THE COMING DEBATERS

This week will be high school week on this campus. Approximately five hundred people will be in Chapel Hill as guests of the University. They will come from the high schools all over the State. It is for each man in the student body to see to it that he contributes his bit to caring for these people.

It is going to be extremely difficult to care for this many people in a town as small as Chapel Hill with its already over-crowded homes, as well as the University dormitories. And these people won't be made comfortable unless we all help out. It is impossible for the Bureau of Extension to care for all these people. WE MUST ALL HELP. We mention this just as a means of calling to everyone's attention the importance of sacrificing a bit in order to make this week a success—to make those visiting us have pleasant memories of Chapel Hill, and the University.

We learn with keen regret of the accident of Captain Faucette of the 1921 State football team, and first baseman on its present baseball team, in breaking his ankle in the Elon game; and trust that he will be able to be in the line-up when fall football practice starts. He has always seemed to us a sportsman of the highest type, and an opponent we are always glad to meet.

We are glad to hear and see the appearance of a University band. The campus is deeply indebted to J. Y. Jordan and the men who are working with him in organizing and developing a band.

We have recently understood that members of this group have found it necessary to spend quite a bit of money to secure the necessary equipment and music. The work is enough for these men to contribute, and we hope that the student body will see to it that they are not put to any financial loss. It is for us to defray the expenses incident to getting this band, and we hope that early steps will be taken to reimburse these men for the amounts that they have expended.

SATYRS WILL GIVE CABARET CARNIVAL

Artistic and Modern Dancing With Figures Will Be Given and New Members Chosen.

A modern cabaret dance with special entertainments, artistic and modern dancing, and figures will be the feature of the Satyr Carnival, after the playmaker performance on Saturday, April 23. Reserved tables for couples will be $2.00 a cover, and $1.00 for stags.

Swain Hall is to be especially decorated and artistically lighted to give the desired effect of a Broadway cabaret. Dr. Crozier, of Raleigh, is to give the feature number of the program. Artistic dancing of the aesthetic type, and modern dancing by Wood Williams will also be a part of the program. A Satyr figure and stunt will wind up the entertainment in which they will choose new members. Between the program there will be regular dancing as in cabarets.

This is the first time that such an entertainment has been planned on this order, and the decorations are to carry out the effect desired. The special numbers of the program are being rehearsed, and the best dancers as Williams will be chosen for them. Dr. Crozier of Raleigh is especially clever as an entertainer, and will add much to the program.

The Dramatic Order of Satyrs always gives parties after the playmaker programs. The A. and E. game is to be held here the same afternoon, and there will be a large crowd for both that and the plays that evening. The plays to be presented are: The Reaping, by John Terry; In Dixon's Kitchen, by Wilbur

Stout; and the Chatham Rabbit, by Leggette Blythe. At the end of the Satyr figure, the new members of the organization are to be chosen.

DR. BROOKS TO SPEAK IN CHAPEL THURSDAY

Hon. E. C. Brooks, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and a member of the Board of Trustees of the University, will speak in chapel next Thursday morning, April 14th. His theme will be, "Woodrow Wilson and His Work." Dr. Brooks is one of the biographers of Mr. Wilson, and has published a number of articles and one volume on Mr. Wilson and his work, as well as making special contributions in his Education For Democracy.

Dr. Brooks will speak on Wednesday evening, the 13th, at 8:00 in the high school auditorium, and will discuss "The Problems of Public Education in North Carolina." Students of the University are specially invited to attend.

DAVIDSON TO BUILD HOMES FOR FACULTY

Davidson, N. C.—Davidson College is planning to build at least three new professors' homes this spring. The three new dwellings, which will be modern in every respect, will be erected on North Main street.

It has always been the custom of the College to provide suitable homes for her professors. The building of the new residences became necessary in view of the fact that a very considerable enlargement of the faculty is contemplated. As yet there is no information available as to the number of new professors that will be secured or to what departments they will be attached.

THE YALE CLUB HONORS DR. JOSEPH H. PRATT

Class of '93 Presents Classmate With Handsome Silver Game Platter at Reunion Banquet.

On March 31st at the annual dinner of the class of "93" of Yale University at the Yale Club in New York City Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt, commander of the 105th Engineers during the World War, and professor of Economic Geology in the University, was signally honored by his classmates of Yale "93" by the gift of a handsome silver game platter, bearing the following inscription: "Presented to Joseph Hyde Pratt by his classmate of '93" in token of their friendship and appreciation of his services in the World War. March 31, 1921."

The speech of presentation was made by Mr. Vance McCormick, former Chairman of the Democratic National committee, a classmate of Colonel Pratt's.

Colonel Pratt, though born and educated in Connecticut, has been a North Carolinian by adoption since 1897, when he began lecturing on Economic Geology in the University. He began this work after receiving his degree of Ph.D. in 1896, and in 1904 he became Professor of Economic Geology. From 1897 till 1906 he was State Mineralogist for North Carolina, and since 1906 he has been State Geologist, having control of the survey, development and conservation of North Carolina's natural resources.

