namely, baritone and trombone, etc. All students musically inclined who have some knowledge of music are requested to hand their names to the "Y" secretary or Mr. Jordan. It is thought that at the opening of the baseball season the band will be fully organized and equipped to play at games on the Hill and away from home besides playing at student gatherings.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT NEARING COMPLETION

Work is progressing on the streets and sidewalks in the eastern end of town. The streets are being dragged and the gutters dug out. Where it is needed a new surface of gravel is being put on the sidewalks. The work will be completed in a few weeks.

Recently the county commissioners appropriated a sum of money to carry on this work. A small tractor has been purchased by the town, and this has been instrumental in the work on the streets. There are only three men at work on the job. Considering this small number the work is progressing rapidly.

Gould of Johns Hopkins Takes Second Place in the Contest.

D. R. HODGIN IS WINNER

Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Johns Hopkins, Vanderbilt and Kentucky Represented.

(By J. G. GULLICK)

Taking as his subject "War Declared," D. R. Hodgin, representing Carolina, won first place in the second annual contest of the Southern Oratorical League held here Friday night, winning over representatives of five other Southern universities. Johns Hopkins University won second place and Kentucky took the third honors.

Six of the largest Southern universities were represented in this contest. In addition to Carolina, there were representatives from the University of Virginia, the University of Alabama, Johns Hopkins University, Vanderbilt University, and the University of Kentucky.

The judges were President F. W. Boatwright, of Richmond University; Prof. C. R. Brown, of Roanoke College, and Prof. Yates Snowden, of the University of South Carolina. President Chase presided at the contest.

Mr. Hodgin spoke on "War Declared," his oration being an appeal for the development of manhood in America. He said that in the recent war we paid a high cost without hesitating, but did not gain. We gambled and lost, he declared, and undertook to show that war gains nothing. The speaker spoke of a silent war, in which he said we had all been traitors. "We must say 'War Declared' against ignorance and sloth. Why boast of freedom and safety for democracy when industry and the social structure are rotten." He made an appeal for the development of real men for this war.

This is not the first success that Mr. Hodgin has achieved in oratory. Last year he represented Carolina in the State Peace Oratorical contest, and had the honor of winning second place. In the national contest he won first place. The winner entered the University in the fall of 1919 as a special student, and has identified himself with numerous college activities. He is a member of the Phi. Society, the Debating Council, Carolina Playmakers, Satyrs, Tau Kappa Alpha, an inter-collegiate debating and oratory fraternity.

Johns Hopkins was represented by Theodore Gould, who won second prize. He took as his subject "America and the Japanese," and advocated a more rigid exclusion of the Japanese from this country, giving three reasons for this: The safeguarding of the white race, world-wide peace, and the economic well being of America were his reasons for keeping out the Japs.

P. H. Vincent, of the University of Kentucky, who won third place,

CLUB HOLDS BANQUET HONORING ROBERTSON

Latin-Americans and El Centro Hispano Banquet in Honor of Seminar Lecturer.

A joint banquet was held by the Latin-American Club and El Centro Hispano in the Cabin Friday night in honor of Dr. James A. Robertson, who has been giving a seminar on the Philippines during the past week.

Nearly forty members of the two organizations were present, and this, their first joint occasion of this kind, proved a real success. Dr. S. E. Leavitt acted as toastmaster and presided over the occasion in his original way.

The principal speaker of the occasion was Dr. Robertson, who with his speech, celebrated the 400th anniversary of Magellan. His subject was "The Story of Magellan," and as his subject would indicate, he gave a review of the life and voyages of this famous explorer. Other speakers were Dr. W. W. Pierson, Jr., and Messrs. C. I. Sillin, J. D. Shaw, F. Llorens, J. G. Gullick, P. A. Reavis, Jr., E. H. Thompson, J. S. Massenburg, and W. T. Hannah.
