

YEAR AS A WHOLE IS A SUCCESSFUL ONE IN ALL ATHLETIC PHASES

State Championship Held by Tar Heels in Baseball and Basketball.

FOOTBALL IS ONLY MAR.

By JAKE WADE.
When the Trinity College victory rung down the curtain on the 1921 baseball season, and when the Tar Heels copped fourth place in the South Atlantic track meet on the same day, Carolina closed one of her most successful athletic years. State championship honors were won in basketball and baseball, and missed by a single point in track. Championship over South Carolina could be claimed in both basketball and baseball and over Virginia in baseball. The reverses of the football season, and defeats by North Carolina State and Virginia on the gridiron, were the chief mars of an otherwise highly successful athletic year.

The year was marked by many significant events for Carolina. The basketball and baseball teams were, perhaps, the best teams that have ever represented the Blue and White. The coming of Coach Bill Fetzter, who did his first work for Carolina with the coaching of the baseball team this spring, and who will be at the head of athletics here permanently with Bob Fetzter, his brother, as assistant, was one of the most important events of the year, and marks the beginning of a new era in Carolina athletics. Coach Bill Fetzter's popularity which had already been acquired through his reputation as a coach at Davidson and State was only augmented in the eyes of the Carolina student body by his notable work with the baseball team here this spring.

Baseball Season Big Success.
Coach Fetzter had the material for a successful baseball team, and he used it to advantage. With Llewellyn, Wilson, Sweetman, Lowe, and McLean, as letter men and with such men as Fred Morris, Roy Morris, Shirley and McDonald from last year's freshman team, Fetzter had a squad of ball players seldom equalled in a college of Carolina's size. Frank Spruill, an old Carolina man, was a newcomer and he immediately showed himself to be a versatile ball player that knew all sorts of baseball and could hit, run and field, and Fetzter saw fit to shove Shirley to the outfield and put Spruill on the initial sack, one of his wisest moves. Both these men played star ball throughout the season. Carolina won sixteen games, lost four, and tied one. Carolina defeated Virginia in all three games of the annual series, the first time either of these teams has ever accomplished this feat. The team was a slugging aggregation, long drives being especially frequent. Llewellyn, Bryson, and Wilson were the leading moundsmen. Llewellyn led the team in hitting but only went to bat forty-nine times, while Spruill, who was up seventy-five times, can perhaps be called the real leader. Fred Morris was third in the batting averages for the season.

Football Season Only Mar.
The reverses of the football season was the only mar of the year. Carolina fought and lost a hard schedule. Defeated by both North Carolina State and Virginia, and winners only from Wake Forest and South Carolina, the season must be called a failure. Coaches Fuller and Hite had a big proposition before them with much inexperienced calibre to work with, and with their coaching methods essentially different from what the Tar Heels were accustomed to everything seemed to handicap. Captain Beemer Harrell, Runt Lowe, John Hutchins, and Dave Jacobi, were perhaps the outstanding stars of the season, although Tenney, Hanby, Morris, Poindexter, and all the rest come in for their share of glory as they went down with colors still flying.

Championship Quint.
Major Boye, who had charge of the coaching of the basketball team for the year, was blessed with unusually good material, and as a result he turned out the best basketball team that has ever represented Carolina. Although the record of twelve victories and eight defeats does not impress one as being unusually remarkable, together with the registering of 668 points against opponents 487,

ACADEMIC CLASSES IN MEETINGS ELECT THE OFFICERS FOR 1921-2

William Bobbitt is Unanimously Elected President of the Present Senior Class.

PHIPPS TO LEAD SENIORS

The Senior class met Tuesday in the Di hall and elected permanent officers according to the custom of senior classes. William Haywood Bobbitt, of Statesville, was unanimously elected permanent president of his class. Bobbitt is a Golden Fleece man, a wearer of a Phi Beta Kappa key, and an intercollegiate debater. He has been president of the Di society, and is recognized by the student body as one of the foremost orators on the campus.

