Vol. XXX, December 13, 1921 No. 21

CONTROVERSY'S END

After the very unhappy controversy that we felt bound to engage in with the editor of the Magazine we are particularly glad to be among those who see much to praise in the most recent issue of the publication.

After so much, of what we deemed, unnecessary editorial clamor we are delighted to see the Magazine editor strike a certain sane style that clearly shows the definite social problem as it exists on the Carolina campus.

With him we see this problem as he present pictures it. For a great while we have sensed the situation and wondered after the remedy for it. Mr. Horner has stated a social situation here and in a way that will lead to greater things has pointed out the cure for it.

It was a great pity that the two publications could not have avoided the controversy that temporarily tore them apart and prevented the power they might have wielded as a unit for the best that can be built here. It was unfortunate that the surface scum of an issue should have caused a disruption of the closest co-operation when the final issue so splendidly stated by the Magazine editor is an evil that the two publications can agree and work together for its removal.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Th fall quarter draws to a close and with the end of the time when new men are adjusted to the office they hold within the student body and as the year that was new begins to reach maturity there comes the day when we should take stock of ourselves and state for the benefit of ourselves and others the things we hope to do during the remainder of the year 1921-1922.

So with the hope of doing some little good on the campus the Tar Heel presents to the student body of the University its tentative editorial program for the year.

1. The establishment of an organization on the order of the Athletic Association to have charge of the administration of all University publications.

2. The alleviation of the non-fraternity problem with particular regard to the establishment on the campus of a definite student center. If possible the miracle of a human social center in the place of a spiritual tomb in the Y. M. C. A. building.

3. A better and cheaper administration of the supposedly co-operative Book Exchange and a published statement by that concern of its disbursements and receipts.

4. A plea for more of the better things in art, music, and drama.

5. Beside these other problems as they shall arise in all of which the Tar Heel shall stand as the organ not of the Athletic Association, the faculty, or even the student body but of that which touches all and lives in all years, "The University."

HOLIDAY SUGGESTIONS

Th end of the week shall find the fervid glow of mid-night lights, the mad reading of long tedious text books, eyes strained with work and lips drawn with fear of failure, and eyes careless and lips smiling. Some who study will fail and some who do not will pass. For all of us the isolation of Chapel Hill and the ironies of education will be forgotten in the more important time we will spend in the gay whirl of the Christmas season in Sneeds Ferry, Pee Dee, and Raleigh.

We will come back with new resolutions ready for the new year to break them. To the members of the Freshman class going home for the first time we would like to suggest a few resolutions that they will do well not to break.

Leave your golf trousers at the old homestead. Knickerbockers are a distinct innovation here and it is not the part of freshmen to take part in this still youthful departure in campus fashions.

Get Santa Claus to bring you a hat that you can wear at all times and to all places while you are a first year man at the University.

Get your vocal chords in shape so that you will be able to speak to all upperclassmen as well as your class-mates as you pass them on the campus.

Lose that "college man" idea and come back with the humble remembrance that you are still even a little child.

These words are sent out as a forlorn hope for better things to the Freshman class that has the uncertain honor of being the freshest Freshman class within the memory of the present college generation.

AT OTHER COLLEGES

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 9.—The Trinity Glee Club gave a splendid concert in Queens College auditorium on Tuesday evening. The Glee Club was excellently trained and furnished a very enjoyable program. The Mandolin club was splendid too. The orchestra under the direction of Mr. K. B. Patterson, was a great addition to the entertainment for the evening. A reception for the Glee club followed the concert. Queens is looking forward to their concert again next year.

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 14.—On the night of December 14th Queens Blues staff is to bring a Redpath Chataqua number to the college. The Harry Mercer company consisting of Harry Yeazelle Mercer, tenor, Miss Gretchen Cox, violinist, and a pianist, will give a concert. Mr. Mercer's exceptionally clear tenor voice is remembered by many of the girls who have heard him with the chataqua. Miss Cox is a well known violinist of Chicago.

Myron Fuller, coach of the 1920 Carolina team, has had a fair season at Tulane this year. Tulane had a very hard schedule and showed up well against the colleges played. Although well sprinkled with defeats Tulane's season of 1921 cannot be called a failure, for in many defeats, the Olive and Blue showed stuff which will develop into one of Dixie's greatest teams.

Coach Jim White, of Wake Forest College, has resigned his position recently as head coach. The reason of his departure is not known. General opinion among the Baptist students is that he resigned because that he thought he had not received the proper support both from Alumni and students. His resignation followed a meeting of the faculty.

"Big" Floyd, star guard and tackle for the past three years on the N. C. State college team, was elected captain for the 1922 season at a banquet of the eleven a few days ago.

Tom Neal, all-state end, and one of Trinity's best players, was elected captain of the Methodist 1922 team at a banquet held in Durham last Saturday.

"Sprat" Moore, an all-state half back, was elected captain of the Davidson team for 1922, in a banquet held in Winston recently. Moore is considered one of the best halves in the state.

Then the Club Adjourned. Some one told a good dog story and the inevitable better one followed. "We had a cat at home," related the quiet man in the corner, "which was fond of playing with the wife's ball of wool. One day the cat swallowed it, and some months later when kittens were born they were all wearing jumpers."

Pertinent Paragraphs

Did you ever expect to see so much spirit shown over a high school football game?

Or spirits?

Have the co-eds as much spirit as the high school girls? Maybe, but we never saw any of them rushing out on the field and fervently embracing "Runt" or "Red," or Poindexter.

The glances of several students at the games indicated that they thought the Winston snake dance a centipede caper.