When the World War broke out Colonel Pratt, then a Major, commanded his regiment, the 105th Engineers, throughout its period of training, took it across to Belgium and France and led it in the glorious battle around Ypres and through the Hindenburg line at Bellicourt, September 29th, 1918. He was repeatedly commended for coolness and efficiency in his command, and was signally honored by the War Department, recently being rated as one of the three North Carolinians whose efficiency qualified them for appointment on the General Staff. Dr. Pratt is still suffering from wounds received while in service in France.

CAROLINA DOES WELL IN JUDGE'S CONTEST

Tar Baby is Rated as Eleventh in College Wits Number of Judge.

In the recent college wits contest conducted by Judge Carolina won the 17th place, ranking above sixty-three other colleges and universities, some of which are much larger institutions than Carolina.

Out of the 3,000 text contributions and over 500 art contributions, which came in from 80 colleges and universities covering every part of the country and Canada, four contributions from Carolina were published. C. R. Sumner had a large cartoon in the college wits number, and a like piece of work in the following issue which was crowded out of the college wits number. E. H. Abernathy and W. D. Carmichael both had verse contributions published.

The silver trophy cup, awarded to the college making the best showing, went to Columbia, with Pennsylvania as a close second.

A number of universities, much larger than Carolina, made a showing considerably below that of this institution. While Carolina made a standing of eleven points, Virginia registered only five points, Georgia Tech two, Vanderbilt three, and Texas and Northwestern each only a few points.

DURHAM PREACHER SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

Dr. Welch Who Has Been Holding Revival Here—Speaks to Students.

Dr. Welch, of the First Baptist church of Durham and who has this week been conducting a revival meeting at the Baptist church of Chapel Hill, spoke on "The True Definition of a Man," in Chapel Friday morning, April 8. In the older days, Dr. Welch showed, a man was regarded as a weak individual who was a victim of circumstance. He felt himself bound by heredity and environment, and was wont to bemoan his fate. But regardless of these things man has grown to feel a great amount of freedom and has grown into a fine specimen of humanity.

Sometimes man was thought of as a fighter, a strong type of masculinity, a great warrior. Saul was a man of this type when he was chosen king of Judea. He was selected because of his prowess, and because he was a man who could strike terror in the enemy's heart. There are still men today, according to Dr. Welch, who still think of the warrior as the man. But in the last few years this feeling has been gradually losing ground. In France, for instance, Pasteur is regarded as the man of France instead of Napoleon as formerly. Still others think that the man of brains, the thinker, the man with an abundance of grey matter as the man.

Dr. Welch then told of the true man as Jesus Christ thought of him. He is the man of personality and who pours out his personality and life for the service and benefit of others. Such a man was William E. Gladstone of England. After he had reached an advanced age he continued to offer his services to the English people by serving in Parliament, and to give his life in the service of others. "He was a servant of the people, and an embodiment of Jesus Christ."

CAROLINA FRESHMEN LOSE TO VIRGINIA

The Virginia Freshman defeated the Carolina Freshman Saturday in a rather uninteresting game on Emerson Field. The score was 4 to 0. Coffee pitched a masterly game for the Freshman, striking out eight men and showing up strong in the pinches but the team was crippled by the loss of seven members through poor scholarship standing.

Fotser opened things for Virginia with a home run in the first frame with a man on base. Coffee held them until the eighth inning almost single-handed, then they connected with his offerings and got two more runs.

Although the local fresh hit hard at times they lacked the punch in the essential moments, the crucial moments.

Howdy Pete!

Philadelphia—Tuesday.

Always learn something when I head into this old town. Passed my deck of Camels to a fine, business-looking citizen in the Pullman dressing room this morning and this opened up a conversation. Listen, Pete, that man talked the Camel language according to Hoyle!

"Camels are the very quintessence of cigarettes" said this party, Pete, get that word? It fits—it spreads the news—it spills the whole Camel story! And, if you don't get what I'm driving to you, look up the word in Webster's! Why, Uncle Dan put it there when he dreamed Camels were coming! That man slipped into one word—mellow-wild-body, no cigarette aftertaste, no cigarette odor—and—the best cigarette in the world at any price!

Pete, why do you hear men of all types everywhere actually boosting Camels? That's because they know Camels are right! They know from Camels flavor that Camels have the quality—and—they know that Camels blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos makes the most delightful cigarette any man ever put between his lips!

Old oil well, I'm no gusher, but the way Camels are going to more and more men every one of the seven days in every week is a sight to see!

Leaving for K.C. tonight housed as close to the roof as they could put me! Drop me a line care HOTEL Baltimore.

Peter: Like that Camel "swish" up top? Think I'll adopt it as my letterhead. S.

Shorty.