William Haywood Kunn, Jr., of Louisville, was elected vice president. Ruffin was manager of this year's baseball team, and is very popular in his class. Charles Wiley Phillips, voted the most representative member of the student body, was elected secretary. John D. Shaw, of Charlotte, was unanimously elected treasurer.

The election of class officers for the rising senior class was held in Phillips Hall Tuesday afternoon, resulting in the election of L. J. Phipps of Chapel Hill for president. W. C. Murchison of Greensboro for vice president, J. S. Williamson of Burlington as secretary and treasurer. David Jacobi who has recently returned to the University from Baltimore where he has been under treatment for injury received in football was elected as class representative on the campus cabinet.

The sophomore election of class officers was held in chemistry hall with a large attendance of the class members present. Mr. Thomas Turner, of High Point, was chosen president of the rising junior class. E. R. Shirley of Snow Hill, was elected vice president and D. G. Downing of Cedar Creek, secretary and treasurer. Because of the necessity for the use of Chemistry hall for a 2:30 class the meeting was adjourned and no member of the campus cabinet chosen.

The class of 1924 met in Gerrard hall Tuesday afternoon and elected officers for next year's sophomore class. Baxter Gillain, the president, presided over the meeting. John Ambler, of Asheville, was elected president; Bernard Wright, of Greensboro, was chosen as vice president; Bretney Smith, of Asheville, was elected secretary and treasurer; and E. H. Hartsell, of Stanfield, was chosen as the class representative on the campus cabinet.

CARMICHAEL TALKS TO STUDENTS IN GERARD

Speaks in Chapel Tuesday Morning on "Why Do Men Fail in College?"

W. D. Carmichael, speaking in chapel last Tuesday morning, on the question of "Why do men fail in college?" said that the answer was in their inability to say "No" to a temptation. He cited instances to prove his point.

Carmichael said that hardly any senior in college at the present time has attained the things that he desired to attain when he first entered the University. He said that this was not due to inability but to his lack of the power to say "No" to anything that tended to keep them from their duties.

He told of the temptation to go to the Pickwick when you have a quiz to get up for the next day. He said that the inability to say "No" to such temptations as this is the fundamental reason for college failure. He cited his own experiences as proof for his points and pointed out that if a man is to be successful in college he must learn to say "No" to temptations when he has an important duty to perform.

C. J. Williams, next year's Y. M. C. A. president, delivered a short, interesting talk to a small number of men in the Y reading room last Tuesday night. He selected as his subject, "Excuses." In the course of his remarks pointed out forceful illustrations where excuses were worse than worthless. In conclusion he stated that "one who excuses himself accuses himself."

NEW TAR HEEL BOARD TO BE SELECTED FROM THE FOLLOWING LIST OF NOMINATIONS.

In accordance with the provisions of the constitution of nominations for the several offices on the Tar Heel Board. To the General Athletic Association, I am making the following list of nominations first made has been added the name, at the time of general nominations, of one man who is also a member of the present board. And so, the complete list of nominees follows:

JONATHAN W. DANIELS, Editor-in-Chief

C. J. PARKER, Assistant Editor
L. D. SUMMEY, Assistant Editor
W. H. ATKINSON, Assistant Editor
G. W. MCCOY, Assistant Editor
(Vote for Two)

JAKE WADE, Managing Editor
BOB GRAY, Managing Editor
JAMES Y. KERR, Managing Editor
(Vote for One)

B. HUME BARDIN, Assignment Editor
J. G. GULLICK, Assignment Editor
(Vote for One)

At the time I asked the managing editor to save this space for my use, I had anticipated that there might be further nominations made from the student body. As there were none, I have no occasion to make the statement that I had intended making.