The local health officer has advised all students to carry a can of Black Flag to protect themselves from the roaches that are infesting the campus.

The hose used to fight the late fire has been taken up and it was only left a little more than a week. That's the old efficiency.

Fayetteville claims that she took the "burn" out of New Bern. But the latter still seems to be burning with indignation.

We have a hunch that from last Monday till sometime in the distant future, more students will observe probation than do prohibition.

Willie, after reading your editorial, we would place a bet that you are through with Spanish.

The Dialectic Society has a new song, "Where, Oh Where Have Our Liberty Bonds Gone?"

Since the advent of the dark horse from Greensboro, C. J. P., Jr., has lost all affection for anything Skottish.

Does the Hi-Y Club concern basketball scores?

Thirteen Shieks riding Bulls and Dragons are on the war path.

If the roach movement lasts much longer there will be another Perseus out for blood.

And possibly a Jason running around also.

Edgar Allen was a little off when he wrote "The Conqueror Worm," he should have called it the "The Conqueror Roach."

ITEMS OF INTEREST

C. O. Snell spent the week-end in Wilmington, Elizabeth City, New Bern, and vicinity, promoting the field of work offered by the University Extension Bureau.

All students who desire to occupy the same room during the winter and spring terms should deposit $5 in the treasurer's office on or before December 20. After this date all rooms on which no deposit has been made will be assigned in order of application.

All students who did not receive the sheet for self-help statistics in chapel Monday, may procure the same at Dean Bradshaw's office or at the "Y."

Prof. P. H. Daggett, head of the Engraving Department, has returned from New York City where he attended a meeting of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education last week.

Prof. Thorndike Seville, of the Mathematics Department, attended the state section of the American Waterworks Association in Greensboro last Friday and Saturday.

The School of Public Welfare, through the University Extension Department, has recently gotten out a pamphlet entitled "Social Service and Public Welfare." This pamphlet is a study and work outline suggested for the social service groups of the North Carolina State Federation of the Woman's Club.

Dr. E. C. Branson addressed a gathering of the tide-water chamber of commerce in Hertford last week. His subject was the "Functioning of a Chamber of Commerce."

Prof. E. W. Knight, of the Department of Education delivered an address before the Civitan Club in Greensboro last Thursday night. He also attended a teachers meeting in Henderson on Saturday.

A small fire broke out in the closet under the steps of the first floor of Pettigrew at noon Friday. Students, seeing that smoke was issuing from the closet, broke the door open and extinguished the fire. The only thing burning was an old broom and piece of a box. No damage was done.

Robert Shepard, of Rockingham and Newton were initiated into the Kappa Pi Saturday night.

Percy Grant, Blackwell Sawyer and Jarrett White were initiated into Delta Tau Delta Tuesday night.

McNair Smith has fully recovered from a slight attack of pneumonia and is now back at work.

The North Carolina Section of the American Water Works Association met in Greensboro Friday and Saturday, December 9 and 10. Prof. Thorndike Saville, who is also the Hydraulic Engineer of the North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey, represented this department at that meeting.

Miss Francis Williamson, of Fayetteville, and a student at Flora McDonald, was the guest of Miss Alice Lee Brown during last week, attending the game here Saturday afternoon.

M. I. Pickens, of Trinity, was a week-end visitor here Saturday and Sunday, stopping with R. S. Pickens, his brother.

Four officers of Camp Bragg, came to Chapel Hill in government aeroplanes Saturday, to see the state high school championship game. This is the second time that they have come here in the same manner, having paid the Hill a visit the week before for the Fayetteville-New Bern game.

AT THE PICKWICK

Justine Johnston, called the prettiest girl on Broadway, will come to the screen of the "Pick" on Wednesday evening in "A Heart To Let." Harrison Ford plays opposite the beautiful Justine.

The chief attraction on the Thursday evening program will be Irving Bacheller's "Keeping Up With Lizzie," featuring Enid Bennett. This is a picture that is full of enjoyable and care-free entertainment of the highest order, and is a remarkably true and clever picturization of the book itself. Those who have read the book will be delighted as its characters come to life before their eyes surprisingly like what we expected them to be, and as the scenes portray the humor of the story in a way that makes it more deliciously gratifying than ever. One follows the doings of Lizzie with rapt attention and expectancy, all the way from Pointview to finishing school in the East, abroad, and back home again with the count, where her old sweetheart, Dan, finally makes a strong come-back much to the discomfiture of the distinguished suitor from aboard. And of course it wouldn't be an Irving Bacheller story if it didn't end up in just the way that everybody likes, but as a surprise, not in just the way that everybody expected.

Friday evening will see the presentation on the screen of Kipling's famous story, "Without Benefit of Clergy."—B. H. B.

CAROLINA QUINT LOSES TO DURHAM Y. M. C. A. IN OPENING EXHIBITION

The man with his pencil and score-book bobbing up in front of the referee got to be such a common thing that the spectators took to booing him off every time he made himself evident. The appearance of the two Carmichaels on the Durham floor excited considerable local interest, as both men are from Durham and have been bright lights in athletic circles there for the past five or ten years.

The strength of the Carolina quint cannot be judged by the exhibition put up last Saturday night. They were on a strange floor, it was the first time they have played together as a team, and the entire squad showed lack of coaching and practicing.

No such wealth of material has ever been lined up at Carolina before, and while the old McDonald-Carmichael formation, or passing system has been definitely broken up, the team has more possibility, with good coaching, than any team before assembled in the Carolina gymnasium. Not until after the Christmas holidays will be seen in action the real Carolina basketball team.