The student body has done right in not making nominations of outsiders, and I now commend to it the task of selecting the best men from the above list. All of these men have been members of the board for at least a half a year, most of them for the entire year. All of these men are capable, and any board that you may select from this list will produce for you for the coming year the best Tar Heel that has yet been produced. They will be enabled to gather up the accomplishments and experiences of this year and project them into the future, rather than being compelled to start anew at the beginning of the coming college year.

DANIEL L. GRANT.

TAR HEEL SCRIBES ARE GIVEN FINE WORK OUT

Business Manager Throws Bouquet For Hard Working Reporters and a Night of Relief is Enjoyed.

Business Manager Phillip Hettlemann opened up his heart and his pocketbook Monday night and presented the Tar Heel Board with one of the biggest little parties ever staged in these parts. All the counts and the no-accounts was there. The party lost sight of every sign of sobriety—who knows but what the Volstead Act was included?—and there was nothing to detract from a perfect night of revelry for the college scribe.

The common hard working reporters usurped the office of Editor-in-Chief for the night and Dan Grant was reduced to the contemptible role of cub reporter. However, since he retained some little dignity, which was forgotten entirely by the remainder of the crew, he was allowed to preside and do the high knocker stunt even though he was addressed as "Mister Reporter." With a passionate line across his sophisticated brow he called on Monsieur Charley Parker for an inspired letter and a few lines of poetry he had written while in maudlin feelings on a rainy and lonesome Sunday afternoon, to a little bob-haired blonde in the City of Oaks. Charley grew extremely sentimental after the first few lines and then became uncontrollably passionate as he warbled through thirteen pages of tepid love, after which he sank back into his chair with tears in his eyes.

By this time the grape fruit had been sopped up and the efficient Jim Stroud and his worthy assistant brought in great healthy gobs of beef steak, trimmed with green peas and mashed potatoes. As the last of the beef steak was being fought over by Dice Daniels and Luscious Summey, Commodore Grant got up and yelled to Bob Gray: "a little political spiel entitled 'I Love the University.'"

He was kicked into a state of semi-consciousness and blundered through a vague political speech directed at all his rivals. "Somebody in this crowd is a thief, a crook, and a grafter, and I give you my right hand it is not I," said the fearless Bob. He was immediately mobbed by an incessant stream of pop bottles and other mysterious vials, until he finally admitted that the gentleman he was attacking was seated on his immediate right hand. Whereupon Jake Wade arose and said that he, for one, was not a liar, not a crook, not a grafter, but that he knew one who was all

LLEWELLYN IS CAPTAIN OF NEXT YEAR'S TEAM

Carolina's Dependable Moundsman and Leader of Team in Hitting Unanimously Elected by Team

Llewellyn was unanimously elected captain of the 1922 baseball team by his team mates in Durham Saturday after the final game of the season with Trinity College.

The news of his election to the captainship of next season's team was welcomed with great satisfaction by the campus. His three year's service as a varsity moundsman, his timely and terrific hitting during the season just ended, and his general popularity make him especially fitted to pilot Fetzter's baseball aggregation for next season.

Big "Lew" hails from Dobson, N. C., and he has always been rated as a first class ball player. Last year in every game he pitched he distinguished himself, and this season he has been at his best in every contest. At bat has been some of his best work, and the elongated twirler led the Tar Heels in hitting for the season just closed.

PATTERSON SPEAKS ON SCHOLARSHIP IN CHAPEL

Speaks of Regulations That the University Enforces in Regard to Courses and Attendance.

Speaking in chapel last Monday morning Dean Patterson, of the School of Applied Science spoke on the rules that the University has to govern scholarship.

Mr. Patterson told of the regulations that the University enforces in regard to courses and attendance. He said that the freshmen who do not pass four full courses cannot return next year. He stated this rule had never been broken as far as he knows, and that it was iron clad. He said that this rule has to be enforced because of some students who are too lazy to pass their work. He said that there was some excuse for the student who has poor preparation but that the rule must be applied because of some lazy students who could pass their work if they try. He said that there was no danger of a student coming here unprepared and not passing enough work off to come back if he has a serious purpose in view.

Dr. H. W. Odum, Kenan Professor of Public Welfare, delivered the address at the closing exercises of the Plymouth High School on Tuesday night of this week.

ALL PREPARATIONS ARE COMPLETED FOR FINAL DANCES JUNE 15 AND 16

Weidemyer's Saxophone Orchestra With Two Pianos is to Furnish the Jazz for the Occasion.

HOLD DANCES IN SWAIN

The 1921 final dances are going to be the final word in joyful jazz. Weidemyer's Saxophone Orchestra, our friends of the fall and spring dances, will again be with us, and more than that they are going to bring along two piano players, and of course, "Skinny." Over a hundred of the South's most beautiful have already accepted the invitations to be on hand for the fifteenth and sixteenth of next month to help us make Swain Hall a temple of joy.

As usual the dances are going to be held in Swain Hall, for the crowds expected will be more than the gym could possibly handle. But the Swain of the dances will not be the Swain of our present acquaintance, a rejuvenation of the old place will take place as soon as exams are over. Chief Ball Manager Billy Carmichael, assisted by his minions, the assistant managers, will have the floor in excellent condition, and he is planning something extraordinary in the way of decoration. Even the most habitual Swainite will not know the place.

Another brilliant feature of this year's dances will be the attractive favors given to the ladies. These favors will not only be a souvenir of the occasion, but will be both beautiful and useful.

It is the aim of Manager Carmichael to set a lasting precedent for Carolina finals. There will be no enormous profits for the managers, as has hitherto been the practice. The dances will not be cheapened to lower the cost, but they are going to be run on an entirely new plan. In a few days cards are going to be distributed around the campus; all who at the time intend to be on hand for the dances, will be asked to sign. These cards will in no way be considered a pledge, but will only be intended to give the managers a line on the number that will be here. The cost of the dances will be regulated according to these cards. If two hundred sign, the cost will be only ten dollars a man for all the dances, if there are more than two hundred the cost will be still lower.

Visitors are going to be allowed, for with the floor space that Swain Hall affords, and with the number of girls that will be here there will be no fear of a too crowded affair.

The dances will start on Wednesday, the 15th of June. There will be a dance Wednesday afternoon and another that night. On Thursday there will be three dances, morning, afternoon and night.

The Ball Managers for this year are: Chief, Billy Carmichael; assistants, Ike Thorp, Will Ruffin, Jessie Erwin, John Shaw, Wade Gardener and Saunders Williamson.

CAROLINA WINS FOURTH PLACE IN TRACK MEET

Royall, Yates, Ranson, Smiley, and Abernathy Place in South Atlantic Track Event.

Below is a score of the events of the South Atlantic Track meet recently held in Washington, D. C., in which Carolina won fourth place with 15 points. These figures are taken from The News and Observer of Sunday. Georgetown University was first in the meet while V. M. I. came out second and V. P. I. third.

Four to be chosen.

SENIORS AND JUNIORS MUST FILE SCHEDULES

Wilson Announces That Rising Seniors and Juniors Must File Schedules by June First.

Dr. Thomas J. Wilson announces that all rising seniors and juniors are required to file a schedule of their courses for next year in his office by the first of June. The necessary blanks for filing this schedule can be obtained in his office.

The juniors and seniors are required to do this so that the registrar and the department heads may know what courses the student intends to major and minor in and may make their plans accordingly. It is required that every student see the department head before he registers for a major or minor in his department. Through this the department will offer such assistance as is necessary in enabling the student to map out a satisfactory course.

After the schedules have been "o-kayed" by the department heads they will then go back to the registrar's office where such changes and recommendations as may be necessary will be made. This system will enable these students to return to college next fall with a definite line on the work that they are facing during the coming term and year. The registration of juniors and seniors for the coming terms will also be made much easier, as they will
